For Promoting Conservation, State Honors Manheim Farm Family

ANDY ANDREWS

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — In the so-called "good old days," Bonnie Swarr remembers how the steer feedlot wall had a hole in it so the runoff would run out into a stream which fed into a spring, carrying manure.

Routinely, farmers would use starter fertilizer whether the crops needed it or not.

Sloped land would carry sheets of soil downward, often depositing it into a small area of wetlands on their Rapho Valley Farm.

But, thankfully, those days are far behind. For efforts to stem soil erosion and to keep their land viable and profitable for farming, the Swarrs — Jere, Bonnie, and sons Eric, 10 and Tyler, 8 — were honored with the state Agway/Conservation Farmer of the Year recognition recently at the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts (PACD) annual awards banquet in Greensburg.

The Swarr family (honored as outstanding cooperators with the district in March of this year) maintain about 167 acres on the home farm (about 148 tillable) and rent additional land, for a total of 300 tillable acres. They finish out about 1,200 head of hogs and about 360 head of beef heifers each year.

For more than six years, since the Swarrs joined the Lancaster Conservation District, the Rapho Valley Farm family has worked to preserve and protect soil and nutrient quality on their farm.

In an interview with Lancaster Farming, Jere remembered, years back, when something had to be done to stop the manure from getting into a half of an acre of wetlands on the farm. When they experienced a real "'gully-washer," said Jere, "we were having trouble with manure getting in."

Following the footsteps of his father, Earl, Jere began implementing no-till practices, which comprise about 30 percent of the total crops grown on the farm, to

Grober Inc. Presents A Modern Veal Raising Facility

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

NORTHAMPTON (Northampton Co.) — The most modern veal-raising facility in the United States was presented to the public Wednesday, as milk replacement manufacturer for veal calves, Grober Inc., held a ribbon cutting ceremony at its newest research farm near Bath.

Representatives of the veal industry, officials from the state Department of Agriculture and others interested in the veal industry attended the event, which included a tour of the 360-stall Blue Mountain View Farm facility.

Grober Inc., founded in Canada in 1974, specializes in veal feeds and in manufacturing milk replacers. It has since become international and has a headquarters not only in Canada, but in the Lehigh Valley, about seven miles from the site of the new research facility.

On first glance, the facility appears to be nothing out of the ordinary — it could well be a 180-foot, by 82-foot red-sided, modern dairy barn.

But closer inspection reveals that it is much more than that.

The layout of the building is such that the center is the feed storage, mixing and distribution center.

Projecting out from the center of the single-story building is a loading dock that is outfitted with a moveable gate system so that the 2,000-pound containers of feed can be offloaded, or a shipment of calves can be brought in or trucked out with the least amount of stress to handler and animal.

Extending out on either side of

Berks Extension Reports Year's Accomplishments, Goals

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — About 170 people attended what Steve Krupa calls the "annual shareholders meeting" held at the Berks County 4-H Community Center on Monday night.

Krupa, president of the board of directors, was referring to the Berks County Cooperative Extension Association 80th annual meeting, which reports on the activities of the extension, elects new board members, and recognizes those who make the program successful.

Newly elected to the board were Becky Stubbs, Annamarie Schick, Ted Bowers, and Thomas Versagli. Ralph Sanner will replace an ex-officio member.

Evalina Bonilla was presented with a Nittany Lion statue for her 25 years as an adviser for the Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP).

As an adviser Bonilla has taught hundreds of women who lived in housing projects, mushroom growing areas, and low-income housing how to cook nutritiously. Through her efforts, many mothers were able to reclaim children who

Providence Acres Provides New Home For Abma Family

Providence Acres, owned and operated by Shawn, Dorothy and Henry Abma, is a Dairy of Distinction located in the Endless Mountains of Pennsylvania.

EAST TROY (Bradford Co.) — God is in control.

These simple words printed on a chalk board greet all visitors to the Abma farm and serve as a simple testament to a faith that allowed 45-year-old Henry Abma, his wife, Dorothy, and their youngest son, Shawn, to make a move into unknown territory.

That unknown territory not only meant moving to a new location, but also starting a totally new career.

"We moved on May 26, 1981 from Wyckoff, New Jersey. The farm we came from was a poultry and a truck farm operation. It was called Abma's Farm. There we raised chickens and we had a big farm store that we used to sell products to the public. There were also retail and wholesale routes," said Dorothy.

The idea to move was sparked mainly because of a deteriorating egg market. It became cheaper to buy eggs and the egg routes themselves were falling off. In addition, Henry's two brothers and their families were also active on the farm.

"We decided it's time we move," said Dorothy.

So the family started doing their homework. They contacted farm accountant Duane Mattocks through a mutual friend and he helped them every step of the way.

"We wanted to know what we needed. We had the money to buy a farm, but we wanted to know how much money we needed to buy our cows, your spring needs and all," said Dorothy.

"My husband had looked for almost 10 years for a farm. We really wanted to be beef farmers but we realized that we couldn't. We always looked in this area. He circled a spot on a map, and right in the center is where we landed," she said.

"I really feel it's helped production"
— David Bomberger

David Bomberger, a dairy farmer in Lebanon, PA, installed a hammer mill from Automatic Farm System last winter. Already he sees a big difference from the roller mill he had before.

"This mill does a much better job of cutting the corn -- now we can get it fine enough. We're feeding the same amount of corn, but the cows are utilizing it better. You see less grain in the manure. And I really feel it's helped production."

Give us a call to learn how an AFS hammer mill will work on your dairy operation, with low initial cost and low maintenance.

NORTHEAST LIVE HEN REPORT, OCTOBER 18, 1994. FEDERAL-STATE

Pricing continues to hold about unchanged on light type fowl compared to last week while sales are too few to report on heavy hens. Offerings from production areas are easily keeping slaughter schedules at or near full capacity. Demand is no better than moderate. Finished product sales are seasonally active, however there remains an adequate to fully adequate supply of raw material. Undertone generally steady.

ATLANTA, GA
OCTOBER 19, 1994

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE:

Prices were unchanged to higher in the Northeast and Midwest, and generally unchanged elsewhere. The market tone was steady to firm. Demand continued mostly moderate in a mixed range, with retail specials and fast food breakfast promotions providing the best demand. Supplies of the large sizes were adequate or available at higher prices, and the light sizes were barely adequate to adequate. Breaking stock supplies were about adequate and prices increased. Live hen offerings continued to exceed the minimal demand, and the undertone was generally steady.

Delmarva Broiler

EDISON, NJ

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was light to moderate and generally unaggressive. Offerings were readily available on over 3 pound sizes; adequate to closely cleared on 2.25 to 2.5 pound sizes. Live supplies were moderate. Weights varied, but were mostly desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were very heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 52 to 63 cents Trade sentiment was steady to weak. In the parts complex, bone in breast were in closer balance and additional offerings were held with increased confidence. Leg quarters and wings were fully adequate to ample.

Swine AI Workshop

SALISBURY, Md. — A swine artificial insemination (AI) workshop will be held on Friday, December 2, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore Swine Research and Education Facility in Princess Anne, Md.

The program will be repeated in its entirety on Saturday, December 10 at the St. Mary's County Fairgrounds in Leonardtown, Md.

In addition to receiving classroom instruction, workshop participants will have the opportunity to collect semen from boars and artificially inseminate sows and gilts.

The registration fee, which covers lunch and AI equipment, is $15 per person. Registration is limited to 20 people at each location. To obtain a registration form and a copy of the program, contact Dr. Mark Estienne, Department of Agriculture, University of Maryland Eastern Shore, Princess Anne, MD 21853, (410) 651-6194. The registration deadline is November 23.

A performance-tested boar sale, sponsored by the Maryland Pork Producers Association, will be conducted during the workshop in Leonardtown. It will take place at approximately 1 p.m. For additional information about the sale, contact Steve Ernst at (301) 842-3926.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

THIS WEEK WITH

UNITED NATIONS DAY, OCT. 24.

A LINK WITH THE OCEAN, A LINK WITH THE PAST

October 25 marks the anniversary of the opening of the Erie Canal in 1825. The 363-mile-long canal opened an important water route from Lake Erie to the ocean, but convincing Congress to authorize funding for the project was a long and difficult process. The canal's champion, Governor De Witt Clinton of New York, originally approached Congress in 1810 His first plan was rejected, but he tried again in 1815, and funding was finally approved in 1816. Construction on the $7.6 million project was started on July 4, 1817. Although political strife led to Clinton's retiring from public life in 1823, his supporters rallied and he was reelected as governor before the canal's completion

Rome was not built in a day.

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ To remove crayon marks from painted walls, scrub with a dab of toothpaste.

EARTHWISE

If you're buying new tires before the season of ice and snow gets underway, here are some things to consider. Radial tires result in the best gas mileage, and steel-belted radials are usually the most efficient. Keep your tires properly inflated — underinflation can waste up to 5% of a car's fuel due to increased rolling resistence. Patronize a dealer who will recycle your old tires. They may charge you a few dollars for this service, but the cost to all of us of not recycling is far greater

BUTTERMILK CORN BREAD

1 cup whole wheat flour
1 cup cornmeal
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups buttermilk
2 eggs
1/4 cup vegetable oil
1/4 cup brown sugar

Combine flour, cornmeal, baking powder, baking soda, and salt. In a separate bowl whisk together remaining ingredients until smooth and add to the flour mixture. Pour into a greased 9-inch square pan and bake at 400° F for about 20 minutes, until golden brown

Makes 6 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

NORTHEAST: Cold wave, clear, then rainy and cool; clearing, turning sunny and seasonable.

SOUTHEAST: Possible offshore hurricane; heavy rain coast and eastern Florida; then clearing and milder.

MIDWEST: Rainy, cold, freezing rain and snow north, then clearing, milder.

NORTHWEST: Cold and rainy, sleet and snow mountains; clearing and warmer coast.

19 More Reasons

NEW CONSTRUCTION OR REMODEL WORK

1. Big Dutchman and Hershey Equipment is #1 in owner loyalty. More people buy Big Dutchman when they remodel than any other system.
2. Our Profit-tier system adapts to your old building.
3. Re-use your old corners to save money.
4. Big Dutchman's superior suspension system keeps the cages from sagging between stands. Competitive systems sag.
5. Lower maintenance costs. Talk to our customers - Then talk to theirs!
6. Better Performance! This isn't just talk. Ask your feed company to show you records from a Big Dutchman system to compare to a competitive system.
7. Big Dutchman high lip feed trough is designed to reduce spillage into the walkways. Look at a competitors walkway and measure the thickness of wasted feed.
8. Your old hoppers aren't wore out. Save money and reuse them on your new system.
9. We have our own installation crews to be sure the equipment is properly installed: Competition hires outside crews.
10. Eggs move gently from the birds, to the belts and thru the collector unit. The eggs are not like balls in a bowling alley as in some competitive systems.
11. Incredible! New left hand drive allows feed chain to travel up to 120 F.P.M.
12. Your present gearboxes and motors can be re-used to save money.
13. The Big Dutchman chain feeder gives 2½ times more feeder space than the grind auger.
14. It's a proven fact. Chain feeder systems use less electricity.
15. Big Dutchman has a stronger cage top and front than competitive cages.
16. The sliding door on a Big Dutchman system is easy to open and close and it stays closed.
17. The Big Dutchman collector is the best there is. Don't accept an imitation.
18. Our cage design allows eggs to roll front and out of the cage, not get stepped on and cracked by birds as in competitive cages.
19. Big Dutchman systems provides a bigger percentage of larger eggs for a longer period of time.

OPINION

Congratualtions To Fair Exhibitors

Congratulations to all who have shown cattle and livestock during the 1994 county fair season. And thank you.

Especially to those who showed cattle. It wasn't the easiest year to decide to take out time to select, train, wash and trim animals with the threat of bovine virus diarrhea and vaccination records necessary.

We hope those who opted out this year will be back next, and those who did show didn't take anything contagious home with them.

It's always pleasant to watch good, groomed animals shown well, as it is to have judges who explain their placings, even if not all are in agreement.

Local county shows are the premier place for the nonfarming community to see how well farm animals are really cared for.

While the big competitive shows are the highlight of the breeders' year, the county or regional show ring is where the public relations really count.

Dirty, undercared for animals should never be entered in local fair shows, no matter that in some instances, where insufficient animals have been entered for competition, the premium money is just waiting to be awarded to whomever shows up with an animal of the breed.

There are plenty of misconceptions about animal care being perpetuated by people who know little or nothing of caring for an animal.

And there are many more people who go to county fairs who fit this category than go to see the high-stakes shows.

The impression made on the agriculturally unenlightened at the local level may be the only real experience they have to form a perception of the entire community of people who keep, breed and raise domestic animals.

For all of our sakes, don't make us out to be liars. Please don't show unkempt or unthrifty livestock.

To Drive To Save Gas

By driving smartly and properly maintaining your vehicle, you should be able to save money by reducing gasoline usage.

The American Petroleum Institute makes the following suggestions to help you increase fuel mileage.

Reduce your speed. At 55 miles per hour (mph) most cars obtain about 20 percent more miles to the gallon than at 70 mph. Maintain a constant speed. Variations of more than 5 mph could raise fuel consumption by 7 to 9 percent.

Avoid jackrabbit starts. They require twice as much gasoline as smooth, gradual starts.

Reduce braking by anticipating the need to slow down or stop. If you do not have to come to a full stop by slowing down early, you may reduce gasoline use by 20 percent.

Plan your trips wisely. A malfunctioning carburetor may waste 3 miles per gallon (mpg); a misfiring spark plug, 2 mpg; and a dirty air filter, 1 mpg.

Regular tuneups may save 5 to 20 percent on gasoline costs. Be sure the car has correct tire pressure. Gas mileage improves 1 percent for every 2 pounds of pressure needed to bring tires up to the recommended pressure.

Finally, do not carry extra weight. Gas consumption increases by 1 percent for every 50 pounds of extra weight.

To Check For White Mold On Soybeans

Dr. Elwood Hatley, Penn State agronomy department, reports that many areas have experienced white mold on soybeans.

The disease develops after flowering and during periods of cool, damp weather. It is most prevalent in years of adequate to excessive moisture and in fields with a lot of vegetative growth. In most cases the effect is minimal (2 to 3 percent). However, loses may be as high as 50 percent.

Infected plants have lesions with white cottony growth near the base of the stem. Large, irregular black bodies form in the cottony growth and inside the stem. This leads to wilting and death of the upper leaves and finally premature death of the infected plant.

There is no truly effective way to control the disease. Manipulating cultural practices, such as rotation, planting in 30-inch rows, and reducing plant populations are the only way to reduce the effects of the disease. There is no information available on variety tolerance to the disease.

To Evaluate Fall Tillage

Lynn Hoffman, Penn State Agronomy Department, reminds us fall tillage should only be done when needed to fit longer term agronomic program needs.

These needs may include manure incorporation, improving a systematic herbicide weed control effort, improving soil physical problems, or reducing soil compaction.

Keep in mind the soil erosion effects of fall tillage decisions. Make sure it fits within the confines of your conservation plan.

Excess tillage that reduces crop residue levels prescribed to be present at planting time in the spring could put farmers in serious compliance jeopardy. Before fall tillage plans are implemented, farmers should discuss these plans with their county Soil Conservation Service people when this is not permitted in the conservation plan.

Farmers should consider the environmental implications and look at their conservation plan before hooking up to the chisel plow or big disk.

HIDDEN AMONG THE BAGGAGE!

October 23, 1994

Background Scripture:
1 Samuel 9:15 through 10:1A, 20–24
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 106:40–48

The story of Samuel and his anointing of Saul as King over Israel is one of the most fascinating in the Bible. Here is a man, unknown to the public, who one day goes forth with his servant to look for some asses that had strayed from his father's farm. Failing to find them,his servant suggests they consult Samuel the seer of Ramah to see if he can help them find the asses. Can you imagine then how surprised Saul was when Samuel invited him to dine with him on the sacred hilltop, gave him choice cuts of food, and then announced that God had chosen Saul to be king over Israel!

And that was just the beginning of these unsettling events. Samuel also told Saul to go on to Rachel's tomb where he would meet two men with a message for him, then on to the oak at Tabor to receive two symbolic loaves of bread from the hands of three men, and finally on to Gibeath-elohim to meet a band of prophets. Strangest of all, Samuel assured him that at Gibeathelohim the Spirit of God would "come mightily upon you and you shall prophesy with them and be turned into a new man" (10:6).

All this because he had gone to a seer looking for help in finding some lost livestock! Sometimes when we go seeking the Lord, we find a lot more than that for which we were looking.

WHO ME?

Saul reacted to all this as we might expect. His first reaction to Saul's amazing news is a huge sense of inadequacy. "Am I not a Benjamite, from the least of the tribes of Israel? And is not my family the humblest of the families of the tribe of Benjamin? Why then have you spoken to me in this way?" Actually, Saul exaggerated: in 1 Samuel 9:1 we are told that Saul's father is "a man of wealth" and Saul is the tallest and most handsome man in Israel. Isn't is wonderful how humble we become when someone nominates us for a job?

His second reaction was one of action rather than words; he hid so that they could not find him. But, he was to find that day that—as Jonah had once found—when God wants you for something, it is pretty hard to hide. "...and the Lord said,'Behold he has hidden himself among the baggage'" (10:22).

What fascinates me about the story is that, in a sense, Saul was quite correct in discerning that he was inadequate for the job. God chose him and the people wanted him but Saul did not want to be king. Yes, God promised that He would turn him into "another man" and God's spirit fell mightily upon him on several occasions. But, although sometimes in the power of God's spirit he was "another man," there were times when he reverted to being the destructively insecure bumpkin whose personal inadequacies kept him from being the king Israel wanted and needed.

CROOKED STICKS

What this tells us is that God often—maybe always—chooses people who are inadequate for the job He has for them. Under His power they are sometimes able to do the things for which God calls them, but they are also flawed human beings with weaknesses and tragic inadequacies. Their human failures do not detract from or destroy the good things that God is able to do through them. Greatly flawed people can still be, with the help of God, successful leaders. Or, as someone has put it, "God can strike a mighty blow with a crooked stick."

All of us are crooked sticks in God's hands, so we have no excuse for hiding ourselves among the baggage of life when He wants to use us for His purposes.

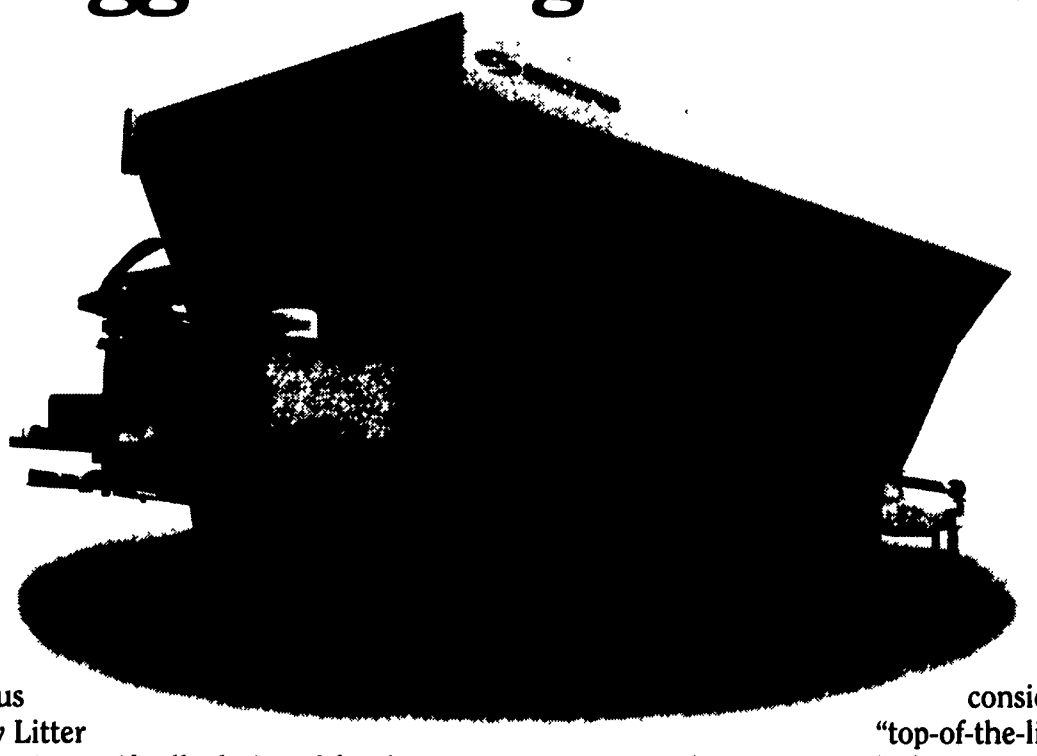
The One Spreader Big Enough For Poultry Litter, Rugged Enough For Lime.



The Stoltzfus Poultry Litter Spreader is specifically designed for the demands of this challenging job. The 20 foot hopper holds a whopping 400 cubic foot load, meaning fewer trips for you. The big 30-inch drag chain moves large volumes of litter fast. And the dual hydraulic spinners spread a wide, uniform pattern up to 40 feet wide.

But its real beauty may be its versatility. Now you can spread fertilizer, stockpiled lime, compost,poultry litter and more, all with one machine.

Long considered "top-of-the-line" ag spreaders, many Stoltzfus Spreaders are still in use after 20 years. That makes a Stoltzfus Spreader preferred not only for quality and performance, but also for terrific economy in the long run.

Sure you can settle for buying on initial price alone. But with a Stoltzfus Spreader you won't be shopping for another spreader just a couple years down the line.

Whatever your dairy nutrition program is missing, Crystalyx® has a supplement to fill the gap.

From birth to dry off, Crystalyx brand supplements, available from Agway, plug the nutritional gaps in your dairy production cycle. Mineral-rich Dairy-lyx enhances feed intake and helps prevent lameness throughout the life cycle. Dry Cow for cows already in your herd aids in reducing metabolic disorders and rebreeding problems. Anionic salts and chelated trace minerals in Close-Up Dry Cow help reduce the risk of milk fever and transition stress during pre-calving. To meet the protein and energy needs of your growing heifers, while enhancing growth and performance, choose Replacement Heifer. To improve breeding and appetites during high-stress situations use Brigade. Crystalyx supplements are a hard crystallized blend of molasses solids, protein, vitamins and trace minerals. They dissolve slowly with licking, and are naturally self limiting.

To learn more about how Crystalyx® supplements "plug all your herd's nutritional gaps" contact your local Agway Feed Sales Specialist, Agway store, or representative.

Invest your resources wisely, with varieties that have a proven record of performance in the field. Hoffman's strong line of Funk's G® brand hybrids offers you significant improvements in yields and standability.

Early Maturity. A 98-day hybrid, 4273 delivers outstanding standability and drydown, and outperformed the mean by 3.5%.

Medium Maturity. 4394 produced a whopping 12.3% more than the average, while combining outstanding standability, drydown and drought tolerance.

Full Season Maturity. 4584 delivers exceptional grain quality and a 5.4% yield advantage over the mean. It provides excellent standability and early vigor, as well as disease resistance.

So devote your resources wisely by choosing a field proven Funk's G® brand hybrid. Contact a Hoffman sales representative for help in choosing the right variety for your operation.

Pa. State Grange To Hold State Convention

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Grange is set to start tomorrow at the Embers Hotel and Convention Center in Carlisle and end Oct. 27.

More than 1,000 members from around the state are expected to attend the convention, which serves as the forum for discussion and development of the organization's policy.

This year's session is being hosted by members from Cumberland, Lancaster and York/Adams counties and some timely political topics are expected to be hashed out and voted upon by delegates.

"The Grange is a grass-roots organization which gets its policies from the local Granges in the form of resolutions," said Gordon Hiller, State Grange Master (president).

"Over the years, the Grange has successfully lobbied for such issues as rural mail delivery, establishment of rural electric cooperatives, and fairer prices for farmers. All these policies started at a local Grange and were then passed to the state level."

Hiller is to open the 122nd convention by reviewing the past year's accomplishments, and offering a vision of the future.

With more than 33,000 members, Hiller said the Pennsylvania State Grange has strengths in its legislative branch and grass-roots policies.

"It is in Grange meetings where good legislation has had its beginnings, and where it will continue to influence our legislators as we protect Grange interests while serving the agricultural and rural communities."

Hiller cited such legislative accomplishments for the past year as the Deep Mine Mediation Project; helping to block the establishment of consumptive user fees for agriculture as proposed by the multi-state/federal agency, Susquehanna River Basin Commission; getting tax relief for conservation easements (they must be taxed according to ag use); and securing funding for the University of Pennsylvania Veterinary School and agricultural research at Penn State University.

"There are many areas where Grange policy must be inserted and sustained," Hiller said. "Grange influence and integrity remain high, and we must continue to expand our list of legislative accomplishments while maintaining our vigilance in Harrisburg and Washington."

There are about 75 resolutions to be discussed during the convention, including such issues as emissions testing, tort reform, property owners' rights, and agricultural zoning exemptions.

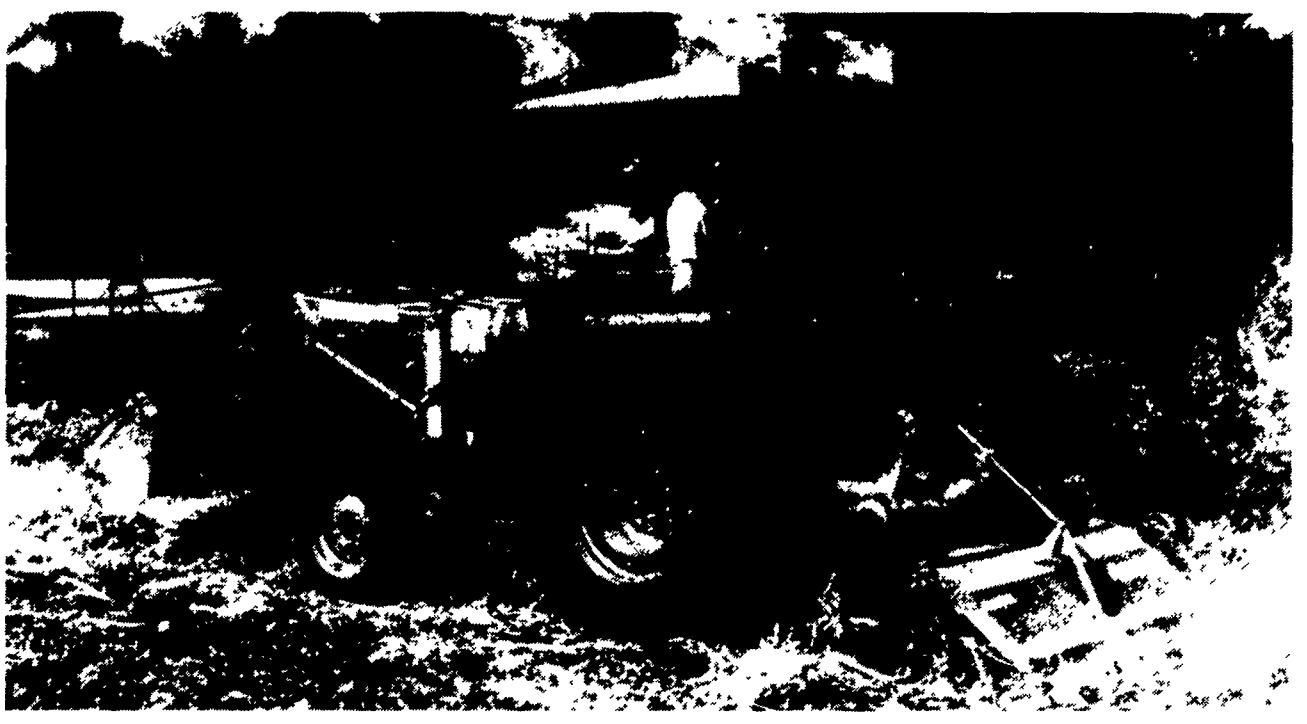
A highlight of the five-day convention is to be addresses from the endorsed Republican and Democratic gubernatorial candidates.

Democratic candidate Lt. Gov. Mark Singel, of Johnstown, is scheduled to speak first, at 1:35 p.m. Monday., while Republican candidate U.S. Rep. Tom Ridge, of Erie, is to speak on Oct. 27 at 9:45 a.m.

"We're delighted that the candidates have agreed to deliver their agricultural and rural platforms before our delegate body only two weeks prior to the election," Hiller said. "Their appearances that close to the election are a testament to the influence the ... members of the Grange have on the election process and demonstrates the candidate's appreciation for the value of a Granger's vote."

Additional speakers scheduled for Oct. 25 include state Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff, and Woodrow Tucker, a member of the executive committee of National Grange.

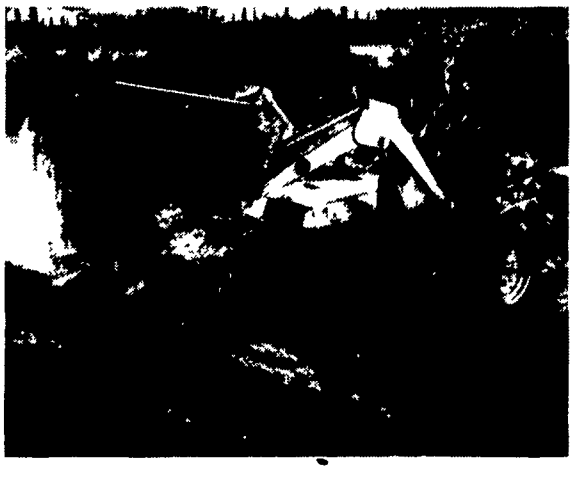
THE RIGHT STUFF



Whether you're a weekend farmer or full-time professional, Kubota's compact tractors have the right stuff for your spread.

Kubota's B50 Series diesel tractors feature 2WD or 4WD and produce 13-20 PTO HP. Optional "Bi-Speed Turn" system allows smaller and precise turns in 4-wheel drive, which makes mowing and even loading more efficient. HST transmission and power steering are available, too.

Kubota's new Grand L-Series tractors increase your farming power with 25 to 37 PTO HP. These 2WD and 4WD diesels have the new ETVCS diesel engines that run quietly with cleaner emissions. These models have a choice of transmissions that offer shift-on-the-go, power steering and tilt wheel.



There's a Creep Speed option for planting, spraying and harvesting. Independent PTO, hefty 3-point hitch and high capacity hydraulic system keeps the Grand L-Series farming year round.

Kubota's B50 and Grand L-Series diesel tractors have the right stuff for your spread.

Area Dekalb Dealers Honored

DEKALB, Ill. — Several area Dekalb dealers and sales representatives were recently honored by Dekalb Genetics Corporation.

George Coleman of Elmer, N.J. was recently recognized as outstanding dealer of the year with his sales district. He was also honored as product champion for corn and alfalfa sales in his district.

James L. Landis of Milton, Pa. was recognized as outstanding new dealer of the year within his sales district.

Robert Stoltzfus of Cochranville, Pa. was named product champion for soybean sales in his district by Dekalb.

stop erosion.

As a result, the wetlands are "in a lot better shape than they were," said Jere.

"My dad was conservation-minded," he said. "He'd always leave places where he'd lift the plow and leave waterways when he farmed and things like that so the soil didn't wash."

Jere purchased the farm from his father in 1981. Since then, he has installed a circular, raised, 480,000-gallon manure storage structure (1990). Also, the Swarrs have installed 800 feet of waterway, 2,350 feet of subsurface drainage, 1,225 feet of pipe outlet terrace, 635 feet of underground outlet, and 1,650 feet of diversion, according to district records. He cover crops with rye (no-tilled) and grows (on the home farm) 130 acres of corn, five acres of soybeans (no-till), eight acres of tobacco, eight acres of wheat, and five acres of meadow grass. Only the tobacco ground gets plowed. Some of the other ground is minimum tilled with straight teeth on a chisel and about 40 percent of the ground is cover-cropped in strips.

One of the biggest challenges the Swarrs faced was what to do with the manure from the hog and beef operations.

The farm has about a ½ mile of stream which begins at a spring on their farm and ends on a spring, also on the farm. "We're right next to a small stream," said Jere. "It's determined that the small stream goes underground. So it was important. We had to do something. We wanted to do something. So that's how the manure storage came about."

The storage structure, with a 480,000-gallon capacity, is emptied twice a year. The structure was completed with cost-share money available through the Chesapeake Bay Program. The manure is chisel-plowed into the ground in the spring and the fall.

To save money and to reduce nitrate problems, the Swarrs reduced the amount of starter fertilizer and sidedress nitrogen used on the corn.

"We quit using starter fertilizer for corn eight years ago," said Jere.

"Most people just routinely used it," said Bonnie.

Some of the corn is sidedressed, if necessary. Mostly, the corn is chiseled to allow oxygen to get to the roots and improve aeration.

A lot of heavy rains caused some significant erosion on a lot of county farms this year. Jere said there were some places in the township that dirt accumulated on roadways that had to be plowed off. Also, the rivers and creeks were muddy in July and August.

The only problems with some erosion were with the tobacco acreage because of the conventional moldboard plowing. But the soil in the other acreage held up despite heavy stormwater pressure.

In the future, Jere said he wants to add more terracing, either gradient or piped out. "That's kind of my long-term conservation plan. There's always things you can do."

Jere said the award recognizes those who have undertaken steps to not only install conservation techniques, but to promote those efforts. "They give the award to promote conservation. It's part of the program to sell conservation. I view it as though I've been appointed as kind of a spokesman for conservation."

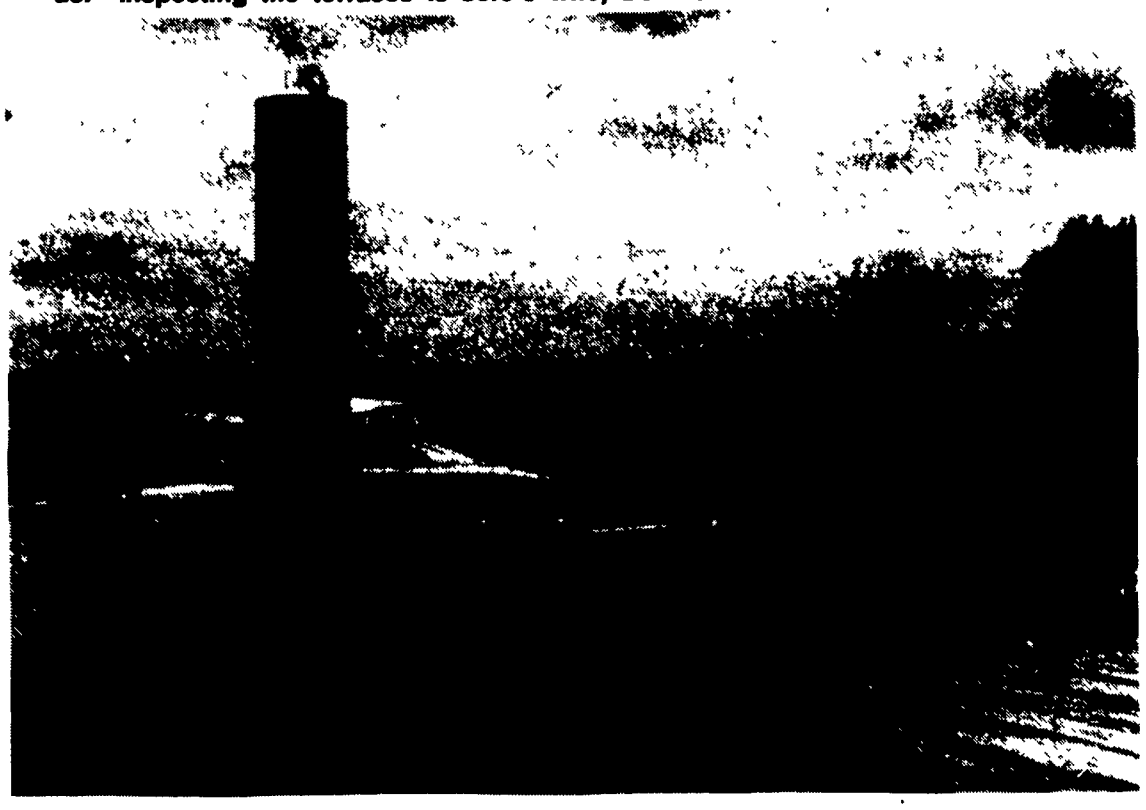
As a spokesman, Jere has already appeared on two television programs about conservation, including a guest appearance on Blue Ridge Channel 11 ("Face the Issues" with Bob Brenneman) and on a "Day In the Life of the Bay," a special documentary with Channel 2 (Baltimore). The Swarrs served as host to Millersville University Students and to students from an earth science course at F&M College. (Jere said students conducted water tests on the pond, stream, and well, and found the nitrate levels well within safety limits.) Also, Rapho Valley Farm hosted a group of conservationists from Czechoslovakia and Jere has spoken to the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce.

Jere has been happy with the attitude of the Lancaster Conservation District toward the farms in its jurisdiction. "The conservation district has a more gentle, kinder approach. They'll work with you. If there's a problem, they'll warn you about it. They'll help you find a solution."

What worries Jere is the encroaching rules and regulations coming down the pike as a result of environmental litigation — and how those rules and regulations will affect farming.

Jere said the regulations will become more stringent. "But I like the way the county conservation district approaches" the regulations, he said, working as much as they do for the farmer's particular concerns and interests. "If we get to the point we're over-regulated, that's not good. Maybe some people would say we're there now. The regulations should equal the amount of environmental protection we need."

In the future, Jere, left said he wants to add more terracing, either gradient or piped out. "That's kind of my long-term conservation plan. There's always things you can do." Inspecting the terraces is Jere's wife, Bonnie.



The storage structure, with a 480,000-gallon capacity, is emptied twice a year. The structure was completed with cost-share money available through the Chesapeake Bay Program. The manure is chisel-plowed into the ground in the spring and the fall.

The farm has about a ½ mile of stream which begins at a spring on their farm and ends on a spring, also on the farm. "We're right next to a small stream," said Jere. "It's determined that the small stream goes underground. So it was important. We had to do something. We wanted to do something. So that's how the manure storage came about."

Buttermore's Aged Cow Champion Holstein

DAVID HIEBERT
Westmoreland Co. Correspondent

MUTUAL (Westmoreland Co.) — Though showers dampened the opening three days of the Westmoreland County Fair, a one-day count of 8,100 at midweek set a one-day attendance record for the fair, held at the county fairgrounds, in Mutual.

Total attendance peaked in 1991 at 78,000, and, despite the record one-day attendance, totalled 71,000 this year. According to Don Fretz, fair director, "The showers came at a most inopportune time."

However, attendance at the dairy shows was strong.

In the open Holstein competition, J.W. Buttermore, of Mt. Pleasant, showed an aged cow to capture grand champion title. James McQuaide, of Slickville, showed a 4-year-old to win the title of reserve grand champion.

In the youth division show, Kathy Hudson, of New Alexandria, showed the grand champion, a summer yearling, on her first time exihibiting cattle in a show.

Dairy show judge was Dwight had been removed from the home because of improper care. Bonilla's bilinqual abilities played an important part in her ability to teach cooking on the local television channel. Many of the families received 28 hours of food instructions.

Rick Kauffman, John Falter, and Grace Webber reported on their work with the urban 4-H program.

Falter said that agriculture continues to be the focus even though the program is in a different environment. Kids, he said, love the projects and respond in the same manner that rural members do. In the urban program, 4-H members did container gardening and even beautified vacant lots by gardening.

One vacant lot needed to have 11 dump loads of trash removed before the children could plant the area with bushes, trees, vegetables, and flowers. Members then learned to arrange bouquets with the flowers they grew and try to the vegetables that reflected the diverse tastes of the neighborhood.

In working with soil and plants, the students also learned about earthworms, lady bugs, spiders and insects.

Judith Schwank, county extension director, reported that the vacancies of extension staff has been filled since last year. Both local and multi-county extension agents work together to provide expanded educational programing for countians.

Dr. Hector Flores, Penn State professor of plant pathology and biotechnology, helped the audience grasp the research being done to develop new products by using roots. For example, toothpaste with an anti-plaque compound and dyes that may be used for clothing or in lipstick to prevent bacterial infection have been developed.

Biotechnology enables scientists to isolate plant embryos and transplant them in other plants for mutation and engineer genes that carry resistant viruses. Introducing a single resistant gene into a plant will continue to carry the virus resistant genes into suceeding generations of the plants.

"Biotechnology is a partnership between scientists, sociologists, economists, and farmers," Flores said. The new technology carries lots of promise and some dangers since many of the studies are owned by chemical companies that can decide how to engineer plants.

Extension director Judith Schwank, right, talks with John Falter, extension assistant for urban 4-H, Grace Webber, teacher and 4-H volunteer, about the urban 4-H program.

Evalina Bonilla, left, receives a Nittany Lion statue for her 25 years of work with the EFNEP program. Fay Strickler, extension home economist, and Bob Leiby present the award.

In other news, the fair celebrated its 40th anniversary by dedicating a new structure on the 160-acre fairgrounds, located south of Greensburg. State Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff was in attendance for the dedication ceremony.

CHIMTEK™

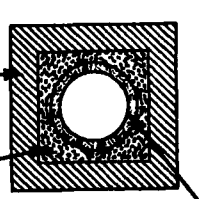
ADVANCED CHIMNEY TECHNOLOGY

A SURE SOLUTION TO MASONRY CHIMNEY PROBLEMS:

SAFER: CHIMTEK is designed to withstand severe chimney fires without breaking or transmitting high temperatures to adjoining combustible materials.

LESS CREOSOTE: Wood smoke contains moisture (H_2O). When the smoke comes into contact with a surface under approx. 250 degrees F the water will condense to a liquid. This liquid combined with other products in wood smoke will result in creosote. Creosote can be very dangerous when it ignites. The inside of a CHIMTEK chimney stays much warmer and greatly reduces the amount of creosote formation. In many cases CHIMTEK chimneys are completely clean after years of use.

IMPROVES STOVE PERFORMANCE: The draft produced by a chimney is what pulls oxygen into the fire for combustion. The three main factors affecting draft are the chimney's height, size and temperature. CHIMTEK contains a great amount of a very special insulating material that is not affected by moisture saturation and will not seattle or deteriorate. Poor draft will result in poor combusion. Poor combusion will create more smoke. Smoke is wasted fuel. Newere EPA certified stoves are especially dependent on proper draft to perform properly.



CHIMTEK INNER LINER:

- Made of volcanic pumice and high-temperature refractory cements.
- Round shape provides even temperatures inside flue, and contributes to efficient flow of smoke and flue gases.
- Highly resistant to thermal shock.
- Even if cracks should occur, the round shape and Chimtek Secondary Liner prevent pieces from falling into chimney.
- The volcanic pumice in Chimtek liners adds considerable insulating value.

CHIMTEK SECONDARY LINER:

- Provides exceptional insulation to make chimney more efficient and reduce heat transfer to combustible materials.
- Provides structural support for inner liner
- Will not absorb moisture or creosote.

It's 4-H Leaders' Turn To Be Honored At Banquet

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

MILLERSVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Kandi Mullen knows that public speaking is not as hard as it looks.

In fact, one of the easiest tasks she had as a Lancaster 4-H ambassador, she said, was speaking to two third grade classes at Eshleman Elementary School in Millersville.

For her outstanding work at the county 4-H level in nine years as a member, Kandi was honored on Tuesday evening with the 4-H Superior Achievement Award at a banquet honoring 4-H leaders at Millersville University.

Kandi, 17, daughter of James and Elaine Mullen, Peach Bottom, will be travelling with 25 other ambassadors to represent Pennsylvania in the National 4-H Congress December 3-8 in Orlando, Fla.

Kandi, a senior at Solanco and nine-year Kids & Cows member, said one child at the school, who Kandi learned had a "really rough home life," she said, went up to her and asked if, as a 4-H member, he would be "'picked on.'

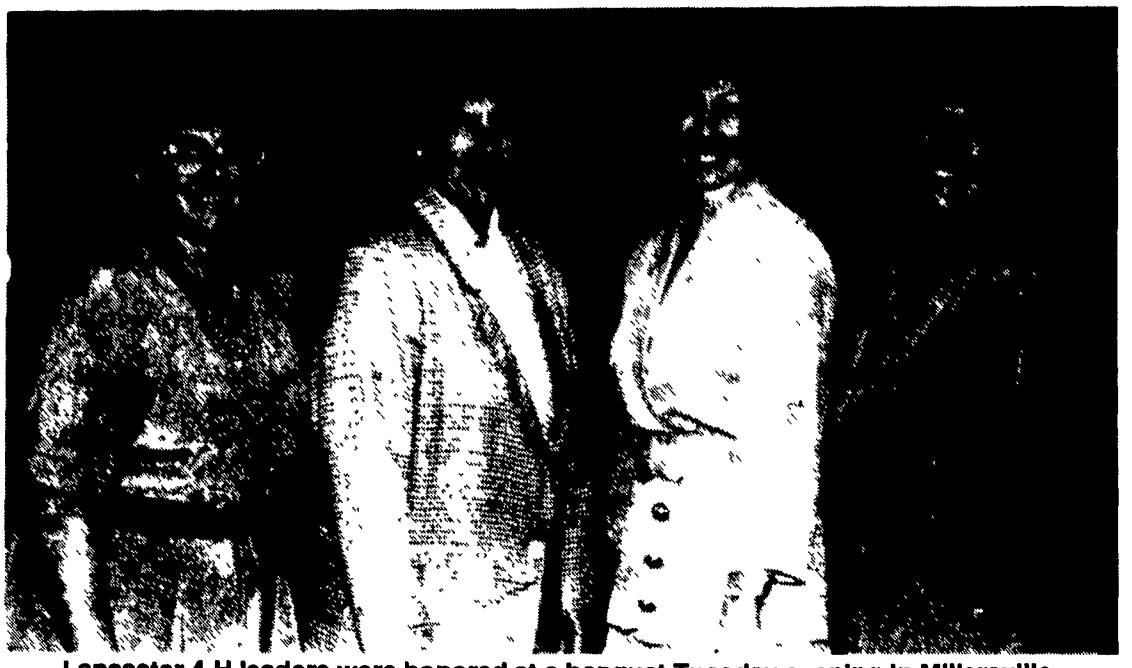
"I told him no," said Kandi. "I said that everybody in 4-H is your friend. It made me feel good that I made his day."

The two funniest questions, "that just made me crack up," she said, that the students asked were if they had to learn the 4-H Creed at the first meeting and if there was any homework in 4-H. Even though those questions made her laugh, she explained that a lot of 4-H involves work at home. But, Kandi said, the many questions were really good and intelligent.

At the banquet, Connie Rutt, 4-H leader, spoke about the need for pen pals at the 4-H level for the Polish 4-H project. They need another 23 or so members to sign up.

Approximately 21 teen leaders were recognized at the banquet. Also, the following adult leaders were recognized: 30 years, David Henisee, Northwest 4-H Dairy Club; 20 years, Beverly Heisey, Elizabethtown Community Club; 15 years, Keith Allen (Mastersonville Community Club), Mary Esther Clark (Pequea Valley Community Club), Elaine Good (Ephrata/Cocalico Community Club), Sharon Hollinger (Mountville Community Club), Ruth Hoober (Garden Spot Community Club), Rebecca Irvine (Ephrata/Cocalico Community Club), Karen Kettering (Sequoia Riders), and Joni Soost (Puppies With A Purpose).

Thirteen leaders were honored with 10 years of service, 19 4-H leaders were honored with 5 years of service, and 120 were honored with one year of service to 4-H.



Lancaster 4-H leaders were honored at a banquet Tuesday evening in Millersville. From left, Rebecca Irvine, 15 years; Nancy Buckwalter, 10 years; Elaine Good, 15 years; and Deb Felak, 10 years.

For her outstanding work at the county 4-H level in nine years as a member, Kandi Mullen, left, was honored on Tuesday evening with the 4-H Superior Achievement Award at a banquet honoring 4-H leaders at Millersville University. Kerry Boyd presented the award.

Westmoreland Youth Livestock Sale Sets Record

DAVID HIEBERT
Westmoreland Co. Correspondent

MUTUAL (Westmoreland Co.) — The recent Westmoreland County youth livestock raised a record $99,382, according to sales officials.

William Kelly, county extension director served as auctioneer of 272 market animals offered for sale by the youth.

Justin Fuls, of Rector sold his 1,250-pound grand champion market steer to Hoss's Steak and Sea House for $3.75 per pound, while Katie Logan, of Irwin sold her 1,160-pound reserve grand champion steer for $3.25 per pound.

While the buyers and prices paid for the other livestock were not available Brennen and Kristina Bierbower, of Latrobe captured several of the top trophies with the entries.

The two showed the grand and reserve grand champion market lambs; the grand and reserve grand champion carcass lambs; the grand champion market hog; and the champion and reserve champion pair of lambs.

In addition, Brennen was named champion swine fitter and showman, while Kristina took home the award for reserve champion in rate of gain for her market lamb projects.

In other news, Joanne Logan, extension agent, said she saw the fair and the auction as the culmination of a year of work for the youth.

She said that Westmoreland County's 4-H program is perhaps unique in that only one out of 10 of the 3,000 youth participating in the program actually live on farms.

In related announcements, extension director Kelly urged people to support a recently initiated scholarship fund created in memory of Cathy Vance, who died a year ago in a hunting accident.

Justin Fulls brings his grand champion market steer through the sale ring, while representatives for buyer Hoss's Steak and Sea House hold the banner and the fair queen also joins in.

First the Abmas looked in Tioga County, near Lawrenceville. When that deal fell through, a realtor called to say that the farm they are now on was available.

"We prayed about coming here," said Dorothy. "This farm was supposed to have been sold, but it wasn't. When we came here, it just fell into line that we could get this farm, so that's why it's called Providence Acres."

The Abmas first got their taste of the Endless Mountains when they visited friends in the area.

"We love the Endless Mountains area and the people are so friendly here," said Henry.

Dorothy said, "And not only that, the farms are here."

"We're right in the middle of the dairy belt. When we first came here, I wanted to raise beef. I never liked dairy when I was a kid, I hated it. We used to hand milk everything. Of course today, everything is modern. That changed my attitude quite a bit. But we knew we would have to make a living here. We have a son who is coming up the ranks and we'd like to leave the farm to him if he wants it," said Henry.

After securing the farm, the family needed to find cattle, so, Dorothy said, Duane Mattocks put them in touch with two area dealers.

"It was really comical. There were two cattle dealers we had to work with. It was Glen Shores and Howard Visscher. Well, Howard Visscher took one look at my husband and he said, 'Henry Abma!' They used to ride the school bus together when they were kids to Christian school. They knew each other from then."

The Abmas decided to take the herd of cows that Visscher was able to put together. All their cows came from one herd in New York state.

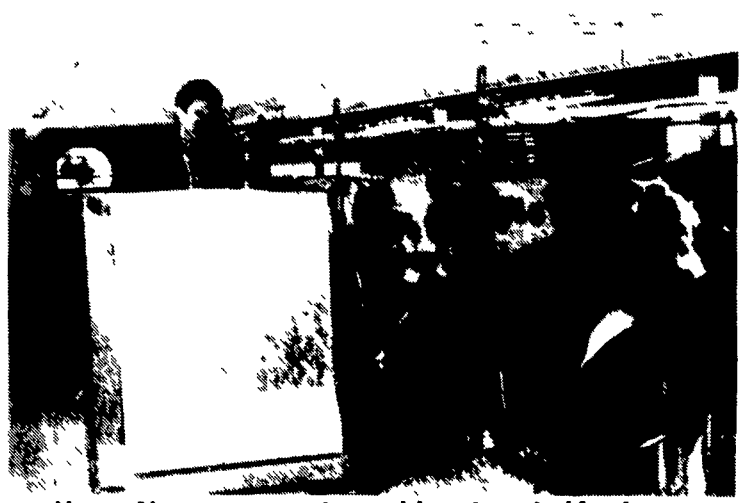
"The man had a herd of about 100 animals, and he was selling 50 of them. We took 45. They did come out of a stall barn and we had a stall barn that they would go into," said Dorothy.

Soon the herd of grade Holsteins was at their new home in the Endless Mountains of Pennsylvania. For Dorothy, who had never milked a cow before, and for Henry, who had only milked by hand when he was a boy, many challenges were ahead.

"When (Visscher) came, he came with 45 cows and four bucket milkers. And Duane was there and we started milking, and you learn real fast twice a day. I think what helped us at first was we didn't have any young stock, we just had the herd and then we built up from that," Dorothy said.

The Abmas stress that they couldn't have made the move without the help of neighbors and friends. One neighbor did all the spring plowing so the Abmas could plant the corn the first year. Even the former farm owner helped the family get their second start.

"It's no wonder we feel so good here," said Henry, "The people are just so good here. When we first started, we had trouble calving, Milford Kinsman, even with his good clothes on would roll up his sleeves and come and get that calf out. I knew nothing about it. In fact it was the night of a PFA meeting we were going to. He went home for his coveralls slid them over his clothes and we got that calf out.



Henry Abma prepares to use his automated feed cart, one of the family's latest investments.

And we were half an hour late for that meeting."

"You can have a lot of problems in dairy and be the best dairyman in the world. You can have sickness or other things, but I think even our veterinarian, Dean Elliott, has been a big help. We have herd day every month and he has spent a lot of his time with us over the years and given us such good ideas and good advice. Even now we still have him as our vet and he's a real good friend, too," Dorothy said.

Today the Abmas milk 45 cows in a tiestall barn. Their DHIA herd average rolls at 22,000 pounds of milk, with a 3.6 percent fat test and a 3.2 percent protein test.

"The years just progressed, and the farm got bigger. We didn't really buy too many animals. We raise all our young stock." said Dorothy.

Currently the herd is about one half registered and one half grade.

Their first registered animal belonged to Shawn.

"The first year we were here, that August, they had the Blueberry Festival and it was at Wayne LaMont's farm and Shawn won the registered calf. That was the start of the registered herd," said Dorothy.

They also bought a registered cow from their neighbors, Milford and Shirley Kinsman and four head from Orton Mattocks.

After farming for six months, the Abmas put slate in the mangers to make clean-up easier. Seven years later, they put in a pipeline.

Dorothy and Henry Abma look over their herd health cards in their milking barn. Each time something happens to the animals, whether it is a flare up of mastitis, or the birth of a calf, Dorothy is careful to record the information on the index card. That way, she explained, all the information is right at their fingertips if it is needed.

The heifer barn is designed to accommodate round bales. Here, Shawn Abma forks the hay in closer to the animals, while the family's Boarder Collie, Shelly waits anxiously for her master's command.

In recent years, they put up another silo and last year they put up a small storage and equipment shed. This year they purchased an electric feed cart to help feed the silage.

One early improvement the Abmas made to the farm was the erection of a heifer barn.

"We raise the calves all the calves till three months old in hutches. My husband built all those (hutches). And after three months they go up in the heifer barn," said Dorothy.

The heifer barn is divided into sections so the calves can be grouped by age. There's a bedded pack in the back, a scrape alley in the middle and locking headgates at the front. The feed alley is wide enough to unroll round bales of hay.

"The heifer barn was designed for round bales. We just roll one up and roll it back at night, and it's gone," said Henry.

"About two to three weeks before (the heifers) freshen we bring them into the main barn to get them used to the routine," said Dorothy.

The cows are fed a homegrown diet of corn silage and mixed hay that are grown on the family's 260 acres. An additional 25 acres of ground is rented. In total, about 50 acres are planted in corn and the hay ground is seeded in a timothy, alfalfa, and trefoil mix.

The Abmas are strong believers in the use of tedders for their hay.

"It brings the hay in one day sooner," said Henry. "Usually we use the tedder 12-24 hours after it's cut and, boy, does that work.

"We usually get two cuttings of hay a year. It's very rare that we get three. There's third cutting out there right now, but you can't get in the field to get it. So it will be there until next spring and, Lord willing, we'll have a good spring. But our barn is full. I said to Shawn, why wreck the field? It's so hard to get a good seeding there and here we go out there trying to get it in. The rains have been too much."

They also feed a grain mix from Judson's Agway and top dress with Megalac and sodium.

"We don't have any TMR and we don't feed any haylage," said Dorothy.

The cows are on pasture at night from May to October. The pastures are divided into about five paddocks.

Although the Abmas are not afraid to try new ideas, they are somewhat cautious about some.

"When we have a good herd average, like we do, I don't like to try something that's too different," said Henry.

"I still think," said Dorothy, "That if you want to stay in any business and in dairy, you have to be open for the new way. We don't use BST because I just feel you really have to be on top of your cows and you really have to know your animals and it can't be given to all of them. It's something that we're not ready for. If our son ever

Workshop Proves Farm Accounting Can Be Computerized

ANDY ANDREWS

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — For less than $50, a farmer can use a personal computer to automate business accounting. One program can be customized to suit "your particular wishes and your particular needs on your farm business or organization," said Dr. Larry C. Jenkins, professor of agricultural economics at Penn State.

Jenkins spoke to about 20 farmers and farm operators, veterinarians, accountants, office managers, and consultants at the first part of a two week workshop, "Farm Records Made Easy Using Low-Cost Software and IBM-Compatible Computers," on Thursday morning at the Farm and Home Center.

Jenkins said that using computer software can be likened to a filing cabinet with folders to store information. A computer can be used to keep careful and complete records of all types of farm business, from accounting for profits and loss to inventory checks to business investments.

Jenkins demonstrated a farm version of the Quicken Version 7.0 software for DOS, available from Intuit, from Menlo Park, Calif. That is one of several programs available for farm accounting. Another program, used for business records by Mable Hershey, Hershey Brothers, is called One Write Plus, which can accomplish similar tasks and is easy to use, according to Hershey.

At the start of the workshop, Jenkins told those who signed up for the free course (the only requirement was that they purchase the software) that they were the "most varied group we've had to date."

What the program requires is a sense of knowing how to properly enter the transactions and keeping in mind the detail and "organization, organization, organization" necessary to reap the benefits of the program, according to the ag economist.

Using this computer software, farm managers can call up reports to give them precise records of income and expenses on the farm. Those reports can be extremely helpful at tax time.

The types of IBM-compatible computers in use at the workshop included various Intel 386- and 486-based laptops and desktop systems.

The workshop continues next Thursday morning and afternoon at the Farm and Home Center.

wanted to use it, it would be different, but I doubt that we ever will. You really have to be on top of your cows to be sure that they're giving that extra milk, and then you've got to feed them extra, so I think it has to be an individual thing for a farmer and his animals.

"It's a lot of hard work," said Henry about farming. "We work as a team and everybody has their responsibilities. That's how we move ahead. We talk things out and that's how we plan. This is the second year now that we have this farm the way we wanted it. Because every year we had something like, we'd say, this year that hedge row comes out, and every year we'd plan that. I figured by the time I'm 60, I wanted this place all set so if Shawn does go, hey, at least the farm is the way we wanted it."

For the Abmas, the attention to detail and the desire to be tidy has paid off in more ways than one. This year their farm was named a Dairy of Distinction.

"We were really happy that we got that," said Dorothy. "This is the third time we applied. When they first started, we applied two years in a row and we didn't get it."

"It doesn't take much to pick up behind you, because if you don't, you're going to trip over it anyway," said Henry.

Shawn, who graduated from Penn State in 1990, works on the family farm when he is able to be home.

Henry and Dorothy's other son, Kevin, and his wife Alice live in nearby Towanda with their three children. Their daughter, Holly, and her husband, Grant Boles, live in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Besides their work on the farm, the family also is active in the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, where they serve on an advisory council and are state and national Holstein Association members. They are also members of the East Troy Baptist Church where Henry is a deacon and Dorothy is the secretary of Sunday School.

"Really, when you think of it, we came from nothing, of knowing that much about dairy, and to have a herd average like what we have, we just thank God for it," said Dorothy. "It's by God's grace that we're here and what we have is because we've prayed for wisdom, or we would never have it. It was quite trying the first couple of years. I think we took one day at a time. That first year it took us forever, but, you know, we got into a system."

Added Henry, "I give (God) the glory because we couldn't have done it on our own. We trusted him and he just opened the doors. And it just fell in line. It was really beautiful how it worked."

the feed station are two wings consisting of three bays each with 60 stalls in each bay. Each bay is really a large room for raising calves.

Running the length of the front of the barn, is an enclosed 10-foot wide corridor.

From the dock, supplies and equipment can be taken right across the corridor, straight into the feed preparation and distribution area. Directly behind that room is the computer control room, and a side room which contains the backup generator.

But from the dock, to the left and right, the corridor allows calves to be taken to the respective bays and the stalls.

Looking down the length of the corridor, with each bay having a dutch door (a half-door), the appearance is more of a horse stable. But there is a reason for this.

Forced hot air heaters are at either end of the building and hot air (computer controlled) is forced through ducts along the top of the inside corridor wall.

At eye-level along the corridor wall are 12 vent openings for fresh air (estimated to be about 1-foot by 4-feet shuttered openings). They can be manually adjusted for optimum fresh air flow.

The effect is that fresh air from outside is drawn through the vent openings and is mixed with the hot air inside the corridor.

At the rear of each bay, a pair of 20-inch fans draws the heated fresh air through the bays and out the back of the building.

Each of the 60 stalls in each of the six bays was designed as an intricate part of the facility, down to the spacing between slats on the stall sides and floor.

Temperature sensors send information directly to the computer, which is run on a program that adjusts the heat automatically. If, for any reason, the public electricity supply is knocked out, the backup generator automatically kicks in, fueled by propane, as are the heaters.

The computer also has some automatic controls in it, such as automatically informing the Grober Inc. headquarters when feed levels are such that more needs to be brought to the farm.

And, if the computer has a problem, it can automatically call the company's headquarters in the Netherlands and can be reprogrammed and fixed automatically.

The entrance to the Blue Mountain View Farm veal facility states that it is a farm raising fancy milk-fed veal, though the facility structure on the ridge doesn't appear out of the ordinary to the Pennsylvania farmscape, and the dry cows in the foreground also make the farm appear to the passerby as a dairy operation.

According to Yelle van der Urift, designer of the facility, the idea was to create a microclimate within each stall so as to achieve maximum health conditions for the calves.

According to van der Urift, the draw of the fans is rated at 3,600 cubic feet per minute, which translates through design to be 150 cfm for the calves.

The ideal temperatures depend on the age and size of the calves, since cattle produce more heat and moisture as they grow larger.

The facility is also designed with a unique manure handling system.

This is a water driven system, sort of a passive flush system.

Beneath each of the two rows of 30 stalls in each bay, there is a full-length manure trough, which initially looks to be typical of a gravity driven manure system, or a scraper system.

Not these.

The manure gutters are built level and have a wooden baffle at the end, near the corridor. Each gutter is to be filled with water, and, since the manure solids float, whatever manure is added can be expected to be forced to flow over the baffle into another channel running perpendicular, underneath the corridor the length of the building.

This main gutter, with larger dimensions, also is equipped with a water-retaining baffle that functions the same way as the small gutters.

When the manure flows out of the main gutter it then flows to a manure lagoon, located slightly downgrade, and at least 100 feet from the facility. The size of the packed earth lagoon is such that it is to be capable of holding six months worth of manure, based on having a full compliment of 360 calves in the facility.

The system is based on the principle that anything added to a full container will cause overflow, and the overflow will be from the top of the container, not the bottom.

Van der Urift said that the system does use more water to operate than does the typical dairy barn type manure collection systems, but the reason is that the facilities need to be kept as clean as possible, again to ensure a healthy growing environment.

Ideally, week-old Holstein dairy bull calves are to be purchased at auction and brought the facility for 18 cycles.

According to Grober officials, the facility is to be used as a demonstration and research facility.

In a brochure of farm Grober distributed, it states, "We use it to show people not just what is new, but what is tried and true."

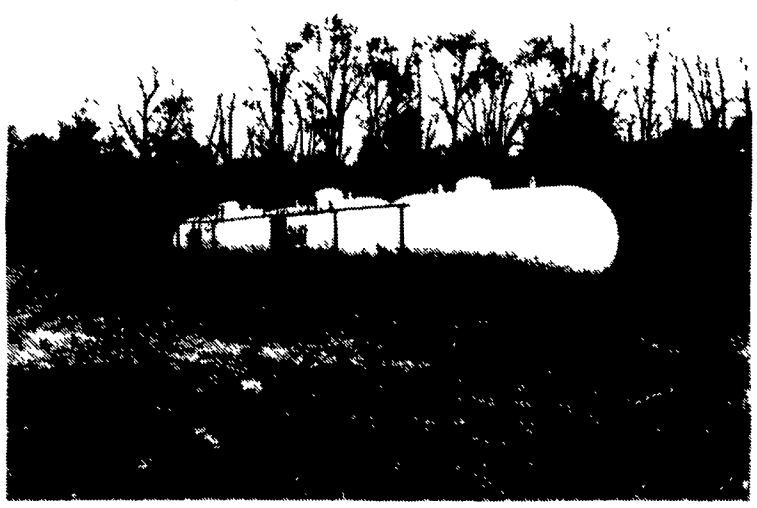
The brochure also states, "Blue Mountain View Farm is a research facility. It is here that we test new products, new ingredients, look at new management techniques, new housing methods and other ideas that we believe may contribute to easier management and more efficient production of milk fed veal."

The farm selected for the site of the facility was purchased by Grober through New Pennsylvania Realty agent Perry Long, who attended the open house ceremony.

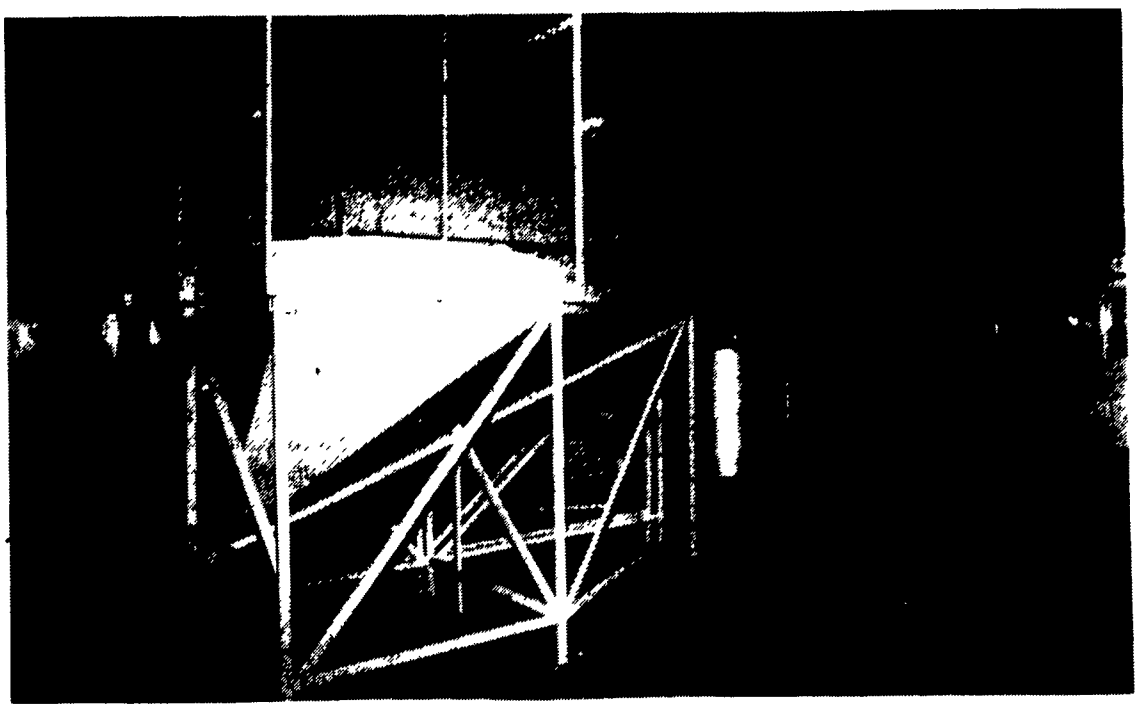
He said that he searched the area to provide Grober with several possible locations for the facility, but they decided to go with the 78-acre site for a variety of reasons, including the fact that it is located close to the company's Lehigh headquarters.

According to Long, "The farm is unique ... it's not good for development. It is in three municipalities, and bisected by high tension lines."

(Turn to Page A28)



Of the three propane tanks located at the rear of the veal raising facility, two are dedicated to fuel two forced-air heaters, while the nearest tank is reserved to serve a large backup generator.



These two side-by-side bins hold 2,000 pounds of feed ingredients which are mixed in the hoppers underneath the wood-encased hot water heater. From this central location, milk replacer is piped to each of the six calf-raising rooms. The computer room is behind the far wall and window.

According to Long, who knew of the farm, even though it wasn't listed for sale when Grober initially sought help in selecting a site, because the area in general has received "considerable development pressure," it was difficult to find property that could be bought for a price consistent with agricultural use

Also on the site is a barn and two silos, which are rented out, along with the cropland to an area dairyman who keeps dry cows and bred heifers there.

The name of the farm is because of the view from the ridge top, in an area with surrounding farms. The Blue Mountain is visible along the northern horizon, especially on clear days.

According to Grober officials, the close proximity of the farm to the headquarters will allow the 20 employees at the Lehigh plant to all get an opportunity to help with operations at the Blue Mountain View Farm, so that they get a better appreciation for what the operators have to consider.

The facility itself is to be managed by a young couple originally from Bradford County, Kyle and Suzanne Robinson. The two are to live in the rennovated farm house and Kyle is to manage, feed and care for the calves. Suzanne is a dental hygienist.

Kyle said he has fed veal calves previously for different operators. This place, which he helped construct, is very different.

In the feed room are two large feed bins, where the milk replacer dry formulations are kept. Through sensors, the computer "knows" how much of either the starter or finisher formulation is in the bin and when more should be brought to the farm. It notifies headquarters automatically to bring feed.

Under computer control, the dry matter is emptied by auger into a mixing container, like a large mixing bowl. A large hot water heater provides the water and the mixed forumla is pumped to a second holding container, also with a mixing rod to maintain consistency.

From this second container, the fluid milk replacer is pumped and through pipelines is fed out to each of the veal raising rooms.

To feed the veal calves, Kyle has to tap into a valve in each of the calve rooms and feed each one.

To set the ration, the computer receives the ratio of starter to finisher, set according to the stage of growth of the calves, and creates the mixutre on site.

After each feeding, the lines have to cleaned out.

Chris Lines, editor and publisher of a veal industry newspaper, The Producer's Connection, said the Blue Mountain View Farm is the most modern of all facilities of which she is aware, and only one of two in the United States, the other being located in Wisconsin.

Richard "Smokey" Burgess, a cattle supplier, said he was very impressed with the facility. "That loading dock is really nice. If people were used to loading and unloading they would see how easy this is."

Burgess is an independent cattle supplier who does a lot of work for Grober and the company's contract growers. He buys calves from 36 livestock auctions in four states.

And, in fact, while some have lamented the apparent diminishment in use of local livestock auctions, because of contract farming, Burgess said that the auctions are very necessary to provide the bull calves for these operations.

He said that demand from operations like Grober will continue to add to the demand for dairy bull calves at auction.

Guy Tober, president of Grober Inc., and board member of the American Veal Association, said that one of the additional goals in building the facility was to increase interest in veal facilities, but still the company does most of its veal raising through contract raising.

According to Tober, farmers looking to augment income, or start out, can expect to earn about $50 per head, with more possible through a bonus program that rewards top management.

Burgess, while not in the veal raising business per se, said it has been his experience that dairymen considering contracting should be aware that raising veal calves is intensive and more management is needed than typically used to raise calves. He said that dairymen should consider their time available and resources before committing themselves.

Tober said he is always looking for farmers willing to do contract raising, and that those interested should call the company for more information.

He said the market for veal calves in the immediate area is in New York and Philadelphia and that market demand is good, but should get better.

Promotion efforts funded through checkoff dollars have helped and he said he expects it to continue.

Kyle Robinson sits at the computer desk which is the "brain" and heart of the modern veal raising facility. The computer controls the inside climate, mixes rations automatically according to desired ingredient ratios, notifies headquarters when more feed is needed, and can automatically call for help, if programming develops a glich.

Advice For Potato Blight Management

Editor's note: Because of the weather conditions favorable to the growth of a potato blight fungus this past growing season, and because of the widespread affect the disease has had, special management practices should be considered by those handling potatoes in order to eliminate as much as possible the return of the blight. Following a meeting late last month of producers, support agencies and governmental officials, the state government requested the U.S. secretary of agricultural to provide federal assistance for producers who experienced heavy losses this past year. The author of the following advice is the Penn State Extension professional who deals with such disease problems.

BARBARA CHRIST
Associate Professor
PSU Dept. Plant Pathology

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — There are several practices that should be considered and followed when late blight is present:

- Make sure the vines are thoroughly killed before harvest.
- When killing vines, apply an appropriate protectant fungicide until the vines are dead.
- Harvest tubers when soils are not wet and the soil is not adhering to the tubers.
- If more than 1 percent of tubers have blight, grade into storage; tubers that are lightly infected are difficult to detect and grade out.
- Storage of potatoes with severe late blight is difficult. The storage temperature should be lowered more rapidly than normal. Temperatures above 50 degrees will allow the fungus and associated soft rot bacteria to continue rotting the potatoes.

The ideal temperature to store blighted tubers is in the range of 38 to 40 degrees. Also, good air circulation is a must. And furthur, keep the relative humidity below 85 percent. Blighted tubers should not be held any longer than necessary.

1995 Seed Potatoes

Consider the source of seed potatoes to avoid introducing the disease into fields.

Contact your seed grower to talk over the blight situation in their area and, if possible, visit their farm operation.

There will be seed that is reasonably clean and free of blight. Maine has not been as hard hit with blight this year and has a reasonable seed crop depending on the individual.

Do not plant seed from Maine adjacent to seed from North Dakota.

New York seed growers may also have a reasonable crop of seed potatoes.

Not all of Pennsylvania seed is lost or full of blight. There may be a good seed source within our state, but the answers are not completely in yet.

Management For 1995

There are several management practices that should be followed to minimize the risk of heavy blight losses.

- Plant only certified seed.
- Remove all cull piles. Individual producers have buried or composted the cull tubers.
- Reduce volunteer plants. Expose tubers in order to freeze.
- Scout fields or scout areas where there may be volunteer plants.
- Use protectant fungicides.
- Ridomil is only effective towards sensitive strains of blight and only effective when applied early, before late blight is established.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Penn Star Farms Shows Grand Champion At Pa. Dairy Classic

INTERCOURSE (Lancaster Co.) — Pennstar Starbuck Bonnie, a 3-year-old Holstein which had placed well in earlier Hosltein competitions was named grand champion of the Pennsylvania Dairy Classic show and sale held Tuesday at the Ben Stoltzfus farm in Intercourse.

Shown by Patty Hushon, of Delta, the cow was owned by Pennstar Farms, of Quarryville, and sold for $2,300 to Breck-A-De Farms.

The reserve champion cow was a 3-year-old also, Gajan Midnight Pearl, shown and consigned by Galen Martin, of Honeybrook, which was later sold for $2,200 to Dr. Ben Turner, of Apulia Station, N.Y.

Judge for the show was Gordon Wood, of Gor-Wood-D Holsteins, in Mansfield. It was managed by the Cattle Exchange, of Delhi, N.Y., and Stonehurst Farm, in Strasburg.

During the sale, held following the show, 102 head were sold for a total of $140,000, or for just under an $1,400 average.

There were eight cows sold for more than $2,000 and buyers came from five states. The top selling animal was sold by Star Rock Farm of Elizabethtown, with Chemline Majesty selling for $2,750. The second highest selling animal was consigned by O. Clayton Smith, of Jefferson, Md., which was sold for $2,600.

Called the Fall-Harvest Show and Sale, the annual show is one of the Pennsylvania Classics organized by the Cattle Exchange and Stonehurst Farm.

For more information, call Dave Romney at the Cattle Exchange at (607) 746-2226, or Don Welk at Stonehurst, (717) 687-7475.

MILK CHECK

THOMAS JURCHAK
Dairy Specialist
Lackawanna County

SCRANTON (Lackawanna Co.) — As of Oct. 15, the description of the market for dairy product prices as "cautiously steady" is about as close as you can come to describing it the past month.

Block cheese prices increased over 2 cents the middle of September and stayed near the $1.33 level ever since.

Barrel cheese prices haven't changed in six weeks and remain at $1.29. That's about as steady as you can get, but the question is, which way next?

Will cheese buyers look at the latest cold storage report and see cheese holdings down more than 11 percent from last year and commerical disappearance up over 4 percent this year and keep on buying for the holidays?

Or will they look at the milk production reports that show an increase of 2 percent over last August and 3 percent over September and wait for lower milk prices?

What would you do?

it would appear that, with reports of bumper crops of feed grains, producers will have a better feed price/milk price ratio in the months ahead and production will continue to increase over last year.

Wisconsin production was 3 percent more than last September, but fluid milk deficits in Florida that usually come from the upper Midwest are now being met with shipments from the Northeast.

Good Sign

Perhaps that's a good sign that Florida deificts are not being met with Wisconsin milk. Usually they are sending 15 to 20 loads a week to Southeastern markets at this time, but not this year. The indication is that they still need all that milk in the upper Midwest for processed dairy products.

In addition to a growing demand for cheddar cheese, increases in other cheeses, especially mozzarella, are up nearly 5 percent over last year.

Nonfat dry milk prices are still being strengthened by subsidized sales for export under the Dairy Export Improvement Program (DEIP), and by the Class IIIa price for powdered milk that diverts more supplies away from cheese processors.

All of these factors are combining to keep the Minnesota-Wisconsin Price increasing and in September it went up 31 cents more to $12.04, for a total increase of 79 cents in three months. Certainly not giant strides, but in keeping with the cautiously steady market. However, there doesn't seem to be enough momentum from increasing demand for all dairy products including butter, power and cheese to keep pace with increasing milk production.

Seasonally, this is the time for declining production, as we go into the late fall and early winter months, but is also the season for declining demand.

Putting it all together, you may get another increase in the M-W for October, but that will be the last for now.

Good New Bad News

The good news is that farm prices will continue their increases of the last three months. You can expect 40 to 45 cents more in your check for September milk than you got for August milk. For most producers in this area, this will mean an increase of 65 to 90 cents over two months with more coming as Class I prices continue to climb monthly into December.

Right now, the farm price is 35 to 40 cents better than last year, but the bad news is that's not expected to last to the end of the year.

Emu Farm To Host Open House

BLOOMSBURG (Columbia Co.) — Longview Emu Farm, located near Jerseytown, will be hosting an open house on Sunday, October 23, at 3 p.m. for those interested in becoming involved in emu farming.

There will be a live demonstration of bird handling, discussions relating to care, maintenance, and facilities needed to raise emu, and emu meat tasting. A local veterinarian will be on hand to answer any medical/husbandry questions.

The American Emu Association, (AEA), based in Dallas, Texas, has more than 5,000 members who are involved in emu production in the U.S.

For more details or to register for the Longview Emu Farm Open House, call (717) 437-9185.

Ephrata Area Young Farmers Meet

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — The Ephrata Area Young Farmers held their regular monthly meeting at The Ephrata Area High School Building on October 12.

Marlin R. Hershey, feed division, Wenger Feeds, Rheems, shared information about the financial feasibility of swine and poultry contracting. An interesting question and answer session followed.

After a short period spent enjoying refreshments and fellowship, Philip R. Risser, president, called business session to order. The family Christmas party is planned for December 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the Ephrata Area Middle School.

Farm Show activities were discussed and reports given. The fun night drew a crowd of about 250. There was a consensus of opinion that it was a good year. Some planning for parking may be necessary for next year.

Michael W. Brubaker, Advisor, invited farmers to request yield tests.

The next meeting will be held November 1 at the same hour and place and will be focused on farmland preservation. The guest speaker will be Tom Daniels, director of the Agricultural Preserve Board of Lancaster County.

Sweet Meadow Greenhouse Meets Specialty Needs

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Co. Correspondent

MECHANICSBURG — (Cumberland Co.) - Patti and Corey Noggle have watched their business grow along with their plants at Noggle's Sweet Meadow Greenhouses near Mechanicsburg.

Even though the Noggle's can't offer the variety or the volume of plants offered by the bigger nurseries around, they can offer a personal touch that's hard to find these days.

"We can deal with details," Patti said.

The Noggles' business actually was born long before they bought their first used greenhouse in 1982.

Patti said her interest in horticulture first was sparked when she was a 4-H member in Cumberland County. She took horticulture projects in her local club and also participated in flower judging competitions at the local, state, and national levels.

During her years of judging, she became a state champion.

Her interest in horticulture carried on into her college years. Both she and Corey graduated from Penn State University, where they majored in horticulture.

Their greenhouse business began when Patti bought her first greenhouse from a Lancaster firm that was going out of business. That was when she first learned that she had a lot to learn about the greenhouse business, Patti said.

"We took it down and it looked like all the pieces were the same, so we threw everything together," Patti said. "But when we got it home and started putting it up it was a different story. Everything did have a specific place and we had to separate everything."

Patti Noggle showing some of her favorite colors in this field of mums.

"It was quite a project," she said.

The Noggles since have added two greenhouses, one in 1988 and one last spring. Patti started the business herself, but Corey joined her in it full time about three years ago.

Patti said she started the business by supplying mostly annuals, hanging baskets, and a few perennials. A large part of her business consisted of wholesaling to start, she said.

However, over the years, Patti said their business has grown to meet the different needs of its wholesale customers and the regular consumer as well.

They have increased the selection of their annuals and make a special effort to offer annuals that you won't find in many other greenhouses.

Patti said they also try to offer 100 really reliable perennials, because they know they can't compete with the big nurseries when it comes to sheer volume. They also offer a solid selection of herbs and vegetables.

Heirloom vegetables are becoming a big part of their operation too, Patti said.

When fall comes, she said, mums become a cornerstone at Noggles. This year, Patti said, they grew 9,000 mums of 82 varieties.

"We offer more varieties than the larger nurseries and as a wholesaler we can take care of small details for our customers," Patti said. "Some of our customers might want 25 plants with as many varieties as possible or another customer might want 50 plants with the majority of the colors being yellow. We can do that."

All that takes a lot of hard work.

They grow all their plants in the three greenhouses under 10,000 feet of plastic and have set aside half an acre with drip irrigation for the mums.

"We have about two months where we don't have a lot of greenhouse work, but we need that time for paperwork, researching plants for next season, and ordering everything," Patti said.

Patti and Corey are constantly learning about new growing techniques and new plants. They do a lot of research during the winter, go to Longwood Gardens, and a variety of gardening shows to see if they can pick up a few new tips.

"We are constantly doing our own research here at our own greenhouses, finding out what does well in our climate, if a plant is disease resistant, if it produces well and so on and so forth," Patti said.

Their work also carries over into the lives of their two children, Tristan, age 5, and Chelsea, age 9.

The childrens' classes from school come out to the greenhouses every year and Patty has helped teachers with projects relating to plant science. She said she feels that helping people learn about the environment is very important.

Patti said that every year, she and her husband learn something new that helps them survive against their larger competitors.

"You can get your share, but you have to do a good job," she said.

Tilling The Soil Helps Prisoners And Community

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

TROY (Bradford County) — Not all the inmates in the Bradford County Correctional Facility are idly biding their time. Some are helping repay their debt to society through an innovative gardening project sponsored by the Towanda-Wysox Kiwanis Club, the Bradford-Sullivan Farm Bureau, and various county businesses.

The project, dubbed the Bradford County Prison Harvest, incorporated the use of donated seeds, plants, and tools from area nurseries and businesses, input from the Penn State Cooperative Extension of Bradford County, approval from county officials and hard work from area farmers, and inmates. The Northern Tier Career center also donated a small shed for tool storage that was trucked to the site by SPE, Inc., a local John Deere dealer.

Produce from the one-acre plot is divided among the area food banks.

"I read about this," said Frank Bertrand, coordinator for the project. "A county jail did this in New York state."

The garden was located on a piece of land owned by the county, but rented by a local farmer.

"This spring, I went out and talked to the farmer who rents the land from the county," said Bertrand. "He agreed to donate the land. Another farmer agreed to plow it up, and in the meantime, I was coordinating the project with the sheriff, Steve Evans, and the jail warden, Dale Brown."

Once everything was in place, the project only needed willing hands to till the soil.

Two inmates were assigned to the project. With donated seeds and plants, they planted potatoes, cucumbers, squash, tomatoes, corn, peppers, and beans.

Inmates are selected for work projects based on the length of time they will serve and the nature of their legal charges. Their behavior while they are incarcerated is also taken into consideration. After they are selected, their applications are submitted to the sentencing judge. If it is approved, the prisoners are released to work in various areas.

Besides the gardening project, prisoners work with the Northern Tier Solid Waste Authority's recycling program and with township crews to help with stream rebuilding or other tasks.

In essence, prisoners are released to work on the various projects and must report back at a designated time.

Although the project sounds like an idea that will benefit everyone, there are some problems to work out.

"The biggest problem we had was that we got a late start. It was the second week of June before we really got started. The other thing that probably created a problem was that I underestimated the manpower needed. We probably should have had more manpower at planting time and worked down from there," said Warden Brown.

Another problem, or potential problem, is the risk of the prisoners not coming back to the facility.

"When doing a project like this, the questions that come to mind initially are issues of security. Basically that's the biggest concern as far as I'm concerned," said the Warden.

"Essentially we have inmates who are working there unsupervised for a period of time. There have been a couple of problems that have come up in the past when inmates have gone to the worksite and failed to come back. We had a situation this summer where an inmate working at the landfill project just left the worksite. That affected this program (garden) because we had to shut down our release programs for a period of time until the person was apprehended.

"The other problem with a county facility is generally people who are good candidates for a release program are here on a short-term basis, so we have kind of a high turnover in terms of inmate labor and that makes it hard to maintain continuity."

Yet another blow to this year's harvest was the wet weather. At one time this summer, the plot was completely under water and was often too wet to work in.

All the difficulties added up to a tiny harvest for the workers. The potatoes didn't come up at all, the corn, although tall, didn't develop ears, and numbers of cucumbers and squash were small.

"The problem was getting a quantity of stuff that would make it worthwhile to deliver. We had squash that would come on sporadically and some other things," said Brown.

In spite of the difficulties encountered, plans are already in place to try again next year.

"I look at this year as a real learning experience," said Brown. "We have to look at it and say this is what we had, these were the problems we had. It was not an overwhelming success this year, but I think the idea is still real good. We'll take what we learned this year and try again next year."

The first step will be to move the garden to a drier place. Hopefully with better conditions and more produce, the effort can benefit the 600-1000 needy families in the county through the local food banks.

"Donating the food to the local food pantries was what I saw as the biggest plus. It could give the inmates a sense of giving something back. That's a real positive thing. We really had an overwhelming response to the idea," said Warden Brown.

The inmates want something to do with their time. The project provided them with something to do and a sense of accomplishment."

Added Bertrand, "I think this gives these guys something to do other than sit around in jail all day. We had land that was not put to its best use and had people sitting idly across the highway...and why not help the needy in the community."

Bradford County Prison Warden Dale Brown checks on the squash in the garden, which was a cooperative effort between area businesses, agencies and inmates. Even though wet weather put a damper on this year's project, plans are already being made to try again next year.

Lebanon Farm Women Hold Convention

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Every year the individual counties that make up the 3,148 members of the Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvania hold a county convention. Recently, Lebanon County's 21 societies held their convention at the Quality Inn, Lebanon.

It was a time to reflect on the accomplishments of the county's 349 members, a time for fellowship, and a time to plan ahead.

Edith Lehman talked about some of the heirloom pieces that have been made by farm women and showed items made between 1885 to the present. She said that handmade treasures are often a part of farm women's lives and some of their expertise in making them are considered a dying art. Some of the older pieces displayed included hairpin lace, Italian cutwork, and tatting.

The day included an update on food safety and nutrition by Alletta Schadler, Lebanon County home economist, and a presentation by Lebanon County Dairy Princess Stacy Krall.

In keeping with Farm Women's concern for those in need, an impromptu offering was lifted for an 11-year-old leukemia patient, Kevin, who is a member of the North Mountain 4-H Club in the county.

Lois Bohn, who presides as the county society president, presented pins to members who reached the 80- and 90-year-old mark. Helen Deaver, Elsie Fasnacht, and Marion Hountz are 90-year-old members who reflected on their years with the society.

Elsie, who continues to drive her own car and lives on her own farm believes that the hard work she did on the farm contributes to her healthy lifestyle today.

She has been a widow for 17 years, has three children, five grandchildren, and seven great grandchildren.

Quilting, cross-stitching and traveling to Europe, Hawaii, and other places occupies her time.

Helen Deaver is also 90 years old. She still lives on the farm that she and her husband farmed together. She's outlived three husbands since her last one died five years ago.

"You just put things behind you

President Lois Bohn pins a Farm Women emblem on Cora Dubbie of Society 2, who was honored her 80th year.

Betty McMinn congratulates 90-year-old member Marian Houtz of Society 13. When Betty was in third and fourth grade, she was a student of Mrs. Houtz.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Just a few more notes on our recent trip to Massachusetts and Maine. Quite often our breakfast was eaten in the lobby of the hotel where we stayed overnight. Doughnuts and coffee are not a breakfast to eat if you do not want to gain a few pounds. I've been able to lose 15 pounds this summer.

On our next to the last day we had a guided tour of Portland which is Maine's largest city. It was destroyed three times but always rebuilt. Our bus traveled to the Portland Head Light, one of the oldest lighthouses in continued use in the United States.

We were given time to shop and walk around on the cobblestone streets and see the old gas street lights. Allen and I spent a few hours in the biggest antique shop that I'd ever seen. It had hundreds of thousands of items both big and small. There were display cases of silverware and jewelry. And, there were large items like beds, chests and tables. It was quite interesting to check the prices of items that compared to the few things that we have at home.

In the afternoon we drove by a Wedding Cake House, which had many decorations, on our way to see former President Bush's summer home at Kennebunkport. This town has no gas station or grocery store. The last stop of the day was a Franciscan Monastery. Here, for one dollar, you could light a candle to honor someone.

On our way home we toured Mark Twain's house in Hartford, Connecticut. This unusual 19-room Victorian house was built in 1873-74 and had bricks painted red and yellow on the outside. The last place of interest was the American Clock and Watch Museum in Bristol, Conn. Here we saw some 3,000 clocks, watches and tower clocks. Many grandfather clocks were set to strike simultaneously and we happened to arrive there at ten minutes of twelve. Some of the clocks dated back to the 1590s.

Our trip ended with a very nice family style dinner in Allentown. We were glad to be home again.

and keep going," Helen said of her ability to maintain a healthy attitude despite disappointments.

Helen rents the land and one side of the double farmhouse to someone else, but she keeps fit by mowing the grass around the property. She also sings in her church choir and enjoys visiting her two children, four grandchildren, and five great grandchildren.

Marion Houtz is another 90-year-old member. An elementary school teacher for 37 years, Marion has taught some of the Farm Women members in the county. She's been a widow for 20 years.

"I stay active and the Lord's been good to me," are Marian's explainations for her longevity.

A pin was presented to Cora Dubble for reaching her 80th birthday and continuing her membership in Farm Women Society 2.

In addition to the scholarship presented to students at the state level, the Lebanon County Farm Women also presented scholarships to countians Eric Brinser and Stacy Wampler.

Entertainment included a musical production by the Hitz children and a ventriloquist named Cindy Patches.

A memorial service was held in memory of members who passed away during the last year. These included Hilda Balmer, Society 1: Mary Light, Society 2; Grace Hamilton, Society 3; Beulah Gockley, Society 4; Esther Boltz, Society 6; Evelyn Kline, Society 8; Mary Strickler, Society 8; Eva Fertig, Society 9; Edith Long, Society 18; and Elizabeth Long, Society 13.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

What a rude awakening.

"Be aware if you're on your way to work," said the perky announcer's voice on the radio," that there are spots of ice on roads at higher elevations."

Half-awake from the clock radio, the sky still midnight-black outside the bedroom window, I snuggled deeper into the electric blanket and pondered just how cold it was.

In contrast to the cozy downstairs woodstove warmth, the thermometer on the lack porch registered a brisk 35-degrees. Down in the colder area of the meadow, breaking daylight showed a frosty coating on the big, round hay bales lined up there.

Halfway through my toasted English muffin came the second mental jolt of the morning. Antifreeze, noted the television news reporter, is already in short supply, selling for as much as 80-percent over last year's prices as people hurry to stock up.

Noooooo! I wanted to protest. But, like it or not, facts are facts: it was time to winterize.

Encouraged by the gorgeous, sunny—and warmer—afternoon, I took the first reluctant step toward "winterizing". Lowering the storm window. Which means washing windows.

Cleaning the windows of our century-plus old farmhouse required the single-minded determination of a charging bull and the balance and flexibility of an acrobat. Bulk of the job can actually be accomplished easily in an afternoon. It's my attitude adjustment about it that takes longer.

Years ago, we insulated our old, multi-paned, wavy-glass windows by in installing triple-track-type storm windows. Their layers of glass and screens are designed for easy removal for cleaning at some handy place, like the kitchen sink. But, due to where some of those windows are located, the layers can't be taken out; thus it is our window washer that ends up in the kitchen sink.

Just behind the sink is my primary "window on the world," from which much of the farm is visible. Because the window sill lies several inches below the counter's splash back, none of the storm windows can be removed for cleaning. So, the glass and screen panels have to be raised and lowered a couple of times to reach all the inside and outside surfaces of three separate layers of window.

And the only way to do that particular window one is by standing—literally—in my sink.

Even more challenging is the window directly behind the stove. While the outside panes of the "sink" window are accessible from the back porch, the outside, upper glass layers of the "stove" window are nearly 20 feet above ground, accessible only with the aluminum extension ladder. The insides of that window, however, can be easily reached. Just by kneeling on the stove burners. Preferably not while something is cooking.

It always takes about two windows before I get the proper routine of raising and lowering sections to reach the most glass with the fewest trips inside, outside, up and down the ladder. After all that, washing the other half-dozen windows on the main floor are a breeze.

In the process, I find and remove several dozen spider webs—a few with residents—dried bits of houseplant leaves, miscellaneous nuts, bolts, nails, various decorative items and the cat's favorite superball.

Every fall I dread it. And, every fall I'm equally pleased with myself over the results of window "winterizing." Clear, clean glass has replaced the dusty screens, making the beauty of the October landscape outside even more brilliant. And smack in the middle of my now-clean "window on the world" is a trio of squirrels, hogging sunflower seed from the feeder I'd filled while returning the extension ladder.

Wonder if these furry-tailed little beggars could be trained to wash windows?

Raising Responsible Teens

BROOKVILLE (Clearfield Co.) — Plan to attend "Raising Responsible Teens 1994: The Communication Connection." This national video conference on talking with teens will be downlinked on Wednesday, October 26, from 8:30 to 10:00pm. Location will be the Quiet Lounge of the Hiller Building, on the DuBois Campus of Penn State.

"The Communication Connection" will focus on talking with teens openly and honestly about the problems they face and, most importantly, what they want from the adults in their lives.

The intent of this video conference is to provide an opportunity for parents and other youth-serving personnel to discuss with teenagers the issues that teens are confronting every day. The program will be moderated by a teen and will feature panels of teenagers from Wisconsin, Colorado, and New York. The panels will talk to viewers and answer their questions.

This broadcast will feature teens talking about the things they need from parents and adults, and is intended to help adults better understand the challenges and choices confronting today's teens. Primary issues to be discussed will include communication, dealing with peer pressure, setting rules and limits and the importance of emotional support.

To register contact either the Clearfield office at (814) 765-7878, or the Brookville office at (814) 849-7361.

Pizza And Apple Month

October is both National Apple and National Pizza month. We don't expect pizza and apples to be cooked together but they do make a great combo for snacks and celebrations. Or, serve them separately.

Here are some ideas that are sure to add creativity to your October menu.

PIZZA CASSEROLE

1½ cups uncooked macaroni
1½ pounds ground beef
1 chopped onion
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon sugar
8-ounce can tomato sauce
14-ounces pizza sauce
1½ cups shredded cheese
Sliced pepperoni

Bring 2 quarts water to a boil in large pan. Add 1 teaspoon salt and uncooked macaroni. Cook 9 minutes. Pour into colander and drain.

In skillet, brown ground beef and onion. Drain off excess fat. Stir in remaining ingredients. Simmer 5 minutes. Add macaroni. Put in casserole dish and top with cheese and pepperoni. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes.

APPLE ORCHARD PORK CHOPS

6 pork loin chops, cut 1½ -inch thick
2 teaspoons vegetable oil
2 cups apple cider or apple juice
⅓ cup German-style mustard
3 apples, unpared, cored, sliced ½ -inch thick
½ cup currants or raisins
½ cup sliced green onions
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup water

Heat oil in large skillet. Brown pork chops over medium-high heat. Season with salt and pepper. Combine apple cider and mustard; pour over pork chops. Cover; cook over medium-low heat 45 minutes. Add apples, currants, and green onions. Cover; cook 5-10 minutes longer. Place pork chops and apples on serving platter; keep warm. Gradually stir combined cornstarch and water into cider liquid. Cook and stir until thickened. Serve sauce over pork chops and apples.

APPLE BARS

2 cups flour
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup butter
2 egg-yolks, beaten
4 cups apple, cored, chopped
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 egg whites, slightly beaten

Combine flour with sugar, baking powder, and salt. Cut in butter until crumbs are the size of small peas. Stir in egg yolks. Divide mixture in half, press one half over the bottom of a 9x13-inch pan. Combine apples, ¾ cup sugar, and ¼ cup flour and cinnamon. Arrange over bottom crust. Crumble remaining dough over apples. Brus egg whites over all. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Cool. Drizzle with thin powdered sugar icing, if desired. Cut into bars. Icing with 1 cup powdered sugar and 2 tablespoons milk. Mix well.

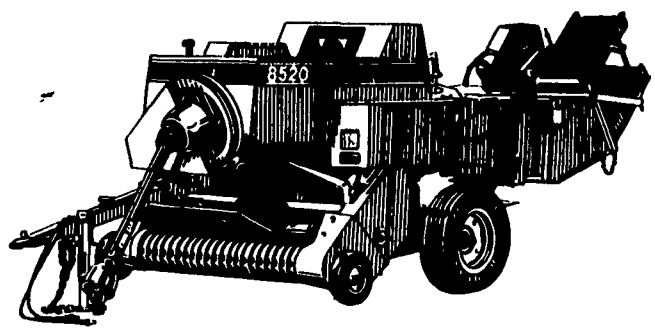
OUTSTANDING BALER PERFORMANCE MEANS GREATER NUTRITION AT AN ECONOMICAL PRICE



Case International 8520/8530 Rectangular Balers

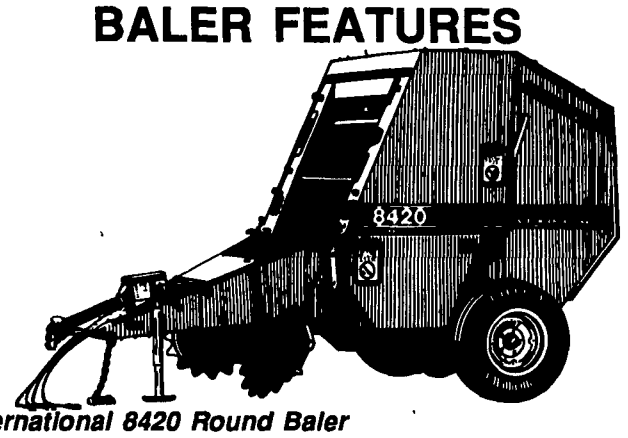
These two balers both feature the Case IH center line design. Eliminates turning corners with the crop to get it into the bale chamber, as is common with conventional designs. This saves valuable protein-rich leaves. Also saves time because you don't have to change from field to road position for transport.

Other outstanding features are:

- Low-profile baler design provides excellent visibility to the rear of the baler.
- Low-profile pickup... reduces crop lifting height, saving nutritious leaves.
- Hay goes straight into the unique prepacker chamber... regardless of windrow size.. for uniform flake and bale density.

Come in soon for the rest of the story!

THE COMPACT BALER WITH BIG-BALER FEATURES



Case International 8420 Round Baler

Produce consistent 39x54-inch bales using only a 30-PTO horsepower tractor. Yet reap the advantage of direct feed, open-throat chamber design so bales build fast, sure and tight. Other big-baler features:

- Aggressive starter roll so each bale starts right.
- Audible signal when bales are done and ready for wrapping
- Cam-actuated low-profile pickup, close tine spacing for clean sweeping of heavy windrows.
- Optional hydraulic twine wrapping system

A heavyweight producer in a lightweight package.

Cook's Question Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Sherry Rechlin, Lebanon, Conn., would like a recipe called Death by Chocolate. It has layers of chocolate morsels, Cool whip, candy bars, cake or brownies in it.

QUESTION — Lillian Drasher, Nescopeck, writes that she made fudge that contained ¾ pound Velvetta cheese. She loved it and shared it with others who loved it. Now she can't find the recipe. Does anyone have this recipe?

QUESTION — Geraldine Kraft, York, would like a recipe for breadsticks.

QUESTION — A Lancaster County reader would like a recipe for pepper jelly made with Karo or white corn syrup.

QUESTION — D. Newsom, Cooperstown, N.Y., lost one of her favorite cookbooks. She would like the following recipes to replace those she lost: lobster or crabmeat dip that is very delicate and has few ingredients, strawberry shortcake with a cooked frosting, and Spiedie Marinade for meat.

QUESTION — Do any readers have a recipe for homemade ice cream made from potatoes?

QUESTION — A Chester County reader wants to know if wine or brandy can be made from pears.

QUESTION — LaFaye Burkholder, Fredericksburg, would like to know how to dry sunflower seeds and also how to wash them. Should the seeds be taken off the head to dry?

QUESTION — Lena Grill, Reamstown, would like recipes for crab apple jelly or jam.

QUESTION — Phyllis Baldner, St. Thomas, wants a recipe for V-8 Juice because she misplaced one she had clipped from the newspaper. She needs it immediately to use the last pickings of tomatoes.

QUESTION — Isaac Kirk Sr., Silver Spring, Md., wrote that he misplaced the recipe for turtle soup that he had clipped from this paper. It appeared about two years ago and had come from a restaurant in New Orleans. We do not keep a file copy of these recipes. If you clipped the recipe, please send a copy for us to reprint.

QUESTION — G.E.Ross, Douglassville, writes that he found a grove of paw paw trees when their goats munched down an area overgrown with weeds. He has eaten the paw paws raw and thought perhaps some elderly folks would have some paw paw recipes for the young folk to enjoy.

QUESTION — Gwen Webster, Glen Rock, would like a recipe for grape bars. She had purchased some at the Grape Festival in Naples, N.Y. The bars were delicious with a graham cracker crumb crust with fruit on the top.

QUESTION — V. M. of Waynesboro, wants a recipe for sweet pickled peppers. Her idea is to strip the peppers and eat them on steaks, subs, hamburgers or a side dish. She had them at a sub shop where the owner made them himself but did not want to share his recipe.

QUESTION — Aida Mothes, Renick, W.V., writes that she was in Norway, a quick bread that was often served in restaurants was a fruit or nut bread that was very moist. She would like the recipe.

ANSWER — Helen Spencer, Hopewell, N.J., wanted to know where to purchase molds to make clear toy candy. Thanks to Joyce Bachman, Jonestown, who writes that when she makes clear toy cand, she uses tiny cookie cutters.

Lay out a piece of aluminum foil and spray heavily with vegetable oil spray. Place tiny cookie cutters (bite size) on foil. Make sure the area is level. Pour hot clear toy mixture into cutters, thin or thick, the depth is up to you. Let cool, then pop the toy candy out of the cookie cutters. Make sure you have enough cutters for a whole batch of clear toy mixture before you begin as the mixture drys really fast.

ANSWER — M. Lehman would like a recipe for canning carrots. Thanks to Hazel Spamer, Perry Hall, for sending her recipe.

Canned Carrots:

Scrub carrots; scrape or blanch them and slip off the skins. May be sliced, diced or left whole. Precook for 5 minutes and pack in pint jars. Fill carrots to neck with water. Seal. Can in boiling water bath for 100 minutes for pints or 120 minutes for quarts or 30 minutes in pressure canner at 10 pounds pressure.

When ready to serve, heat and drizzle with honey.

ANSWER — Dianna Cook, Elmer, N.J., wanted a recipe for pickled hot peppers. Thanks to Mrs. Ben Z. Stoltzfus, Kinzer, for sending a relish recipe and Mrs. Robert Uhler Jr., Boyertown, for sending one for Jalapenos.

Hot Pepper Relish

7 cups finely chopped or grind hot peppers
2 tablespoons salt

Combine ground peppers and salt and let set for 3 hours.

Add:

5 cups sugar
1 quart vinegar

Cook until thick, stirring frequently, about 45 mintues. Put into jars and seal in boiling water bath.

Perfect Pickled Jalapenos

11 sliced Jalapenos
24 ¼ -inch carrots, sliced
12 pearl onions, peeled
12 bay leaves
2 cups white vinegar
2 cups water

Combine vinegar and water in an enamel pot and bring to a boil. Almost fill hot sterile jars with jalapeno rings. Add 2 carrot slices, an onion, and bay leaf to each jar. Add boiling liquid to each jar, fill to within ½ -inch of top. Seal and process in boiling water bath for 10 minutes. Yield: makes 12 one-half pint jars.

ANSWER — Dianna Cook, Elmer, N.J., wanted a recipe for pumpkin fudge. Thanks to Josephine Matenus, Dallas, for sending her recipe.

Old-Fashioned Pumpkin Fudge

2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
1 tablespoon mashed cooked pumpkin
⅓ cup sweetened condensed milk
⅓ cup milk
¼ teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
Salt to taste
2 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
2 drops orange food coloring, optional

Combine sugar, corn syrup, pumpkin, condensed milk, milk, pumpkin pie spice, and salt in saucepan; mix well. Bring to a boil over medium-high heat; reduce heat. Cook to 238 degrees on candy thermometer, soft-ball stage, stirring occasionally.

Cool slightly. Stir in butter until melted. Add vanilla and food coloring. Beat until mixture is creamy and loses its luster. Spread in 5x9-inch dish lined with buttered foil; smooth top. Let stand until cool and firm. Cut into squares. Yield 45 squares.

ANSWER — A reader was looking for a recipe called cabbage strudel. Thanks to Josephine Matenus, Dallas, for sending it.

Cabbage Strudel

1½ pounds all-purpose flour
1 egg
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter
Lukewarm milk

Mix ingredients gradually, add the sifted flour with salt, egg yolk, and butter. Knead dough until it is smooth and elastic. Allow to stand for 20 minutes in a warm place.

Cabbage Filling:

3 pound head of cabbage
1 cup nut meats, crushed
¾ cup shortening
1 cup raisins, washed and dried
2 cups fine bread crumbs or crushed graham crackers
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Select a solid white head of cabbage, chop fine or grate coarsely into one half cups shortening and simmer until boiling, stirring frequently to prevent scorching. Allow to cool. Prepare strudel dough and stretch. Cut off the thick portions around the stretched dough. Spread on the cabbage filling that has been cooled. Sprinkle over the crushed walnuts, raisins, and crumbs. Fold over two sides and roll strudel with the aid of a tablecloth. Place in well-greased pan. Brush top with melted butter and bake in 350 degree oven until golden brown. Serve hot.

ANSWER — M. Lehman would like a recipe for canning carrots. Thanks to Hazel Spamer, Perry Hall, for sending her recipe.

Canned Carrots:

Scrub carrots; scrape or blanch them and slip off the skins. May be sliced, diced or left whole. Precook for 5 minutes and pack in pint jars. Fill carrots to neck with water. Seal. APPLE NUT RING

2 8-ounce packages refrigerated biscuits
¾ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cinnamon
¼ cup melted butter
2 medium apples
½ cup chopped nuts
¼ cup raisins (optional)

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Separate biscuits into 20 pieces. Combine sugar and cinnamon. Dip biscuits into melted butter, then roll in sugar mixture. Arrange biscuits in single layer in round baking dish. Peel, core, and slice apples very thin. Place an apple slice between each biscuit and around edge of baking dish. Mix nuts and rasins with remaining sugar mixture and sprinkle on top. Bake 25 to 30 minutes or until golden brown.

APPLE PIE

Crust:

1½ cups pastry flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
4 tablespoons milk

Combine dry ingredients. Cut in shortening. Add milk.

Filling:

5 cups apples
1 cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons flour
Dash cinnamon
1 pie crust

Mix together first four ingredients, put into unbaked pie shell. Mix crumbs and sprinkle on top. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes, reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake until apples are soft in the center.

Crumbs:

½ cup oatmeal
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup flour
½ cup margarine

Mix together; sprinkle on pie and bake according to directions above.

APPLE BREAD

⅔ cup butter
1½ cups sugar
4 eggs
1½ cups apple sauce
½ cup milk
4 cups flour, sifted
2 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
1 cup chopped pecans
½ cup chopped raisins
½ cup chopped dates

Cream together butter and sugar. Beat in applesauce and mix in milk. Sift together dry ingredients. Add to applesauce mixture and mix well. Stir in remaining ingredients. Making First Things First

I just got back from a professional conference in Kansas. The theme of the conference centered on The Wizard of Oz, and the final speaker did an eloquent job of teaching us lessons about life through the characters in the story. Well one that impressed me was his comments about the "flying monkeys."

We all have flying monkeys in our lives—unexpected, sometimes scary, events that dart at us and pull us off track. They are bound and determined to keep us from reaching the goals we have set. Now, of course, we're not on a quest to find a witch's broom, but we are on other quests. Your quest may be finding a new job or spending more time with a child who lacks confidence. It may be to run for a school board seat or to quilt a blanket for a new grandchild.

Whatever the goal, flying monkeys have a way of swooping in and taking us off track.

In his book, First Things First, Stephen Covey talks about the importance of devoting energy to the important aspects in our lives. He cautions that we not let urgent demands distract us from important goals. How are you doing keeping your first things as a top priority?

Researcher Joan Kofodimos studied many working adults and developed worksheets to help them see if they had balance in their lives. Here's a portion of one quiz that she used to measure if a person is spending an unhealthy amount of time focusing on work. How many of the following questions would you check off?

- I put more thought into my work than I do into my personal life relationships.
- I eat on the run.
- I find myself thinking about work (farm operation) while I'm doing leisure activities.
- I keep promising myself that I will cut down on working, but I don't do so.
- I work (farm) harder when things are not satisfying in my personal life.
- I don't spend much time in conversation and interactions with family and friends.

These are a few of the statements that indicate someone is having difficulty balancing time and energy between personal and work responsibilities. Unfortunately families suffer and marriages suffer when this occurs.

In order for marriages and friendships to survive and thrive, people must commit time and energy to them. So often we see work as an unavoidable obligation, but our "job" as a mom, friend, son, or husband are not treated with the same seriousness.

If you really want to make your commitment stick (in spite of the flying monkeys that attack and try to pull you off track), Kofodimos suggests that you make the commitment public. Tell others. Specifically schedule time for the chosen priority; make this a non-negotiable calendar item. You may actually want to create an activity that would force you to fulfill the time. For instance, I like to host a "Ladies' Day Out" at my home which forces me to spend some time with girlfriends that I enjoy. If I didn't schedule the "event," my time would slip by without a visit.

Finally, spend time with people who will encourage you to stick to your priorities. If you spend time with workaholics, you'll probably start to behave like them. If you share ideas with people who do special things with their families, you are likely to do those same things yourself.

Keeping first things first is a challenge. Take some time this week to ask yourself hard questions about whether the things you say you value are really getting the best you have to offer in time and energy.

Natural Childbirth Program Offered

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Birth Care and Family Health Services will offer a free program "Alternatives in Natural Childbirth" on Thursday, October 27 from 6:00 to 9:00 p.m. Topics of discussion will include Birth Center, home and hospital birth options, safety statistics, insurance reimbursement information, and more.

Birth Centers were found safe for low-risk women in a recent national study and the cost-effective care offered by nurse midwives is receiving favorable attention from insurance providers.

Speakers will include Certified Nurse Midwife Rita Rhoads Martinez, founder of Pennsylvania's first Birth Center, Birth Care nursing staff, and clients who have experienced a variety of birth options.

Tours of the Birth Center will be given from 6:00 to 7:00 p m. Refreshments will be served and door prizes awarded. The program will start at 7:00 p.m. and will be followed by an informal discussion and questions.

The Birth Center is located at 1180 Dry Wells Road, Quarryville, Pa. For more information or directions, call (717) 786-4010.

Fall Is The Season For Yummy Apple Cider And Apple Butter

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

SALISBURY (Somerset Co.) — Hey kids, have you noticed how everything is changing now that fall is here? Doesn't the sky seem a deeper shade of blue above gold and red leaves hanging on the trees? Some trees are already bare.

There's a chilly nip in the air that makes you grab a sweatshirt, jacket or sweater before going outside. I'll bet you do it almost without thinking. No doubt you stuff some tissues in a pocket 'cause your nose may drip. Noses tend to drip in colder weather.

And your moms and grandmas are covering pretty flowers at night so the frost doesn't destroy their prettiness by changing them into a yukky shade of brown.

It's also the season for crisp apples and the making of applebutter and apple cider.

Not everybody has an applebutter and apple cider plant near where they live like I do. But a man named Menno Beachy has a plant just a few miles away. When white vapors are rising from the valley, everybody knows cider and applebutter are being made there. That's because when the apple cookers are going, ceiling vents let heavy steam escape to the outside. It's different from chimney smoke.

First the raw apples are dumped into an outside chute. They tumble through a washing cycle on a conveyor.

Mr. Beachy says, "Those apples get a genuine scrubbing."

Then the elevator takes them high to a grinder where they are ground-up before going to the cider press.

Through the steam two men are seen releasing crushed apples onto a square pallet that they've covered with a sturdy material. They spread the crushed apples about four inches deep. The four corners of the material are folded over that layer and a new layer is started on top.

They repeat the process 11 times before moving the layers to the cider press. Mr. Beachy calls it "stacking."

He says it's an old-fashioned method that still works better than some new machines that take less work but have too much waste.

The cider press take about 15 minutes to do its job. Then Terry Wegman and Reuben Sommers reopen the covers and dump the apple pulp on an elevator that drops it on a heap outside the building. Later, the pulp helps to feed deer and other animals, they said.

To make apple butter, you cook cider and applesauce together. It takes almost an hour and a half for one batch. It bubbles out of the stainless steel cookers and looks like little brown frogs jumping out of water.

When the bubbling gets really bad, an employee turns on the water hose and sprays away the outside goo.

"Why are you doing that?" he was asked.

"To keep it clean," he said, adding that if the applebutter isn't rinsed off right away it gets hard and crusty. You can't ever clean it off then.

He knows when the applebutter is exactly right by how it drips off his wooden paddle when it's dipped into the mixture.

Then Fannie Beachy, Mr. Beachy's sister, fills new jars with the fresh applebutter.

She's amazing. She pulls down a lever and zip, the jar fills in a second. She passes it to a person with the lid and grabs another jar. Fannie never runs it over even though it comes out of the spout so fast.

Ron Higson and his son-in-law, Brian Root, from Wiley Ford, West Virginia, come to Beachy's every year with truck loads of red and yellow Delicious apples. They bring about 1,800 or 2,000 bushels of them.

Mr. Higson says applebutter is a very healthy product and one of his favorite foods.

Mr. Beachy won't let supermarkets sell his applebutter because it is a special food product that's completely natural. Only 48 stores in the United States get to sell it. Those are specialty stores where quality is more important than how much is sold.

Of course, people can buy it at the plant or call Sam Beachy and Sons. That's the name of the business.

Applebutter is tasty and good for you. Some folks spread it over bread. Others like it on top of cottage cheese. And apple cider is a terrific drink, hot or cold, plain, or fancied up with spices.

If an applebutter and cider making plant is near you, ask someone to take you there. It's family fun and an educational field trip for school classes.

Here in Salisbury, Beachy's won't make applebutter or cider after Thanksgiving Day. But by that time, Mr. Beachy says Sam Beachy and Sons will have make 60,000 gallons of apple cider and 20,000 gallons of applebutter this fall.

Terry Wegman and Reuben Sommers are stacking layers of crushed apples 11 tiers high to be pressed into fresh apple cider at Sam Beachy and Sons, Salisbury, Pa.

Here the red Delicious apples are coming out of the washer, the first step for making cider or applebutter. Terry Wegman will put them in the applesauce tank.

Clutter - Source of Stress?

Have you spent the day sorting and rearranging those items that you need a home for but you don't know where? Does this happen all too often when you want to have a meeting for the PTO fund raiser at your home? Or you have a few special friends in for dessert? Clutter has a way of sneaking up on a person. Someone once said that housekeeping is like stringing beads without a knot on the end of the string. It seems to be a never-ending process.

Do you want to get more organized, but things are such a mess that you don't know where to start? Does just looking at the piles of paper, clothes, toys, etc. cause you to feel tired before you start? This may be referred to as visual stress. Stress can be defined as pressure from outside that can make you feel tense inside.

We look for easy ways to store or camouflage clutter. Added storage or bought storage units might be one solution; but often these are soon overflowing again. Instead of hiding clutter, you might want to try and think why it is there in the first place.

We have our reasons why we are keeping certain items. One might be that we no longer do "spring or fall" cleaning. This was the time when we sorted out what was important to keep from one season to the next. We also discarded items. Homes are smaller, with less storage areas, often with no basements or attics or even available storage in the main part of the home.

Jill C. Major, who writes about clutter defines it as "things that are worth saving, but haven't been put away, deposited on top of things that are not worth saving but haven't been thrown away, which have settled next to things you aren't sure what to do with".

Not everyone is concerned with clutter if it's unfinished objects (UFO), the craft-projects, or stack of magazines. A problem occurs when you can't get done what you want or it causes a person to trip or fall. You waste your time looking for an item that you know is in one of those piles.

You make the decision which possessions will remain with you and which ones should go. Trying to hold onto everything may keep you from being in control of your life. Research tells us that as human beings we have a high need to be in control of situations. One toll of clutter is that everything stashed away or hidden is also stashed away in our mind and continues to drain our mental energy.

How can we make a start at getting rid of clutter? There are many books written on the subject of organization and what steps are involved. Basically, it comes down to decision-making. You have decided that you want to do something with all the accumulation. One suggestion is to start with a small area. Work at it for a short period of time. This is so you don't overwhelm yourself, become too tired with thinking about all you have to do. You may want to involve the entire family or someone else to help you. Pick a time of day when you feel highly energized. A garage sale date for the neighborhood or an organization that has asked for donations is a good incentive to "de-clutter".

The steps that one uses for sorting fall into three or four areas. First, identify items that you really want, example: objects that are used or are kept as mementos. Things I really want and need. (Be sensible). The next one is the junk or trash pile. Things like unmated items, (a single glove, broken scissors, etc.), items that you can't use. These needed to be discarded.

The third pile is the items you want to give away, to a yard sale, or donate to a charity store or your local church's yard sale. Things you no longer have use for but someone else might. Last is the maybe pile. This pile could grow, so be cautious about the items you keep. You might find yourself back starting all over again.

Decisions take time and energy. These type of decisions involve the process of letting go. It can be an emotional time as you make this decision to get rid of an item that a friend or relative gave you. Has it outlived its usefulness? You may have to make a choice. It is this type of decision that drains your energy as you are sorting.

Try to take a few "stitches in time" with your items that you bring into the home or your work area. For example, we are overloaded with paper. Junk mail can easily be discarded in a convenient wastebasket at an area you use for your home office. Keep a wastebasket in each room.

If you'd like to decrease this type of mail, The Direct Marketing Association has a mail preference service that will, at your written request, remove your name from mailing lists at no cost to you. List names and variations of spelling that might be on labels. Write to: Mail Preference, District Marketing Association, P.O. Box 9008, Farmingdale, NY 11735-9099.

Reading materials—magazines, newspaper. If you don't have time to read an article from the paper, clip and file in folder for later reading. If this reading is not getting done, you might want to consider what magazines you can do without and not renew a subscription. (You could go to the local library and borrow issues).

Preventive maintenance is a way to keep clutter under control. Think before you buy an item—"Where am I going to put it?" Make a list of items that you'd like to purchase. If it stays on the list for a long time, then you may realize that you can live without it. Say, "No Thanks," to people who want to give you items. Keep a recycle box handy for those items that you are not sure you will use in your home.

Remember de-junking, decluttering or sorting and discarding can help with your mental outlook as well as save your cleaning time.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 14

On July 13, Lancaster Society 14 met at the home of Ellen Newswanger, hostesses were Anna Marie Groff, Dorothy Musser and Ada Rohrer who served delicious refreshments. For roll call, members told the number of grandchildren each has. The program was adventures of grandmothers told by Polly Stoltzfus, Ellen Newswanger, and Donna Coleman. Members also had a baby shower for Donna. Each member also donated a non-perishable food item for the Food Bank.

A picnic was held August 11th at the Tinney Pavilion in Strasburg. Gladys Esbenshade provided delicious turkey. Mr. & Mrs. John Henry Herr presented the program, "Coping with Cultures," a slide presentation of various cultures. Hostesses were Mary Deitzel, Elva Rowe, Caroline Stoltzfus, and Rhoda Landis.

On the 14th of September, members met at the home of Gladys Esbenshade. Millie Herr had devotions. Each told what she brought for the auction. Donna Coleman was the auctioneer. She sold plants, flowers, baked goods, crafts, and garden produce.

Lancaster Society 8

Lancaster Society of Farm Women No. 8 met on October 12 at the home of Arlene Witman in Mount Joy. Margaret Hiesey gave devotions. Hostesses were Mildred Hirst, Evelyn Russell, and Arlene Witman. Mike Cassidy, staff director connected with the State Democrat Caucus, was guest speaker who gave up-to-date facts on present issues. The November 9 meeting will be held at the Donegal Presbyterian Church in Mount Joy. Members are to bring items for the Food Bank.

Berks Farm Women Recognize Fa

The 43rd annual convention of Berks County farm women was held at the Berks County Agriculture Center with 108 members and guests present.

Koffee Klatch and registration was from 9 to 10.

Fern Phillipy, outgoing county president, opened the convention, followed by devotions, pledge to the flag and singing of God Bless America.

Janet Schlegel, convention chairperson, introduced Faye Strickler, Berks Co. home economist, who spoke on children and discipline, discipline not being a dirty word, but a positive attitude, rather than the negative. She also spoke on nutrition and offered a brochure entitled "Getting Your Affairs In Order".

Melissa Bicksler, Berks County Dairy Princess, daughter of Kathy and Thomas Bicksler of Myerstown, (Kathy is a member of Group #2) presented a skit "The Three Bears" with an interesting message about milk. Megan Phillips, Mini Dairy Princess, daughter of Brenda and Jim Phillips, read a poem.

Lillian Harnish, nominating committee chairperson, presented on the ballot for president Wendy Lingle; vice president, Barbara Kintzer, and secretary, Carol Stoudt. Having no opposition, the nomimees were later installed by Dorothy Strickler, state president.

Dorothy briefly thanked all women who opened their homes to the out-of-town guests. Seven young people participated in the county/state project writing "How I Spend Rewarding Time With My Family". The seven entries were Cameron Gettel, Katrina Prutzman, Ryan Krisch, Shawn Krisch, Andrew Moyer, Kevin Frantz, and Brian Mauger. Each received a certificate and a half dollar.

This year each group president presented a written summary of the past year's outstanding happenings.

A humourous skit," A Day at the Country Store" was presented by Mary Fizz and her mother, Elsie Rothenberger.

The memorial service was conducted by Mary Bartholomew, Regina Mayer, and Wendy Shane. Mary Hertzog, Group #3, Doris Brown, Group #11, and Jean Fry, Group #9 were remembered during the service.

Wegman's catered a delicious meal of ham and turkey.

In the afternoon session of the convention, members were entertained by a barbershop quartet, "The Keynotes" who sang some old family favorites with the women singing along to some of the familiar tunes. Dr. Doris Burkhart spoke on child development.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Dixie Fix, Harrisonville, wanted a recipe for bananas in red syrup that is served by Ponderosa and Shoney's breakfast and salad bars. Thanks to Betsy Dehn, Spencerville, Md., who sent a recipe.

Sweet Strawberry Dressing

In saucepan, combine:
1 cup fresh strawberries
½ cup sugar
½ cup currant jelly
⅓ cup water

Bring mixture to boiling; reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, for 15 minutes.

Blend 2 tablespoons water into 4 teaspoons cornstarch. Stir into syrup mixture. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly. Cook an additional minute. Stir in 2 tablespoons lemon juice; cool slightly and strain through a sieve. Chill. Makes 1½ cups dressing for sliced bananas Ponderosa style.

ANSWER — Mary Ream, Elverson, wanted a recipe for vanilla fudge. Thanks to Betty Light, Lebanon, for sending a recipe.

Ultimate Fudge

1 cup heavy whipping cream
1 cup unsweetened evaporated milk
2¼ cups granulated sugar
1 tablespoon plus ½ teaspoon light corn syrup
1½ teaspoons vanilla extract

Butter upper sides of 3-quart saucepan. Measure all ingredients but vanilla and dump into saucepan. Grease, and if necessary, line a 5x10-inch pan. Fill glass with ice cubes and water and fill the sink half-inch full of water.

Dissolve sugar, stirring constantly with wooden spoon over low heat until butter melts, gritty sounds cease, and spoon glides smoothly over bottom of pan. Increase heat to medium and bring to a boil.

Test by dropping about ¼ teaspoon of the mixture in ice-cold water when mixture thickens and bubbles and reaches 236-244 degrees. Should form a ball and hold its shape.

Place saucepan in sink.

Add vanilla. Allow mixture to cool.

Stir when lukewarm and skin forms on top. Return thermometer to hot water bat to soak clean. Stir fudge thoroughly but not vigorously by hand, with electric mixer or with food processor. Pause frequently to allow fudge to react.

Watch fudge to thicken, lose its sheen, become lighter in color or streaked with lighter shades. Pour, score, and store in airtight container.

ANSWER — Sandra Tabor, North East, Md., wanted a recipe for rice pudding cooked in the microwave. Thanks to Una Lee Burton, Dagsboro, Del., for sending a recipe.

Microwave Rice Pudding

½ cup rice
3½ cups milk
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon butter
¼ cup sugar
½ cup raisins, optional

Combine rice, milk, butter, and sugar in a 3-quart casserole. Cover with lid or plastic wrap. Microwave on high 9-11 minutes or until boiling. Continue to microwave uncovered on medium heat for 25 to 30 minutes or until rice is tender. Stir after each 10 minutes. Stir in vanilla and raisins. Serve warm or cold. Top with cinnamon or nutmeg if desired. Pudding thickens as it cools so you may want to serve with additional milk.

ANSWER — Mary Stoltzfus wanted to know where Rohrer's Mill was located so she can purchase wheat germ meal. Thanks to Hannah King who writes that the mill is located along Rohrer's Mill Road in Ronks. Also, thanks to Martha Oberholtzer, Leola, who writes that wheat germ meal may be purchased from C.O. Nolts & Son Bakery Supplies, 2316 Norman Rd., Lancaster. Martha said the meal is interchangeable with recipes calling for oatmeal. In fact, she makes a hot cereal the same way oatmeal is made and serves it with brown sugar and milk.

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know whom to ask for the answers.

"You Ask — You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask — You Answer, Lou Ann Good, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522.

QUESTION — Violet Myers, Barnesboro, would like to know where to buy a book on old bottles, canning jars, and toys. She had a book that she loaned to someone who never returned it.

QUESTION — A Lehighton reader writes that she has a poinsettia plant with some problems. After it bloomed, she cut it back and new green leaves appeared, but now some of the leaves turned yellow and are falling off. Some leaves have white on them that look like mold. Is there an organic way to solve this problem?

QUESTION — Bob of Bob's Radiator Repair in Woodstown, N.J., writes that his daughter is collecting wood items called Woody Woodpecker. She has a few pieces such as a knife holder, canister set, and wax paper holder. She would like to know how many pieces are in the whole set and what each piece is named.

QUESTION — Stanley Siedlecki, Jarrettsville, Md., writes that his woodburning stove emits a strong wood burning smell during humid days and nights. The flue has been cleaned. Is there something that can be done to prevent this odor or condition?

QUESTION — E. Otis Dyer, Rehoboth, Mass., would like to know the name of the company in Pennsylvania, the address, and if the company is still in business — the one that makes a farm fence kit consisting of two channel irons and hinges. The farmer supplies the wooden cross piece measuring 2x8-inches and barbwire strands.

QUESTION — Kenneth Hixon, Warfordsburg, would like the complete address for the Schrader Co. that makes automotive tire repair accessories. He needs parts for #5235 valve vulcanizing tool.

ANSWER — A.M. Nolt, New Holland, answers the reader who wanted to know about china that gets fine cracks in it. She got her information from a potter that she had visited. She writes that when china gets fine cracks, it is called crazing. It happens when china is stored without using or washing. To prevent china from crazing, was in warm suds and water about two or three times a year. This keeps the glaze pliable. Wash in warmer and warmer water within several days. When pouring boiling water in a cup, pour it over a spoon in the cup. To clean crazed china, soak in bleach or boil in milk.

Consuming Thoughts

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.

Pumpkins in their varied shades of orange are appearing in virtually every roadside stand and supermarket.

The large shpely ones make the most terrifying jack-o-lanterns, while the smaller deep orange pumpkins or squashes are better for cooking.

Basically, there is no distinction between "squashes" and "pumpkins", and thus the word has merely become a culinary term tracted back tracitionally to the early settlers.

When most people talk about pumpkin thier thoughts usually turn to their favorite food made from pumpkins such as a golden-crusted pie cooling on a tabletowp is a lure that often tempts children to poke a finger in its creamy middle.

Yet Pumpkin pie is not the only way to send thetantlizing aroma of fresh-baked pumpkin through the house. Indeed, when it comes to baking, pupkin is as versatile as it is economical, nutritious and good-tasting. People of all ages are sure to savor it in some of its other less familiar yet equally scrumptious forms.

For example, upmpkin nut bread makes the perfect go-together with morning coffee or an afternoon snack any time of the year. For lunch boxes and after school, pumpkin cookies or muffins are super munchies. Pumpkin brownies or a frosted pumpkin cake are ideal for the next club meeting or bake sale.

And for the finishing touch on that special dinner party, there's elegant pumpkin cheesecake or down-home pumpkin pudding. And when a menu needs a pick-me-up try pumkin ice cream partaits or pumpkin soup.

Freshly baked pumpkin dishes delight most family members without them realizing that they are eating a very nutritious vegetable with irresistible aroma and taste. Remember, we need to eat at least 3-5 servings of vegetables each day.

Rich in Vitamin A, pumpkin also contains iron, potassium and Vitamin C, plus many other necessary nutrients. A one cup serving of pumpkin is the richest fruie-vegetable source of beta-carotene, a possible dietary inhibitor of certain cancers. Pumpkins also porvide a wealth of other vitamins and minerals. With just 80 calories per serving, pumpkin is low incalories, sodium and fat. Although many homemakers prefer the ready to use commercial canned pumpkin because it is convenient, traditional cooks like to bring the pumpkin in from the field and prepare it fresh in their kitchen.

Here are the basic cooking directions for pumpkin: halve or quarter the pumpkin, remove seeds and stringy portions, cut into small pieces, cut off rind, cook, covered, in small amount of water, lightly salted, about 25-30 minutes. Since pumpkin is a watery vegetable, a large amount of cooking water is undesirable. When cooked, drain, mash well, place mashed pumpkin in strainer and let drain for 30 minutes to remove excess liquid. One 5-lb. pumpkin yeilds about 4 1/2 cups of mashed, cooked pumpkin.

Juniata County Holds Recognition Banquet

Juniata Co.

PORT ROYAL, Juniata Co. — The Recognition/Awards Banquet, held in the Port Royal Community Building, brought forth a veritable "who's who" in the 4-H program in this county.

The feelings of the leaders and other were presented in a short writing by an unknown author, printed in the first page of the program booklet. It used the words from the 4-H Pledge in an impressive way, as follows: "Cherish the children... For in their HEARTS lies the joy of the seasons; In their HEALTH lies the well being of the world; In their HANDS, they hold the future; And in their HEADS are the dreams for tomorrow, which all of us can share. God bless the Children."

Teen council Leader, Christine McCachren, made certain there was not one dull moment during the evening as she had the teens present skits and other fun events, interspersing them among the awards. Kathy Queitsch, 4-H program assistant from the Ag Extension Office, gave recognition and presented awards to 4-H members and leaders.

Recognized as Juniata County's 4-H Ambassadors were Lucas Book and Ryan Noss. Lucas spoke on, "What 4-H Has Meant to Me." Also recognized were Dale Carnegie Graduates, Dianne Glock and Mark Fogleman, who spoke to the group.

Recognition was given to the Best First Year 4-H'ers in the following Clubs: Larry Diven Jr., Pins & Needles; Justin Deppen, Beef; Mindy Dressler, Lost Creek Dairy; Becky Lemley, Rollin' Thunder Trail; Mitchell Dysinger, Spruce Hill Swine; Nikki Mummah, Pegasus Horse & Pony; Bobbie Wright, Teen Council; Zachary Swartz, Udder Dairy and Seeing Eye Puppy Clubs; Curtis Dressler, Rockateers; Mindy Dupert, 4-H Critters; and Melissa Pontius, Milky Way Dairy.

Judy Geissinger was presented as the state achievement day winner for photography and the fashion review. She is also the Outstanding Senior 4-H'er in the Keystone Recognition Application. Runner up was Averin Donough.

The Rockateers Rocketry Club Members who developed an Advanced Rocketry Project were Brett Boyer, Jeff Pontius and Pete Pontius.

Outstanding Junior 4-H'er, under the Mini Blue Form, is Kelly Kerstetter, and Runner Ups were Damein Donough, Rebecca Boone, and Heather Boone.

Receiving the Club Community Service Award was the Rollin' Thunder Trail Club. Runner Ups were Teen Council and the 4-H Critter Club. The Rollin' Thunder Trail Club has an impressive record for community service. In 1991 they held a Trail Ride for the benefit of St. Jude's Hospital, making it possible to give $1,300;

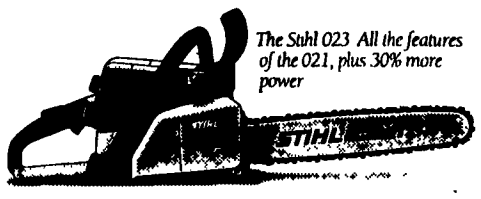
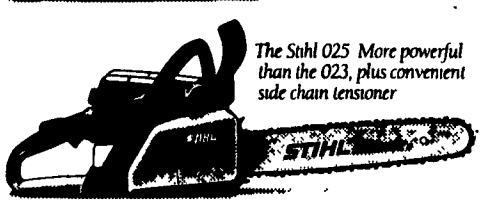
The Chain Saws For People Who Want To Act Like Lumberjacks, Not Work Like Them.

The Stihl 021 Superb power-to-weight ratio, isolated carburetor, electronic ignition.



The Stihl 023 All the features of the 021, plus 30% more power



The Stihl 025 More powerful than the 023, plus convenient side chain tensioner

The Stihl 026 Designed for professional use, or the demanding weekend-woodcutter

If you know a little about the timber business, you know that Stihl chain saws have been used by professional woodcutters for over sixty years.

So maybe you think Stihl equipment is "too good" for a suburbanite or farmer or anyone else who needs to cut wood on an occasional basis.

Well, we're happy to tell you that Stihl makes a whole series of chain saws with your needs in mind.

But don't confuse them with discount-store chain saws.

All Stihl saws are designed for performance, ease of handling and starting, and durability.

Now, about the 026 shown at the bottom: we'll admit we sell this saw to professional woodcutters. But it's also bought by people who simply put a lot of hours on a saw every year.

And by the way, when were you ever unhappy because you bought a product that was too good?

For The Part Of You That Promised You'd Never Compromise.

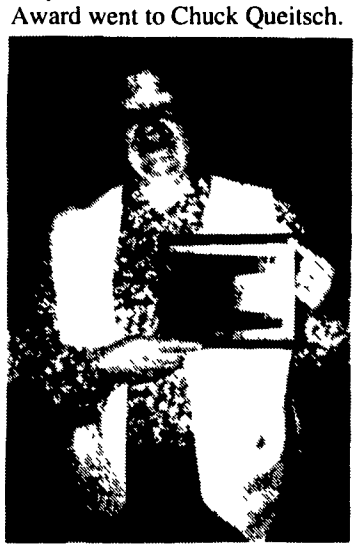
in 1992 another Trail Ride resulted in $1,100 for the Homeless Shelter in Juniata County; In 1993 they gave $200 to the Friendship Fire Company of Port Royal and $185 to Heartbeat; and in 1994, $750 to the Cooper Car Fund which met a special need for a handicapped child.

Teen Leader Year pins were given to Angela DiSanto and Jason Leppert for one year; Kelly Kerstetter for two years; Luke Book, Anita Faulkner, Mark Fogelman and Ryan Noss for three years; and Lydia Best for five years. Teen Leader of the Year Award went to Kevin Bryner. 4-H Leader of the Year Award went to Sharon McCahren who was once a 4-H member.

Pins and certificates were given to those who have been adult leaders for one, five, and ten years. The 10-year leaders are Daniel Auker, Helen Burd, Jackie Hackenberger, Clark Simongon and Jim Stroup. The outstanding 20-year Diamond Clover Leader Award went to Chuck Queitsch.



Sharon McCahren received the 4-H Leader of the Year Award.

Juniata County has many "Friends of 4-H", but special recognition and honor were given to Rick Berrier of the Mifflintown IGA. Rick has consistently purchased champion market steers at the annual 4-H sale and made the meat available in the local store. Also honored were other businesses or individuals who help the 4-H in the same way and/or other ways: Annlick's Farm Supply, First National Bank, Juniata Valley Bank, Kish Dairy Sales, Long's Auctioneering, Jane Marhefka, Mifflintown Rotary Club, Russell National Bank, Sausman Insurance Agency and W. E. Schlegel, Inc.

Chuck Queitsch received the Twenty Year Diamond Clover Leader Award for his outstanding period of service as 4-H Leader.

Students Excell at the Big E Twin Valley

On Sept. 16-18 members of the Twin Valley High School forestry team competed at the Eastern States Exposition (Big E) in Springfield, Mass.

The contest dealt with a variety of forestry knowledge - identification of trees, identification of insects and diseases, identification of tools used in forestry.

Students also took a written test on general knowledge of forestry and a forest business management problem.

The Twin Valley team which represented Pennsylvania consisted of Tara Plewa, Larry Medaglia, and Melissa Makris. The team placed 3rd out of teams representing 14 northeastern states.

Two members placed in the top 10 in individual competition. Tara placed 5th and Larry 8th.

Students traveled to the Big E as part of the Pennsylvania delegation. They also spent time at the Big E, a huge state fair for the new England states, learning about the cultural diversities in each New England State. Besides the inevitable sampling of local foods, the three Twin Valley students brought back knowledge of the region which they shared with fellow students. The trip was a learning experience as well as an opportunity to meet new FFA friends from across Pennsylvania.

The Twin Valley team had previously competed at the state FFA contest in June at Penn State and placed second, earning the right to represent Pennsylvania at the Big E. Twin Valley students were accompanied by chapter FFA adviser Ron Frederick and Mrs. Frederick.

Gloucester County Agent Receives PR Award

CASPER, Wyo. — Jerome L. Frecon was the recipient of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents (NACAA) Pride Award at its annual meeting and conference.

According to Gary Hall, public relations committee chairman of NACAA, the name Pride is short for Public Relations In Daily Efforts.

Frecon, an agricultural agent/professor with Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Gloucester County, was selected by his peers across the United States for his public relations efforts.

These included his public relations tour, peach commodity festival, press releases, signage, television programming, columns in the New Jersey Farmer and Horticultural News, newsletters and numerous speaking engagements to promote agriculture and the role of Rutgers Cooperative Extension.

He presented a talk on his efforts to his fellow agents on Sept. 29 at The Casper Events Center in Casper, Wyo.

Cumberland Recognizes Those Who Make 4-H Successful

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Co.
Correspondent

HUNTSDALE (Cumberland Co.) — A bushel full of awards was given out during the Cumberland County 4-H Achievement Banquet held at the Penn Township Fire Hall.

The honors were given out to both 4-H members and the adults who lead them.

The award for the Outstanding Girl was won by Tanya Zelger of Carlisle. She has been involved in clothing, textile, food, and nutrition projects and attended many Fashion Revues. Zelger has also been a teen director of the 4-H Camp, been involved in the Inter-state Exchange and held the offices of president, vice president, and treasurer in 4-H groups and has donated time to help out at the James Wilson Safe Harbour homeless shelter in Carlisle.

Mae Hemminger receives the Gladys Holtry Award from Robert Holtry.

Matthew Day of Shippensburg was the winner of the Outstanding Boy award. He is a member of the Dairy Club, has been in public speaking contests and done radio spots, is a county council representative and contest judge and is president of the Countywide Holstein Club.

The Outstanding Junior was Jennifer Beck, who has been a 4-H member since 1989. She has been involved in horse and veterinary science projects, been a camp counselor and is a county council representative.

LeAnne Haycock, a 2-year 4-H member was the winner of the Wildlife Audubon Society Award. She won first place on the wildlife habitat judging team last year, and second place this year in the state competition.

Last year, Haycock went before the Shippensburg School Board and convinced the board members to let her teach a wildlife project to a class of students.

The Outstanding Fair Exhibit award was taken home by the East End Explorers Community Club. The club is more that 40 years old and still has the same organizational leader, Mabel Strock.

Amy Brehm, who is a three-year member of the Conodoquinet Sheep Club, was picked as the winner of the outstanding Secretary Award. Brehm raises market lambs and is a county council representative.

Rebecca Cornman was the runner-up for the secretary award.

Matthew Day was in the winner's circle again when he won the Outstanding News Reporter Award. He is an eight-year member of the Countywide Dairy Club.

The runner-up for the news reporter award was Michelle Cornman.

The Outstanding Treasurer Award went to Betsy Walton, who is a member of the Countywide Dairy Club, president of the county council, and a teen leader.

Meri Witter was the runner up for the treasurer award.

Betsy Walton also won the "I Dare You" Award. The Carlisle High School student went to the Pennsylvania Farmer Cooperative Summer Institute and Interstate Exchange.

Another winner of the "I Dare You" Award was Peggy Myers, who participated in the Inter-state Exchange, was a camp counselor, participated in the State Capitol Day and was a member of the National Congress. She is a student at Boiling Springs High School.

The Club of the Year Award was won by the Flying Fingers of Boiling Springs. The Conodoquinet Sheep Club took second place in that competition and the countywide Dairy Club captured third.

The Carlisle Aeromodelers took home the Speak Out Night Award.

In the adult awards, the Gladys Holtry Award for the outstanding 4-H leader went to Mae Hemminger of Newville.

Leaders Mabel and Clyde Strock of Mechanicsburg won the 4-H Global Award. The 4-H Fish and Wildlife Recognition Award was won by Robert Glennon of Newburg.

The 4-H Spirit Award was accepted by Chris Renner on behalf of York Farm Credit.

Several 4-H leaders also were honored for their years of service.

Sandy Long was recognized as a 30-year leader and Mary Orris was honored for 20 years of service. Ten-year leaders were Robert Allen, Dianne Conaway, Curtis Day and Mary Stets.

Fifth-year leaders who were cited were Darlene Anderson, Debbie Cornman, Steve Cornman, Sue Fisher, Shawn Hensel, Phyllis Martin, Ethel Myers and Lois Zeigler.

Congratulations also were given to the winners of national awards.

John Creek, Matthew Day, LeAnne Haycock and Meri Witter won the Achievement award from the Ford Motor Company Fund. Jamie Glennon. Derek Heine, Danielle Sheppard, and Jonathan Stets won the Aerospace Award from the 4-H Development Fund.

Matthew Day, Emily Dietrich, Mandy Naugle, and Betsy Walton captured the Agriculture Award sponsored by Case IH and Purina Mills Inc. Jennifer Creek and Wendy Holtry won the bread Award from Fleischmann's Yeast Inc.

The Citizenship Award sponsored by the Coca-Cola Foundation was won by Tara DeAngelo, Emily Fisher, Kim Orris and Natasha Zelger. Rebecca Cornman, Jennifer Creek, Emily Fisher and Jill Fraker captured the Clothing Award offered by Coats and Clark and the Singer Sewing Company.

John Creek, Robert Glennon, LeAnne Haycock and Steve Schmeck won the Conservation of Natural Resources Award

York County Society Celebrates Farm Women's Day

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

GLEN ROCK (York Co.) — What do you give 40 Farm Women for breakfast?

Several platters-worth of pancakes, six dozen doughnuts, three dozen bagels, three gallons of orange juice, a couple trays rounded with assorted fresh fruits, and more cups of coffee than anyone bothered to count.

That was the menu for the York County Society of Farm Women's breakfast, held Friday, October 14, at the home of former county and state president, Naomi Bupp. Following breakfast, the Society members toured the noted Red Lion area weaving firm operated by the David Kline family, which specialized in reproductions of historic coverlets and floor coverings woven on antique jacquard weaving mills.

The breakfast was the county Society's way of celebrating State Farm Women's Day, first established by proclamation of the governor in 1984. Eighty years ago, on, October 14, 1914, Somerset County farm wife Flora Black founded the first Farm Women Society, as a way for often isolated rural women to fellowship and educate themselves.

Fellowship and friendship remain at the top of the list of reasons why members join the Society of Farm Women, according to both long-time and recently-joined members who enjoyed the sociable event.

"You meet so many great people," says Carolyn Neal, Group 1, the York County Society president. A dairy farm woman from Dillsburg, Carolyn joined her local society in 1977 after attending meetings as a guest of her mother.

"I just stayed with the group. They're neighbors, they're friends, they're my adopted mothers," she adds with a wide smile. "One of the worst things I ever had to do was first stand up in front of the Farm Women group and talk. Now it doesn't bother me a bit."

Those leadership skills are also valued by county secretary, Trudy Reichard, Group 18, of Seven Valleys. A member since 1961, Trudy joined farm Women in part because, with four small children, she felt a "need to talk to some other adults."

"We were new to the area then, and when the group formed I hoped they would invite me to take part. It has been a real joy to make new friends and to learn skills like being able to speak to a group," adds Trudy.

Treva Stiles, Glen Rock, the county treasurer, is another member of Group 18. With a mother and several older sisters active in various Farm Women groups, it was just natural for her to join.

"Mother's Group 11 always had so much fun at the things they did. But when I was ready to join, their membership was full, so Group 18 became a sort of 'splinter' society," she recalled.

"Farm Women is like an extended family. You have so many new experiences—like serving 40 people breakfast," Treva laughed, busy pouring pancake batter onto a sizzling grill.

One of the newest members enjoying the breakfast was Gladys Bankert, who joined Group 18 less than a year ago on an invitation from a friend.

"I enjoy it, and I've met a lot of new people," says Gladys, whose family produces turkeys for Longacre poultry firm. Her new Farm Women sisters quickly identified her organizational skills and have put her in charge of arranging bus tours.

"It was an opportunity to do things I never expected to do and to meet and make friends with women from all over the county" related Pat Palmer, Shrewsbury, president of Group 20 and a former county secretary. "And I was a timid child; Farm Women really brought me 'out' personally."

Like many members, she was introduced to Farm Women by a friend. Then, and still the youngest in her group, Pat treasures the craft skills she has learned through her group, including quilting.

County second-vice-president-elect Lois Manifold left her Farm Women membership lapse several years ago, due to responsibilities with the family's dairy and crops farm. No longer actively farming and with her children grown, Lois rejoined because of "the friendship of everyone."

"We're interested in many of the same things," she says of the Aireville-area members of her group 21. "Our group does food stands and some farm sales as fundraisers to support the Delta Food Bank. We learn crafts and have speakers. And I do enjoy attending the conventions in different counties."

After more than 40 years of membership in Group 11, Glen Rock Farm Woman Crystal Brenneman remains enthusiastic about being part of the sisterhood of the Society.

"It's a good time: fellowship, sharing, giving."

A hostess gift to Naomi Bupp from Leslie Baker, president of Group 31, was a miniature, carved, and painted replica of the Pennsylvania Society of Farm Women Cookbook. The cookbook was Naomi's project during her two-year term as state president. More than 18,500 cookbooks have been sold to benefit the Society's scholarship fund.

Good food, fellowship and conversation kept breakfast lively for, from left, Miriam Hull and Florence Sprenkle, Group 5, Mildred Ferree, Emma Hutcheson and Miriam Young, Group 34. Bringing second helpings was Lois Manifold, a vice-president-elect of the county group.

Treva Stiles, York County Farm Women president, prepares pancakes for members Mildred Bupp, right, and Crystal Brenneman, among the 40 members who enjoyed the state Farm Women's Day Breakfast.

Farm Women Propose By-Laws Change

JOYCE BUPP,
York Co. Correspondent

GLEN ROCK (York Co.) — while political entities at various state and national levels debate the merits of term limitations, the Pennsylvania Society of Farm women is considering eliminating elected-office restrictions.

"The present by-laws state that you cannot succeed yourself in an office, at any level," explains past state president Naomi Bupp, host for the county Society's October 14 State Farm Women's Day celebration breakfast. "Adopting the proposed by-law changes will allow an officer to continue in a position."

Another of the several proposed by-laws changes would recognize the changing face of the state's rural society by stating that Farm Women members should have an "interest in agriculture," but not specifically involved in production farming.

Several members of the York Society gathered informally for the breakfast social agreed that Farm Women membership is falling due to changes in society. Rural women are no longer isolated in their homes, as they often were in 1914, when founder Flora Black organized the first Society of Farm Women group in Somerset County.

"Young people have other interests and many of the women work over the day. We're getting older and don't want to go out to meetings at night," expressed on long-time member of Group 25, from the Wrightsville area.

Farm Women Society membership numbers in many counties have been slowly decreasing as farms go out of business and young women pursue outside careers. Most local societies once limited membership to 20 or 25, because of holding meetings in homes, and many had waiting lists to become part of the organization.

"When I joined, you had to come to a meeting, then miss the next one while your membership acceptance was voted on," says Trudy Reichard, county secretary. "Today, you can join most groups right away."

One member reflection on the the generational changes that have altered not only Farm Women membership but also society as a whole, pretty much summed it all up: "We're just too busy."

York County FFA Names Scholarship Winners

SPRING GROVE (York Co.) — Nichole M. Willwert, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Willwert (John and Brenda) of R D 5, Red Lion, has been selected to receive the Carroll F. Thompson Scholarship. The recipient was selected by the York County Vocational Agricultural Teachers Association to receive the scholarship which is given in memory of Carroll F. Thompson who was formerly a vocational agriculture teacher at Spring Grove and Dover high schools.

Willwert is a 1991 graduate of the Red Lion Area High School and has completed four years of agricultural education. She is studying dairy and animal science at the Pennsylvania State University with plans of becoming an animal nutritionist.

Willbert has participated in the Pennsylvania FFA horse judging contest held at Penn State. She has also received awards in numerous contests such as interview, livestock judging, dairy judging, public speaking, parliamentary procedure, meats identification, and project record book contests on the county, regional, and state levels of competition.

Willwert was recipient of the York County Kiwanis Club Outstanding FFA Girl award in 1990. She has served as the York County FFA president and served the Red Lion Area FFA Chapter two years as president.

Tracey Willwert, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Willwert was selected to receive the York County FFA scholarship. Willwert is a 1994 graduate of the Red Lion Area High School and is studying accounting at the Yorktowne Business Institute.

Tracey served as president of the Red Lion Area FFA Chapter for two years after serving as chapter reporter and chapter secretary. She served in the capacity of reporter of the York County FFA organization for a year. Tracey received the Star in Agricultural Production award for the South Central Region of the FFA in Pennsylvania in 1994, the Kiwanis Club Outstanding FFA Girl of York County in 1993, and the York County FFA Star White Rose Degree award in 1992. Tracey has also received awards for her participation in livestock judging, horse judging, and record book contests. Tracey also attend the PA FFA State Legislative Leadership conference besides local area leadership conferences.

Also receiving a scholarship from funds administered by the York County Vocational Agriculture Teachers is Daniel Keslar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Keslar (Ronald and Janet) of R D 2, Dillsburg, who is attending DeVry Institute majoring in telecommunications management with plans to be a computer network manager.

Keslar has recently served as treasurer of the student government association at the Penn State-York campus. He has participated in the PA FFA Farm Management contest held at Penn State University, and has been in the York County FFA public speaking contest.

Thomasville Named Outstanding York 4-H Club

Joyce Bupp, York Co. Correspondent

BAIR (York Co.) — Member involvement with a local program for children in abusive family situations won outstanding recognition for the Thomasville Community Club during the York County 4-H Achievement Awards program. The annual recognition ceremony was held October 6 at the 4-H Center.

As part of the 4-H Club's community service and outreach, the two dozen members of the Thomasville group provide programs and sharing activities at the Lehman Center of York. The Lehman Center offers counseling for abusive and potentially abusive family situations. For the past five years, club members have spent at least two evenings annually with children ranging in age from infants through early teens, whose parents are participating in Lehman Center counseling.

"Our kids wanted to do something to help other kids," said Helen Horn, an adult leader of the Thomasville 4-H organization. "And it's also parents helping other parents, through their children."

"We do things like Easter egg hunts, and bring Santa Claus with small gifts, have games and crafts, petting zoos, and we always provide snacks," explains club president Denise Lauer, Spring Grove. "The kids know that when we come, we always bring something for them to eat and they look forward to that."

Six York County 4-H members were named outstanding winners for their leadership and program participation. Each received a $50 savings bond and trophy of recognition.

Senior outstanding 4-H members were Cindy Dehoff and Denise Lauer. Outstanding junior girl and boy were Beth Baer and Lucas Kraft. Named outstanding rookies were Kelly Jo Bankert and Matthew Luckenbaugh.

Special recognition also went to outstanding officers of county 4-H clubs. Beth Baer, Glen Rock Community Club, was honored as outstanding historian and Joy Butter, Wellsville Boots and Saddles Club, the outstanding secretary. Outstanding news reporter award went to Heather Bankert, Winterstown Community Club, and Kristina Gable, Thomasville Community Club, was named the outstanding treasurer.

Eleven senior 4-H members were named project award winners. In the Beef project, Jason Baer was the winner, and Amy Trowbridge, runnerup. Clothing and Textiles award went to Tammy Dise, with Amy Dise the runnerup. Kelly Beard and Chris Bosley were the winner and runnerup in leisure education. Also, Denise Lauer, food preservation; Sabrina Asper, horse; Elizabeth Kann, photography; Lillian Eddinger, rabbit; and Cindy Dehoff, recreation.

In the junior division, 4-H project awards were for achievement, Ben Leese; aquatic science, Melissa Stough; capon, Jessica Klock, and Kelly Jo Bankert, runnerup; child development, Abbie Lease and Heather Bankert, runnerup; clothing and textiles, Emily Bankert, and runnersup Megan Bankert and Breanna Brown; foods and nutrition, Mandy Brown and runnerup Brandy Bankert; goat, Andrea Craun; horse, Danielle Howell and runnerup Greg Daugherty; leisure education, Gabrielle Dissinger and Jeremy Myers, runnerup; market lambs, Paul Kitzmiller and runnerup, Lindsay Jones; and pet care, Beth Baer and runnerup Matt Luckenbaugh.

Adult leader Gordon Shive, Seven Valleys, was honored for 30 years of leadership service to the York County 4-H program. Shive's leadership activities include the county Beef Club and serving on the 4-H Center board of directors.

Recognized for 15 years of service were Maryanne Brenneman, Stoverstown club; Pearl Kneller, Jefferson; Richard Rishel, Glen Rock; Anna Shermeyer, Davidsburg and the 4-H Center board; Kathleen Church, shooting spots, and Dale Myers, beef.

Ten-year 4-H leadership recognition went to: Michael Bankert, meats judging coach; John Fisher, shooting spots; Beverly Hoover, Thomasville; Arietta Knox, echoing hoofbeats; Rebecca Naylor, Easter Seals and 4-H HRH; Shirley Trimmer, Central Dairy; Pamela Weisman, Saddle Up HRH and Silver Spurs; Marcelene Douglas, Geraldine Hedrick and Ina Kilgore, Airville; Melvin Marks, Airville Milk and Money; Elizabeth Tawser, Mockingbird HRH.

Featured speaker for the awards program was Rev. Christy Waltersdorff, a York County 4-H alumnus and minister for the Church of the Brethren.

Mildew Proliferates

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The high humidity of the East Coast's summer has made homeowners more aware of household mildew, says an expert in Penn State's college of Agricultural Sciences.

"The huge snowfall prevented the ground from freezing deeply," says Phyllis Adams, associate professor of agricultural and extension education. "Add to that melting snow, rain and a humid summer and you have perfect conditions to grow mold and mildew."

Adams says the causes of most mildew problems are not difficult to understand or to solve. "Air can absorb moisture. It's like a sponge," she says. "Warm air can hold more water vapor than cold air. When the temperature of the air drops, its ability to hold moisture is lessened until the air reaches the dew point. Droplets of water will form on any surface that is at or colder than the dew point of the surrounding air."

Warm, moist air within a house is attracted to all cold surfaces, including windows, mirrors, the corners of basements, exterior corners of a room or inside closets. The buildup of condensation creates the perfect environment for mold spores to thrive.

Adams says mold spores grow especially well on a dirty surface. Cleaning regulary will make it more difficult for mold and mildew to grow.

According to Alletta Schadler, Lebanon County extension director, mildew and mold spores are present in homes all the time, growing when temperature and moisture reach high enough levels.

Mold can spread from basement surfaces and along cold walls upward through the floor, often onto rugs, behind furniture placed against a wall, onto bookshelves, or on cardboard boxes placed against a wall.

"The first reflex when people smell mold is to throw open the windows, which is exactly the wrong thing to do. It actually makes the mildew worse," Schadler says.

In summer, mildew most often plagues older homes that do not have central air-conditioning, which can act as a de-humidifier by circulating air.

Although mildew flourishes in high humidity, several easy-to-follow preventative tips will keep surfaces, furniture, clothing and other possessions from looking like moss-covered logs. Schadler list the following measures:

• Keep doors and windows shut during periods of high humidity. Open them at night, when the temperature outdoors is the coolest, and then close the house up in the daytime.

• Circulate air as much as possible with portable fans. Make sure air in the basement is being circulated as well.

• Buy a dehumidifier for the house. Schadler warns that most dehumidifiers have water pans that hold far less than the machine's advertised moisture-removal rate. To prevent constant trips to empty the water pan, Schadler suggests rigging a hose from the appliance into a drain.

• If dampness in the house is a problem, consider buying a smaller dehumidifier for the home's upper floors.

• Make sure the outside landscaping and rainwater will drain away from the house. Poor drainage and poor air circulation around shrubs next to the house will encourage mold and mildew growth. Winds can bring mold spores right in through an open window.

Unfortunately, mold and mildew are not just summer afflictions. In winter, moisture can collect within a home as a byproduct of burning fossil fuels (such as gas stoves, kerosene heaters or gas fireplaces), cooking, using clothes dryers, or taking long showers without using an exhaust fan.

Winter mildew can be a problem in newer, energy-efficient homes. Often built with heavy insulation and plastic moisture barriers, newer homes can retain enough moisture to begin condensation—again creating a perfect environment for mold.

Adams recommends these preventative measures to control indoor moisture:

• Limit the numbers of plants in your home.

• When cooking, use lids on pots and pans.

• Use the kitchen exhaust fan when cooking and ensure the fan vents directly outdoors. Many range hoods filter only food particles generated during cooking, returning steam back into the kitchen.

• Use the exhaust fan when showering. "Most people, especially older individuals, don't use the exhaust fan because it makes them feel colder," Adams says.

• Determine how the clothes dryer is vented. Adams says dryers are often vented into the attic, where hot, moisture-laden air meets cold surfaces. "Where this situation exists, I've seen water droplets dripping off the rafters," Adams says.

• Make sure air is able to circulate in each and every room. Keep closet doors open.

• Diligently clean the house and its surfaces at least once, preferable twice a year.

• Make sure compost piles are well away from the house. "Those produce huge quantities of mold spores," Adams says.

Once mildew appears, Schadler recommends quick action. All affected surfaces should be washed with a chlorine-based or fungicidal cleaner. Do not mix chlorine bleach with detergent cleaning solutions, Schadler warns.

Because mold and mildew spores are ever-present, Schadler says even the most obsessive housekeeper can never completely rid a home of the threat of mold.

"The best way to prevent mold is knowing what conditions make it grow," Schadler says.

Rosenberry decribes his first meeting to Cindy as the time he met Barley in the wheat field. Since both love farming, he felt it only appropriate to disc his proposal into the soil. He etched the words into the soybean stubble by discing 100x170-foot letters into an area that covers 1,300x600-feet.

Will She Marry Me? 'Soil' She Will

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — When Cindy Barley heard the drone of a helicopter flying over her parents' farm in Conestoga, she thought it was having trouble. Barefooted, she ran outside as the helicopter landed in the yard.

One of the helicopter's occupants rushed to Cindy's side and kidnapped her by pulling her into the helicopter and taking flight.

Fortunately Cindy recognized her kidnapper as her boyfriend David Rosenberry. She wasn't a bit scared but knew something special was in the air.

Instead, the specialness was in the soil beneath the couple as they flew over Star Rock Farm in Mount Joy.

Disked in the soybean stubble beneath were the words: Cindy Jo, will you marry me?

The 100x170-foot message that covers 1,300x600-feet was clearly visible from the air.

Although the proposal was a surprise to Cindy, David's mother felt confident enough to prepare a "yes" sign for Cindy to hold after landing and standing next to the question carved in the soil as photographers snapped pictures.

Twenty-year-old David thought it was the only appropriate way to propose since both he and Cindy love the soil and plan to stay in farming forever.

He refers to their first meeting "as the time I met Barley in the wheat field."

That first meeting was three years ago when David was custom combining and Cindy was running the auger cart on the farm of her parents, Rep. John Barley and his wife Jane.

That first day, David promised Cindy that he would take her out if she cleaned his combine windows.

After that, the relationship deepened as they discovered their mutual love for each other and farming.

David, the son of John and Nancy Rosenberry, started combining for James M. Garber and Sons when he was 14 years old. He is now their crop manager. The Garbers allowed David to use ground they rented to display his proposal.

Nineteen-year-old Cindy works full time on her parent's 3,500-acre farm that is highly diversified.

A wedding is being planned for next fall. The couple promises their love for farming will definitely be entwined in a very unique wedding ceremony.

This is the helicopter, piloted by Charles Hollinger, used to kidnap Cindy and fly her above the soil-etched marriage proposal of David Rosenberry.

Cindy answers David's proposal by holding a simple "yes" sign, which had been prepared by David's mother in advance. Although the proposal was a surprise, the family was confident Cindy's answer would be a positive 'soil' I will.

Schaefer Barn Kooler®

The Barn Kooler® System incorporates a series of fans and controls into an integrated system that is used for both high velocity air cirulation for cooling during the Summer and gentle, draft-free air movement during the Winter months. By utilizing thermostically controlled speed modulators, the speed of the circulating air is constantly adjusted to the temperature. As the temperatures in the building rise and fall, so does the volume of air being circulated.

IT'S NOW OR NEVER FOR POULTRY PRODUCERS

Dennis E. Buffington
Professor And Head
Dept. Of Agricultural And Biological Engineering

Producing broilers or eggs is a highly competitive business. All successful poultry farmers are, by definition, successful business managers of highly competitive, complex enterprises.

Today's poultry producer needs to keep abreast of many day-to-day concerns such as feed efficiencies, costs of various feed ingredients, disease prevention and control, environmental issues, maintenance of facilities, labor, workmen's compensation, insurance, taxes, etc., etc., etc.

It is understandable how a poultry producer could get buried in all of the numerous details that need to be addressed. As poultry producers become engulfed in the many details, they may believe that they don't have the luxury to "dream about the future."

It is like the engineer who waded into a swamp with the long-range objective of draining the swamp. But he completely forgot about his long-range plans for draining the swamp when he realized his immediate problem was that he was up to his hips in alligators.

Poultry producers need to seriously address the issues of flies and odors, even if there are no immediate concerns being expressed by neighbors today. If you have any interests or desires for your poultry enterprise to be in business five to 10 years from now, then it is essential that you begin planning now for both fly control and odor control.

I certainly am not in a position to specify which best management practices (BMPs) need to be implemented to address these two critical issues. However, it is important that you begin developing strategies for control of flies and odors.

You are probably thinking, "It's those darn city slickers" who are fussing about a few flies and a little bit of smell. First of all, it is not just city slickers and their suburban cousins who are complaining about odors and flies. In fact, in some cases, farmers are complaining and threatening lawsuits about the flies and odors of their neighboring farmers. You certainly cannot use the argument "I was here first" as though that gives you a grandfather's clause for producing odors and flies.

The best strategy a poultry producer can adopt is to begin recognizing that flies and odors represent serious problems. Then begin addressing these problems through the adoption of appropriate management strategies. It is also essential that you establish and maintain communications with your neighbors to let them know that you are sincerely concerned about the potential problems of flies and odors. Also, keep them informed of what you are doing to address these potential problems.

It may seem somewhat silly that your future in the poultry business may depend on something as trivial as flies and odors. However, you need to address these critical issues now if you are interested in long-term survival in the poultry business.

American Bison Summer Conference Held

OGDEN, Utah — antelope Island just outside here is the home to more than 400 American buffalo (properly called "bison") and this summer it was also host to more than 150 American Bison Association (ABA) members and their families.

The ABA has more than 1,400 members in all 50 United States, Canada and 14 foreign countries. The membership has almost doubled in the past two years, "and we expect to grow by several hundred members in the next two years," said newly elected President, J. Robert Collins of Greenwood, Del. "One of the reasons we will grow so quickly will be because we are asking our members if they want to consolidate with the National Buffalo Association of Pierre, SD. They have about 400 members that are not members of our association.

"In addition, bison ranching is appealing to a great many people from the dairy, cattle, and sheep industries. This animal requires less care than traditional herds, and because the bison is native to the U.S. and Canada, it is easy on the land. The best part of all is the taste of the meat-it's great!"

Collins said the demand for the meat and by-products continues to grow faster than the supply.

The following is a list of the ABA board of directors. Those with an asterisk were elected at the summer conference:

- J. Robert Collins, president, Colvine Bison Farm, Greenwood, Del.;
- Paul Jonjak, vice president, Blue Mountain Bison, Lyons, Colo.;
- Rusty Seedig, secretary/treasure, Denver Buffalo Co., Denver, Colo.;

Skip Sayers, past president, Sayersbrook Bison Ranch, Potosi, Mo.;

- Hilda Thomas, Rocky Mountain regional director, Bar X Ranch, Powell, Wyo.;

Marland Ray, Western regional director, Wild West Ranch, Spokane, Wash.;

- Art Stewart, Midwestern regional director, Needmore Buffalo Farm, Elizabeth, Ind.
- Norman P. Straub, Eastern regional director, Bison Have Ranch, Grove City, Pa.;
- Dale Rengstorf, Northern regional director, Rolling R Ranch, Pelican Rapids, Minn.;
- Mitch Larsson, director at large, Antelope Island State Park, Ogden, Utah;

Dixie Byrd, director at large, Trails End River Bison, Presho, SD.; and

- Len Ross, international director, Prairie Buffalo, Taber, Alberto, Canada.

Bison herds in the U.S. and Canada combined now number 200,000 and the ABA predicts there will be a half a million animals roaming the North American continent by the year 2000. Individual herd sizes are growing, and the number of new herds being formed is escalating rapidly. For more information on any aspect of the bison industry, call the ABA at (303) 292-2833, or write to ABA, 4701 Marion St., #301, Denver, CO 80216.

Adams County Back In Bay Program

GREENSBURG (Westmoreland Co.) — At the recent joint annual conference between the State Conservation Commission (SCC) and the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts, the proposed changes to the statement of policy of the Chesapeake Bay Program were officially adopted.

Among several changes in the statement of policy was the inclusion of the entire Chesapeaker Bay Watershed into the Bay Program. A 1993 study by the Department of Environmental Resources resulted in recommending the exclusion of certain sub-watersheds, including all of Adams County, from the program. However, after several months of debate and questions about the study, the recommendation was dropped and a new strategy of allowing the entire Chesapeake Bay drainage area into the program was proposed.

The SCC accepted the new strategy which makes all of Adams County eligible for enrollment in the Bay Program.

In an effort to improve water quality in the Chesapeake Bay, the Chesapeake Bay Program was started through federal and state funds to provide cost-share monies to agricultural operations to implement best management practices (BMP). These BMPs are designed to control and minimize soil erosion and nutrient runoff. They include such sound practices as contour strips, grass-lined waterways, terraces, and manure storages to name just a few.

The program is administered locally by the Adams County Conservation District with the assistance of the USDA Soil Conservation Service. Currently, here in Adams County more than 55 farmers have taken part in the program and have received nearly 1 million dollars toward installing BMPs and doing their part in improving water quality in both our local creeks and streams as well as the Chesapeake Bay itself. Brian Sneeringer, nutrient management technician for Adams County, commented, "These Bay farms serve as an example of the fine work farmers both locally and statewide are doing to minimize pollution and improve our environment. We are extremely pleased that the State Conservation Commission has allowed us to continue to assist farmers both financially and technically to continue this trend."

The trend, however, might not last if the conservation district does not receive more applicants. Because Adams County was on the brink of being dropped from the program, the conservation district did not pursue any new applicants for the program. Now that Adams County is back in the program the Conservation District is looking for new applicants.

Bay Technician Mildred Musselman said, "If we do not have farmers applying to the program, the state will not allocate money to Adams County. We must show interest and need in Adams County in order to receive further allocations."

Any farming operation in Adams County is eligible for the program. If accepted into the program, a contract betwee the conservation district and the landowner is signed in which the landowner agrees to implement the necessary BMPs to control soil and/or nutrient runoff. The district agrees to provide technical assistance as well as financial assistance at a rate of 80 percent of the costs to a maximum of $30,000.

The Bay Program is often associated with manure storages and animals, but this is not always the case. Deb Kammerer, conservation technician for SCS, said, "Any farmer who has erosion problems and is in need of soil conservation practices should also consider applying to the program for assistance."

The conservation district encourages any farmer with barnyard runoff problems, animal waste management concerns, or a large amount of soil conservation work, as required by their conservation plan, to consider applying to the Bay Program for assistance.

For more information, contact the Adams County Conservation District at (717) 334-0636.

TIMONIUM, Md. — Nearly $1,000 in cash and prizes were up for grabs in the third annual Maryland Montadale Jackpot held at the Maryland 4-H and FFA Market Lamb Show during Maryland State Fair.

The judge for this year's show was Jeff Neal of Sycamore, Ohio. Neal made several comments about the leanness and heavy muscling of many of the lambs as well as the tremendous parity within the classes.

Topping the lightweight division was a 91-pound lamb exhibited by Kate Brewer of Phoenix, Md. This was her second year showing in the Montadale Jackpot. Last year she had the reserve champion lamb.

In the middleweight division, a 103-pound lamb exhibited by Chris Gazunis gathered the top spot. This year marked Chris's first trip to state fair.

First place in the heavyweight division went to John Norris of Woodbine, Md. This was also the second year he has participated in this show.

It was the middle weight lamb exhibited by Chris Gazunis of Montgomery County, Md. that walked away with grand championship honors as well as the $250 jackpot. Reserve grand champion and $150 went to the top placing heavyweight lamb shown by John Norris of Carroll County, Md. The champion lamb also proved to be one of the top-selling lambs in state 4-H & FFA livestock sale, bringing $3.00/pound. Both champions were also awarded trophy blankets and directors chairs.

Once again the Maryland Montadale Association sponsored this youth jackpot show.

For more information on this or other Maryland activities, contact Mark Johnson, president of the association (410) 592-5227.

Farm-City Council Takes Ag Message To New York

QUEENS, N.Y. — A New York Farm-City Council delegation traveled to the 12th Annual Queens County Fair, held September 17–18 at the Queens County Farm Museum.

For the third year, Farm-City Council has participated in the traditional fair, complete with livestock competitions, craft demonstrations, pie-eating and corn husking contests, make-your-own scarecrow, hayrides, and a petting zoo. Amid these old-fashioned surroundings, Farm-City Council brought the modern view of agriculture.

The Farm-City tent promoted agriculture through video, displays, posters, recipes, and handouts. City school teachers were targeted with New York ag in the classroom materials. In addition, the group was on hand to answer consumer questions about the agricultural industry and product nutrition.

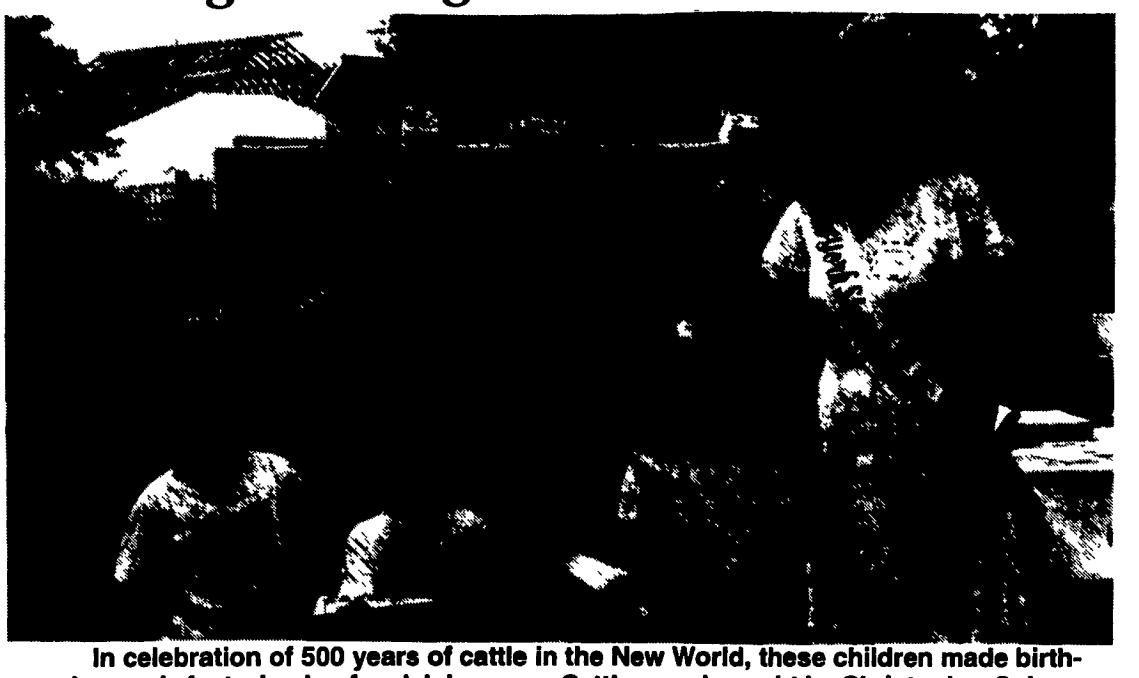
New to this year's activities were regular shows about dairy products presented by New York State Dairy Princess Jennifer Emerling. Entitled "The Little Engine that Mooved," Jenny's story depicts a train attempting to make it to Dairyland. While capturing the attention of the Queens children with her unique story, Jenny explains the importance of dairy foods in their diet.

According to Emerling, "Relaying our positive milk message is especially important to those living in the inner city. The Queens County Museum was a great place to work one-on-one with the children in meeting this mission."

Throughout the day, children were invited to make "cow cards" in celebration of 500 years of cattle in the New World brought by Christopher Columbus in 1494. Hundreds of children stopped by to make the cards, complete with pictures of cows, both beef and dairy. The cards will be presented to cattle associations signifying the agricultural awareness that was developed among the inner-city children.

In addition to educating New York City residents about modern agriculture, Farm-City Council wanted to take it a step further by giving them a chance to visit the country.

Elaine Swiler, New York Beef Cattlewomen and Charlie Kresge, Agrimerica offer agricultural education materials to thousands of New York City residents.



In celebration of 500 years of cattle in the New World, these children made birthday cards featuring beef and dairy cows. Cattle were brought by Christopher Columbus in 1494 on one of his later voyages to the New World. This activity created an awareness among the Queens children of where their food originates.

A drawing was held for a one-night's stay at a Finger Lakes region bed and breakfast. Grace Kelly, Flushing, N.Y. will visit Patchwork Piece Bed and Breakfast, owned by dairy farmers Betty and Bill Mitchell, Avoca, N.Y.

Rita Dee-Ross, Bayside, N.Y. and Harriet and Kenny Gelbhardt, Elmhurst, N.Y. will receive a cookbook and T-shirt, respectively, as runner-up prizes.

Representing New York Farm-City Council were Charlie Kresge, Agrimerica; Elaine Swiler, New York Beef Cattlewomen; Stephanie Meyers, American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc.; New York State Dairy Princess Jennifer Emerling; and Betty Emerling, dairy farmer. Also assisting were David Wagner, Cornell Cooperative Extension and Cheryl Zablocki, Dairylea Cooperative.

New York State Dairy Princess Jennifer Emerling educates the next generation about the nutritional benefits of milk and dairy products.

New Tests Aid Mastitis Therapy Selection

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — Two highly specific antimicrobial susceptibility tests are available from The Upjohn Company for use in determining the susceptibility or resistance of bovine mastitis pathogens to two of the firm's FDA-approved mastitis therapies.

One test measures the susceptibility of bacteria to the antibiotic combination of penicillin and novobiocin in Upjohn's Albacillin® suspension mastitis tubes. The other test predicts bacterial susceptibility to pirlimycin hydrochloride, the new antibiotic in Pirsue™ Aqueous Gel.

"When selecting antibiotic therapy to treat a disease, veterinarians need to know that the drug they choose will be effective against the bacteria they're trying to kill." said Jeffrey Watts, a research microbiologist with The Upjohn Company.

Of the eight antibiotic formulations approved to treat mastitis in lactating dairy cattle, said Watts, only the penicillin/novobiocin and pirlimycin susceptibility tests were developed using mastitis pathogens and actual drug levels in milk. The susceptibility tests for the other six drugs utilize data from human bacteria, not mastitis pathogens.

Agway Reports 1993-1994 Results

SYRACUSE, NY — Agway Inc. reported consolidated sales and revenues of $1.7 billion for fiscal year 1992-1994 which ended June 30, essentially the same as last year.'

Net margins from continuing operations were $0.7 million, but when $4.0 million losses from the farm cooperative's discontinued operations were included, the final net result was a loss of $3.3 million compared with a $19.8 million profit last year.

On September 27 the board of directors of Curtice Burns Foods, Inc. announced that it had accepted an offer from Pro-Fac Cooperative to acquire all outstanding shares of Curtice Burns stock and that Curtice Burns has entered into a definitive merger agreement with Pro-Fac. Both Curtice Burns Foods and H. P. Hood are reported as discontinued operations in Agway's annual report, to be mailed in late October. Agway is also in the process of selling H.P. Hood, a northeastern processor and distributor of dairy and other food products, based in Boston, Mass.

"Our overall financial performance was disappointing," reported Donald P. Cardarelli, executive vice president and chief operating officer, in a letter to the farm cooperative's 5,300 full-time and 1,900 part-time employees.

"We had fine financial results in our energy, leasing, insurance and Country Foods businesses," Cardarelli said. "But despite much hard work and changes already implemented, our agriculture supply and consumer retail businesses operated below expectations. The challenges in these two businesses relate to intensifying competition in already difficult markets. This requires us to be increasingly productive and innovative."

Treated Seed Produces Bigger Wheat Yields

LANDISVILLE, (Lancaster Co.) — In trials conducted by the Poplar Hill Research Facility in Salisbury, Md. and Hoffman Seeds, Baytan 30 treated wheat seed produced substantial yield increases over Vitavax varieties.

In the Poplar Hill trials over three locations, Baytan treatment yielded an average of 7.4 bushel/acre more than the Vitavax treatment. At a market price of $3.00 per bushel that amounts to a $22.20 boost per acre for wheat growers.

Hoffman trials used Hoffman 89 wheat treated with Baytan versus Hoffman 89 with Vitavax. The results showed an average yield advantage of 9.4 bushel/acre offer four locations with a high of 12.3 bushel/acre in Northumberland.

Baytan is particularly effective in high moisture conditions where it reduces the risk of powdery mildew.

Directors Attend Asgrow/Seedway Training Seminar

GALENA, Md. — F.M. Brown's nine area directors recently returned from an intensive soybean and corn seminar conducted here at the Asgrow Research Farm.

The seminar, put on by Asgrow and sponsored by Seedway, was aimed at training the F.M. Brown's area directors on production and growth characteristics of seed corn and soybeans.

F.M. Brown's recently was recognized by Seedway at their annual meeting as the number one distributor of seed corn and the number two distributor of soybeans in the Seedway York division sales area.

Joe Maloney, Asgrow corn research associate, continued the tour with a discussion of Asgrow seed corn.

The seminar moved indoors where the work of selecting, retaining, and storing many generations of research seeds takes place. Growth chambers and greenhouses where much of the disease resistance testing is done were also viewed. Eric Scheib (F.M. Brown's seed division manager), Fred Mohr (Seedway Associate director of marketing), and Brent Miller (Seedway area sales manager) then reviewed how information/yield data taken from Brown's extensive corn silage, shelled corn, and soybean test plot program is combined with information from other areas in the east to determine which varieties of corn and beans will be marketed the following year.

Show-Ease Badger Named To President's Club

KAUKAUNA Wisconsin — Show-Ease Badger Inc., Lancaster, Pa., has been named to the 1994 Badger Northland President's Club. The announcement was made at the farm equipment manufacturers' recent national dealer meeting in Green Bay.

This is the 12th year in a row that Show-Ease Badger, located at 573 Willow Rd., has received the honor. The President's Club is to assist the company in its operating policies with dealers. Badger has a total of 400 dealers.

Bill Rhodes, soybean research associate with Asgrow Shows Brown's area directors a variety of Asgrow soybeans sprayed with 32 ounces of Roundup. The beans are genetically bred to withstand Roundup, but the weeds in this soybean plot were completely eliminated.

Banks Announce Consolidation Plans

BALTIMORE, Md. — The boards of directors of The Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore (MD) (FCBB) and The Farm Credit Bank of Columbia (SC) (FCBC) jointly announced their execution of a letter of intent to consolidate the two institutions to form a new Farm Credit Bank.

James A. Kinsey, chairman of the board for FCBB, and J. Dan Raines, Jr., chairman of the board for FCBC, signed a letter of intent to proceed with the development of a consolidation plan.

The development of this plan will be under the direction of a steering committee comprised of the chairman and vice chairman of the boards and the chief executive officers of the consolidating banks. The consolidation of the two Farm Credit System entities is dependent upon an affirmative vote by their affiliated associations as well as the approval of the Farm Credit Administration, the banks' regulator. It is anticipated that the associations would vote on the consolidation early in 1995 with an effective date of April 1, 1995, if approved.

The two banks gave combined assets of $9.2 billion at March 31, 1994. With loans outstanding of more than $8 billion, the new bank would serve member associations in 15 states: Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, Delaware, Ohio, Tennessee, Kentucky, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

New General Manager For Northern Tier

MANSFIELD (Tioga Co.) — Dan Stay of Skaneateles, N.Y. has joined John Deere Dealership Northern Tier Implement, Inc. in Mansfield as general manager.

Stay brings a wide range of agribusiness experience to the dealership. Raised on a poultry farm near Flemington, N.J., Stay has been exposed to agriculture since birth. After completing studies at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y., he entered Agway's management training program. Later, he accepted a position as territory manager with Sperry-New Holland in Upstate New York. He was later transferred to Minnesota.

After four years with New Holland, Stay became owner and manager of two dealerships: an International Harvester dealership in Wadena, Minn. and a John Deere dealership in Pelican Rapids, Minn. Ten years ago he moved to upstate New York and began selling computer equipment to automotive and farm equipment dealers.

Bounty Celebration Brings Ag Tech Message To D.C.

ETTERS (York Co.) — The American Emu Association (AEA) and the Eastern Regional Emu Chapter (ERAC) combined efforts on September 17-18 and exhibited live birds at the fourth annual "Celebration of America's Bounty" held at the Claude Moore colonial Farm in McLean, Va. More than 4,100 people attended this event, including members of Congress, their staff and families, and executive branch officials.

EREC members Carol and Pete Heth of College Fund Emu Farm, Columbia, brought adult birds to the show one day, and four-month-old chicks. They also built a spectacular red and white barn facade to place in the booth space next to the emus.

Newly elected AEA President Bettye Odle was on hand to help greet attendees, as well as other EREC volunteers including the president of EREC and AEA board member, Bernie Redlawsk and his wife Judy of Bernie's Flying Emu Farm, Etters.

Pete Heth cooked and served emu meat to the "Bounty" goers, many of whom had never heard of an emu. Also assisting were Cindy Hitchcock from the Lord Willing Emu Farm, Culpeper, Va., and Rita Liptz from Rancho del REO, Bethesda, Md.

"This type of event gives the emu agribusiness a lot of national exposure, and we must continue to educate the public about the contribution emus will make to our society in the coming years," said Redlawsk.

Set against the counterpoint of a colonial farm of the 1700s, the Bounty Celebration is a family-oriented country fair designed to increase policy-makers understanding of the contributions made to modern society by advances in agricultural technology. Wayne Boutwell, 1994 Bounty Chairman and president of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, said, "Bounty Demonstrates how agricultural technology is improving people's lives and diets, helping preserve our environment, and contributing to the economic strength of this country. It sends a positive message to our national leaders and the media about the contributions of american agriculture.

There were 67 sponsoring organizations, and many showcased advances in agricultural research and technology.

While education is the main objective of the event, the Bounty Celebration is much more than a collection of trade-show style exhibits. Children participated in corn grinding, wheat weaving and bread making, took quizzes on nutrition, took a turn on the Internet and looked through microscopes at tobacco plants genetically engineered to produce drugs for humans. They also enjoyed hay rides, pony rides, a miniature ferris wheel, a merry-go-round, face painting, cotton candy and popcorn. Plenty of good food was available, including pork barbecue, catfish, oysters, apples, fruit juices, milk and numerous newly developed products such as no-fat ice cream.

Expansion Strategies Conference Set

WESTMINSTER, Md. — Are you a farmer, builder, consultant, lender, or other individual involved in dairy expansions?

If so, a valuable educational experience awaits you at "Expansion Strategies for Dairy Farms: Facilities and financial Planning," a national conference and trade show to be held at the Turf Valley Hotel in Ellicott City, Md., on December 8-9.

When making expansion decisions, dairy farmers must consider the long-term effects expansion will have on their finances, the health and productivity of their cows, the efficiency and comfort of their workers, and the surrounding environment. "Expansion Strategies for Dairy Farms" will bring together experts on these and other issues so that dairy farmers and others involved in expansion will be able to make sound decisions.

The conference will consist of 25 presentations from specialists in dairy facilities, agricultural lending, strategic planning, facilities planning, manure handling, environmental assessment, and construction. Presentations will focus on incremental expansion as a strategy to ensure that the debt load is reasonable when compared to anticipated cash flow.

For a brochure containing the complete conference program, a map to the Turf Valley Hotel, and a registration form, contact the Carroll County Cooperative Extension Office, 700 Agriculture Center, Westminster, MD 21157 or call (410) 848-4611 or (410) 875-2801.

JAMESWAY DIRECT XPRESS SYSTEM

NEW BELT FEEDERS & CONVEYORS

Big Capacity Delivery... With All The Advantages Of Dependable, Efficient, Low Profile Direct Drive Design!

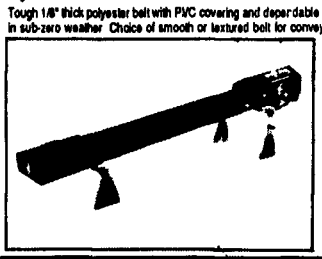
That's what farmers really appreciate about the new Jamesway family of Direct XPress Feeders and Conveyors. All models feature a dependable and efficient heavy duty industrial drive with enclosed oil bath and standard 1 2 or 3 H P C-faced motors. Our direct drive design eliminates pulleys jackshafts sprockets chains V-belts and shields. The low profile motor and drive can be mounted on either side for added installation versatility.

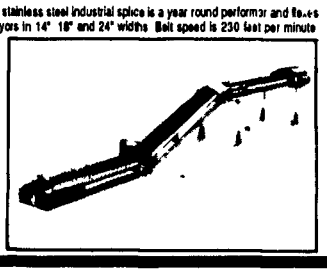
The Direct XPress family includes
- DXF 1400 Single or Divided Lot 14" Wide Belt Feeder 180' Maximum Length
- DXC 1400 14" Wide Belt Conveyor 180 Maximum Length
- DXC 1800 18" Wide Belt Conveyor 180 Maximum Length
- DXC 2400 24" Wide Belt Conveyor 124 Maximum Length.

"X" Sides Are Standard
All Direct XPress System models feature heavy 16-gauge weather resistant galvanized steel sides in 2 1/2 5 and 10' sections. We call them "X" sides because they are "X tra" strong and will span 20' between supports. And they're built to last and will stay looking good "X tra" long!

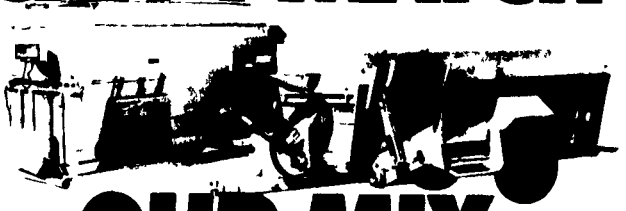
Do It Your Way!
Match your feeding layout and requirements with reversible elevating conveyors, inclines and declines without sacrificing capacity speed and uniform delivery. All inclines and declines are infinitely adjustable up to 30 degrees elevation for textured belt and up to 15 degrees elevation for smooth belt.

Tough 1/8" thick polyester belt with PVC covering and dependable stainless steel industrial splice is a year round performer and flexes in sub-zero weather. Choice of smooth or textured belt for conveyors in 14" 18" and 24" widths. Belt speed is 230 feet per minute.





YOU JUST CAN'T MATCH



OUR MIX

TMR Ruffage Master

These new Oswalt® four auger Model 200/250 mixers are designed to process and mix all feeds, including baled hay, into a fully-blended TMR better than anyone! The aggressive, notched, 20 -diameter, full-pitch, four auger mixing pattern, dual shear shelf design and exclusive, self-lubricating Tuff-Glide® liners help feed materials flow more freely, reducing horsepower requirements and virtually eliminating material hang-ups and dead spots. The end result: A better quality of mix! See your Oswalt Dealer today!

BARN CLEANERS

All-forged Hook-Link® chain... available on Super 300 and Super 500 barn cleaners
Extra thick steel at all wear points
IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy. It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off. It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only.
You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain on the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the contours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer.

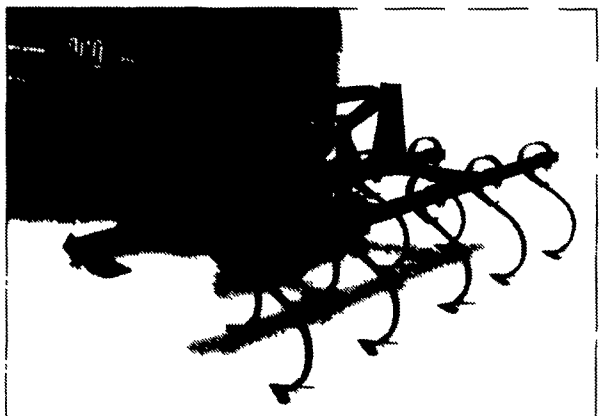
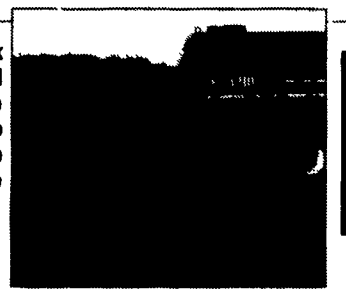
THE VAN DALE ADVANTAGE

SHALLOW TILLAGE APPLICATOR

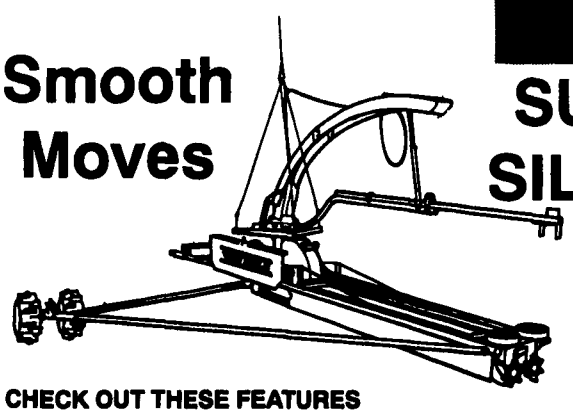


Van Dale's newest generation of liquid manure applicators is based on a simple, yet superior design. The Shallow Tillage Applicator consists of a double row of nine heavy duty cultivator shanks, evenly spaced, to provide maximum mixing action of top soil and liquid manure. All shanks are equipped with 9" sweeps to attack the soil and give consistent application and excellent soil agitation across a 12' width. The result is more manure nutrients available to plant roots because incorporation is done between 3" to 6" deep—ideal for crop utilization.



AN EFFECTIVE METHOD OF MAXIMIZING THE FERTILIZER VALUE OF LIQUID MANURE

Smooth Moves



SURFACE DRIVE SILO UNLOADERS

Smart farmers look to Van Dale for all the right moves when it comes to surface drive technology. Even frozen and hard packed silage and haylage are no match for Van Dale's Magnum and SD 2000. Now Van Dale offers even greater efficiency with its DURAGLIDE® Impeller available on the SD 2000. The Duraglide lessens gummy buildups, uses less power and provides faster and more reliable delivery.

Make a move in the right direction to Van Dale. Leaders of the pack since 1950!

CONSIDER THE MANY CONCRETE ADVANTAGES!
"A GOOD JULY RAIN GROWS A LOT OF GRAIN!"
With The Prospect Of A Good Corn Crop, It's Time For Many Producers To Make Decisions Concerning Storage.

about 10,000 bu. cap.
Shelled Corn
Poured Concrete
No Used Silos!
No Rebuilt Silos!
No Preowned Silos!!

In order to avoid hauling and drying costs, let us build a corn storage unit to preserve your valuable grain at 20%-30% moisture.

To keep your stored corn bright and yellow, you must protect it from oxygen and heat. Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel.

Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to pre-fab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement.

BEFORE SPENDING A LOT OF MONEY FOR ENERGY TO DRY YOUR CORN, YOU WILL DO WELL TO CONSIDER THE MANY ADVANTAGES OF OUR POURED CONCRETE SILOS...

To unload your corn, we can install the simple auger system, the Laidig 43 unloader, or the Flying Dutchman. Let's discuss the options, and what is best for your situation.

MUELLER

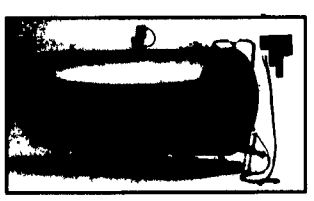
Offer

Scroll-Compressor Technology

New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment costs are not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller® milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31 000	$28 000
Cost of electricity @ 08 kW for 12 000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48 550	$50 850
Savings	$ 2 300

INTRODUCING...
SWEETCAKE 16NU
FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY
• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

Sweetcake Advantages
- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy
- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients

For Beef
- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

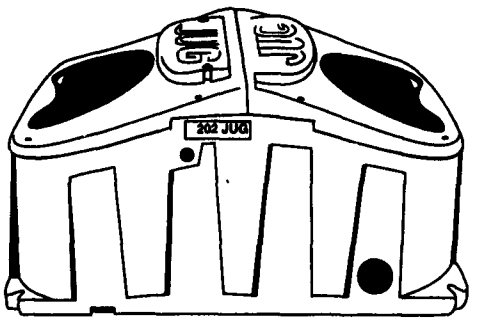
The JUG passes the "winter of '93-'94" test



Remember the c-c-c-c-c-cold winter of '93-'94? Wondering what the next one will bring and how your herd will fair?

Install the energy-efficient JUG to reduce concerns about freezing cattle fountains. Even in the coldest weather, the JUG performed, while the competition's waterers did not.

While the JUG's thick urethane insulation keeps the winter cold out, its patented drawtube recirculates water. Cooler bowl water exchanges with warmer reservoir water to keep bowl water open. The JUG will do its job.

A cold weather test conducted by an Iowa college during the winter of '94 demonstrated its energy efficiency. The JUG used only 108 kilowatts of electricity over four months for a cost of $8.64. A competitor's waterer used 816 kilowatts, costing $65.28, almost eight times as much. The test confirmed the JUG's energy efficiency.

No other waterer equals the Jug for clean, palatable water. Low maintenance, the JUG also meets the requirements for dairy approval.

Have you tried toasted grains?

Consider these advantages over traditional roasting methods:

- ◆ Consistent by-pass proteins and low moisture levels.
- ◆ Improved energy density of your rations.
- ◆ Excellent quality control.
- ◆ Exchange programs with feed mills.
- ◆ Economical storage, rolling and grinding available.
- ◆ We also buy corn and soybeans

INVITATION FOR BIDS

The Lancaster Conservation District is reopening a project for bids in East Donegal Township, for the construction of a Manure Storage System, to be funded in part by the Chesapeake Bay Program. Construction is expected to be completed during the month of November.

A site showing was held last year but no contractor-landowner agreement was signed during the 30 days that the bids were valid. Another site showing at the property is scheduled for 9:00 AM on October 26, 1994. Sealed bids will be accepted until the public bid opening in Room 6 of the Farm & Home Center at 9:00 AM on November 2, 1994.

As there are minor changes, new bid packages should be obtained from the Lancaster County Conservation District at:

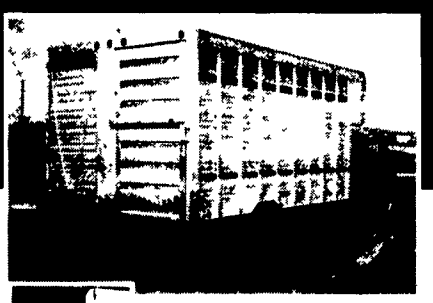
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

Forestry Conference Set

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Third Annual Community Forestry Conference will be held October 27–28 at the Days Inn Penn State.

This year's conference features many excellent speakers on maintaining and managing community trees and greenspace.

The conference also features practical information on tree care, tree management, and building community rapport.

If you are concerned about life and the environment in your community, this conference might be of interest.

For more information regarding cost, registration, and program content of the conference, contact Mary Johnston, (814) 865-8301.

Correction

In the October 8 issue of the newspaper, a story on the York Swine Show did not indicate that Donna and J.C. Strawbridge also had the reserve champion Hampshire boar. The senior champion and grand champion Yorkshire sow was also owned by Donna and J.C. Strawbridge.

• 16x7- Equipped With Fertilizer Attachment, Press Wheels, Grass Seeder, And Soybean Attachment

There's nothing more important to a crop than early even emergence To get it, you need accurate, even seeding

The 5300 has earned a reputation for its seeding precision, a function of its exclusive feed cup design and dependable disk openers And, to improve placement of seed, the opener drawbars are heavier than on previous models Press wheels and opener bearings are heavier for long life operation.

Along with accuracy, the 5300 gives you fast, high capacity seeding, so you spend less time refilling hoppers. Grass seeding attachment for 16x7.

STAY WARM THIS WINTER IN A COMFORTGARD CAB

The New Benchmark for visibility and comfort

When you're more comfortable, you're more productive. And the new ComfortGaurd cab is the most comfortable cab available
It's 40 percent larger
Visibility is better
You're more comfortable
A new air quality system keeps you cool Or warm
And it's the quietest cab around. The engine and transmission use special mounts to absorb vibration; curved glass deflects sound into acoustical padding, and the body side panels, doors, and windows are all separately sealed to keep out noise, dirt, and moisture.

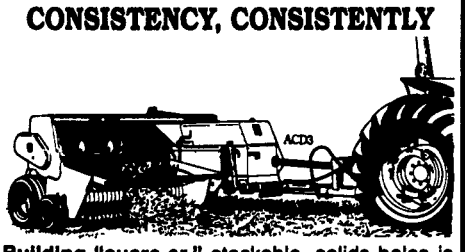
JOHN DEERE BALERS DELIVER CONSISTENCY, CONSISTENTLY



Building "suare-er," stackable, solids bales is what our proven hay control system is all about.

Once hay is inside the baler, a continuous-flow, floating auger moves the crop into a tapered chamber...precompressing the hay before it reaches the bale chamber. This makes John Deere bales denser, and more consistent. A difference you'll notice when stacking and feeding bale after John Deere bale.

Sale Ends Oct 31, 1994

Now is your best time to buy a new John Deere tractor

Through October 31, 1994, you can choose on of the following great deals when you buy any new John Deere tractor, from 40-to 400-hp:

- No interest until March 1, 1995 with the first payment as late as March 1, 1995
- or 6.9% variable rate financing for 60 months with the first payment as late as March 1, 1995
- or attractive lease terms for 60 month
- or cash back

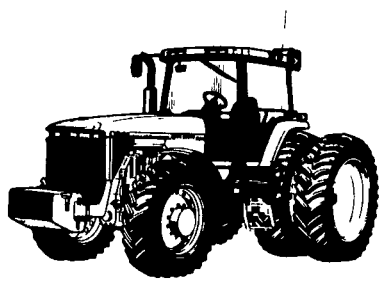
Hurry in - this offer ends on October 31.

Test a new 8000 Series Tractor

Discover all-new power, performance, and control

- Feel the high-torque power of the new 8.1 and 7.6 L engine with exclusive electronic engine control.
- Put all major tractor functions in the palm of your hand with the revolutionary new CommandARM (armrest module).
- Experience unprecedented visibility.
- Shift the ultra-efficient 16-speed Power shift transmission.
- Turn tighter than any other high-horsepower MFWD tractor.
- Set hydraulic flow rate and time from your seat...on-the-go.



BALES HOLD THEIR SHAPE... AND QUALITY... 'TIL FEEDING TIME

It's simple. You get uniform bale density throughout the bale-density you need for solid, stand-up-tall bales. Bales that hold their shape and therefore, preserve hay quality.

It's Getting Late!
Will your old combine get your crop before winter?

Our RECONDITIDONED COMBINES are Ready and Able . . .

(4) Things to know before buying a USED COMBINE...

1. Axial Flow Combines Reconditioned by Hoober's Repair Specialists go to the field and work. 5,000 plus hours does not mean WORN OUT.
2. Axial Flow Combines Reconditioned by Hoober's Repair Specialists are sold with warranty through the 1994 Harvest Season.
3. (in most cases) Axial Flow Combines can be upgraded to the latest technologies (Specialty Rotors; Cross Flow Fan)
4. An Axial Flow Combine purchased from Hoober is backed by (7) Factory Trained Combine Service Specialists and the largest Combine Parts inventory East of Ohio.

Large Selection of Case IH, IH and John Deere Corn Heads & Platforms

SPECIAL COMBINE FINANCING (for Approved Credit) - 5.9% for 48 or 60 Months Depending on The Amount Financed with CASE Credit.

What good is a combine without people behind it?

HOOBER PEOPLE KNOW

case IH axial flow combines!

You can't go anywhere in Pennsylvania and get combine service support like you get at HOOBERS.

HOOBER has:

1) (5) factory-trained mechanics who work full time on combines - 2 have worked on combines since IH introduced the 1st axial-flow in 1977.
2) (5) combine service trucks, fully-equipped with welders, air compressors, hoists, combine parts so they can go to the problem and fix it fast.
3) A service manager just for combines. Don Carper has managed Hoober's combine service department for 15 years.

Don Carper

IT'S TIME FOR YOU TO TRY A HOOBER-RECONDITIONED COMBINE!

Hoober's reconditioned axial flow combines aren't finished after 1,500 hours, or 2,500 hours, or 3,500 hours or 4,500 hours or (?) hours!

Looking for a better combine?

Look to Massey Ferguson first.

Ever since Massey Ferguson introduced the very first self-propelled combine, they've been the preferred choice of some of the world's most demanding customers.

It's a legacy of which we're extremely proud. And it's an obligation we take very seriously. The new MF 8450 and 8460 combines are a proud addition to this Massey Ferguson tradition for quality, performance and reliability.

Plus they offer exciting new features that demonstrate the continuing Massey Ferguson commitment to providing you with the best value in combines.

TODAY'S MAHONING OUTDOOR FURNACE WILL HEAT YOUR HOME, BARN, POOL, BUSINESS, GREENHOUSE, & DOMESTIC DRINKING WATER TOO! WE CAN CUSTOMIZE A UNIT TO FIT YOUR PERSONAL NEEDS!

Safe • Efficient • Durable

Look at what makes the Mahoning Outdoor Furnace a great purchase...
CLEAN. All dirt, dust, fuel and fire is outside. No chance of chimney fire or flue fire ELIMINATES AIR POLLUTION IN THE HOME. Smoke, fuel odors and other causes of allergies are outside the home
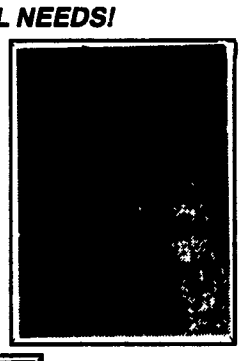
SAFE FOR MOBILE HOMES. Eliminates danger that other furnaces contained in a mobile home can cause
NO DANGER OR EXPLOSION. This is a zero pressure furnace.
ENCLOSED COMPONENTS. The circulation pumps and electrical connections are enclosed in an insulated cabinet on the back of the Mahoning Outdoor Furnace
ADAPTABLE. Install our furnace in any forced air heating or hot water system

All Mahoning Units Come Installed with Grates Including An External Shaker Handle



★ The only outdoor furnace made with a Catalytic Combustor. ★

Mahoning Catalytic Combustor Will Help In the Following Ways:
1. Burn one cord of wood which equals 166 gallons of oil.
2. Your fuel source becomes enormous inexhaustible and poses few risks to public safety.
3. Over all efficiency of 85%, which means the heat no longer goes up the chimney!
4. You get more heat from a log compared to the non-cat furnace.
5. More burn time - less reloading time!
6. Zap 90% of pollutants, made from fire source.
7. Saves you a lot of money!
8. User friendly, emits no smoke!

All Mahoning Multi-Fuels Can Burn Coal, Wood, Oil, Propane, Natural Gas

Proudly Built in Clearfield County, Pennsylvania

"Federal law goes far enough," he says.

Crime laws should put focus on criminals, not guns, Tom Ridge told folks at clay bird shoot in Northumberland county. Here he visits with Dr. Charles Bolgiano, left, executive vice president of Unified Sportsmen of Pennsylvania, and Vernon Ross, Ridge sportsmen advisor.

by Keith Masser

The gun debate evaporated for me a couple of Saturdays ago at Martz Game Farm near Dalmatia. Some sportsmen put on a shoot, with guest of honor ex-infantryman Tom Ridge.

This guy from Erie learned about guns the hard way, as a mud slogging noncom assigned to a rifle platoon in Vietnam. His best friend was a M16 semi automatic rifle.

And it was in a firefight with the Vietcong that Tom won his Bronze Star for Valor.

Is he a gunner? You bet.

I like most of Ridge's farm policies. But that day at Martz's I wanted to talk firearms. Mine and my neighbors.

So there I was, potato farmer Keith Masser, shooting clay birds with the Republican candidate for governor.

How does he really stand on gun control? I picked up his thinking in bits and pieces.

1. We must take a tougher stance on crime, Ridge says. That's basically why he voted for that federal crime bill.

2. Ridge will veto any gun ban that crosses his desk as governor.

"The federal law goes far enough," Ridge told me. "I will not tolerate any further control of the law-abiding citizens right to own firearms. You have my commitment on this."

One Ridge priority as governor: An instantaneous check system to prevent sale of firearms to criminals.

Both sportsmen and the National Rifle Association support this.

And guess what? Ridge has the strong support of Dr. Alan S. Krug, NRA's head man in Pennsylvania.

Krug has no time for Mark Singel. "He's the leader of anti-gun forces," Krug says.

Lou Hoffman, editor and publisher of Pennsylvania Sportsman, also supports Ridge. "If you hunt," he says in an editorial, "you must vote for Tom Ridge – it's that simple."

And Ridge has won a ringing endorsement from Unified Sportsmen of Pennsylvania with its 90,000 members.

Potato grower Keith Masser, Schuylkill county, had chance to talk gun control with Ridge at shoot.

Ridge can count on my support, too. Here's a guy who had an A rating from NRA and voted against all anti-gun bills in Congress for 12 years.

I'll stick with Tom Ridge.

Make Fall Lawn Clean-up A Snap!

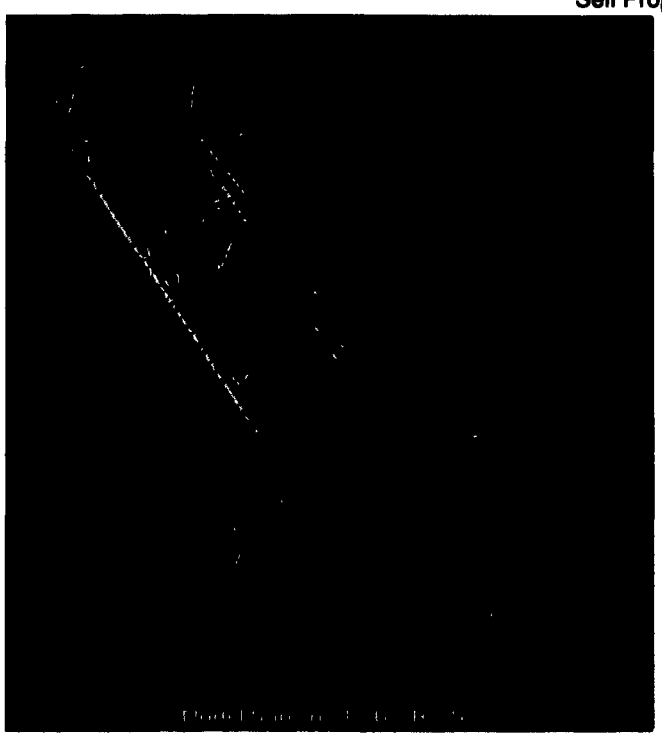
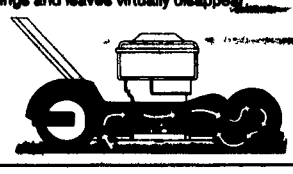
21" MULCHING MOWER

Push and Self Propelled



Engineered like no other lawn mower in the world!

The new McLane mulching mower features a high-lift steel blade and a new deck configuration which create a super vacuum that holds grass blades upright for maximum cutting efficiency. The clippings are forced through a special recirculation chamber and down into the mower path for recutting. This recutting process is repeated over and over again until the clippings are pulverized into a fine mulch. This mulch is then driven deep into the lawn, returning nutrients and moisture to the soil. Grass clippings and leaves virtually disappear.



FEATURES:

- Quick-Release controls assure safe operation
- Single lever cutting height control adjusts instantly
- Variable speed throttle
- 5 HP Quantum Engine

Challenge Of The Breeds Highlights KILE Horse Show

HARRISBURG (DAUPHIN CO.) — An evening of horse competition delighted the crowd at the Challenge of the Breeds Show, a highlight of the 38th annual Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE) at the State Farm Show Complex.

Sponsored by Glatfelter Insurance Group of York, the Challenge of the Breeds involves representatives of eight invited horse breeds showing before a judge in six events: English, pleasure, hunter hack, pleasure driving, western pleasure, western riding, and an exciting barrel race.

Thirteen horses competed to become "Sovereign Champion." After tabulating the results of the entries in each event,Watch Me Winsome, a 9 year old Quarter Horse ridden by owner Susan Yohn of Grantville, emerged as the winner. Watch Me Winsome had won four of the six events: hunter hack, pleasure driving, western pleasure, and western riding.

"(Watch Me Winsome) will retire and become a brood mare," Yohn said after being awarded the championship banner. "Quarter Horses are an excellent all-around type of animal. . .a good family horse."

Although there has been some upward movement in the cattle markets over the past few months, the movement has been slow and erratic. There have been several developments the past few weeks that should help individual cattle feeders and the rest of the industry cope with the current market/price situation.

Feed prices and cost of gain should be less—in most parts of the state the corn crop looks good. We have some dry places in the northeast, but generally there should be an excellent corn grain or corn silage yield, which should reduce feed costs. One concern now in some parts of the state is that the amount of moisture we have had might, if it continues, interfere with corn silage harvest. According to most experts, corn silage is still the cheapest cattle feed and can produce more pounds of beef per acre than any other crop.

The National Cattlemen magazine in August had an excellent article. "A Simplified View of the Market," published by Cattle-Fax. To summarize, it traced the current cattle cycle:

• Cow Herd—Feeder calf prices have been fairly profitable the last few years for the cow-calf producer, which encouraged expansion of the nation's cow herd. The beef-cow inventory was 1 million head larger in early 1994 than a year earlier. Increases in cow numbers will continue at least through 1996.

• Trend in beef production turns upward—Through the first half of 1994, total beef output was up 7 percent. This is the first significant increase in about 8 years. Increased numbers of cattle slaughtered was not the only factor that brought about this increase—heavier carcass weights contributed significantly to the increased beef tonnage this year. It is hard for any individual cattle feeder to follow the advice "keep current with the markets and sell when the cattle are ready." But the reason for this is to keep additional carcass weight per animal, and the increased fat the heavier cattle bring with them, off the market so it might recover more quickly.

• Total meat supplies also increasing—Poultry supplies are increasing as well as beef—although output of pork only increased modestly compared to a year ago. However, there is expected to be more growth in pork supplies over the next few years. Competition between the moats will continue to intensify.

• Slow growth expected for beef demand—True demand for beef increased markedly from 1987 through 1991, but has increased only at a modest pace the last few years. Fortunately, export demand for U.S. beef has increased since the 1980s and should continue to increase by 5-10 percent annually through the mid- to late-1990s (more on exports later).

• Outlook for industry profits—Historically, profitability for cattle feeders is greatest in the initial stages of expansion of the nation's cow herd, and of course cattle feeders are the first to suffer losses in a down-trend market. Cow-calf producers are the last to feel the pressures of a lower-trending market and also last to benefit from up-trend markets.

The kind of cycles that we've seen over the last 50 years will probably continue although some restrictions by lending agencies had thought to "even out" some of these cycles. As indicated, the other major cost in cattle feeding, besides the purchase of the calf, is feed cost—which hopefully this year will allow cattle feeders to recoup some of the losses suffered over the last year.

• Export situation looks bright—There are several countries which might double imports of U.S beef products in 1994. Although exports do have an effect—it's limited—because only about 6% of the U.S beef production is exported. One bright spot on the export front is the good possibility that the European Union (EU), which has effectively closed their markets to U.S. beef imports by banning beef produced with growth promotants, may enter into more discussion. NCA has petitioned Secretary of Agriculture Espy through 25 Senators for discussion of the EU on the U.S. beef import ban. The General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) offers such an opportunity. There is also renewed use of information that shows that the use of implanted growth promotants in cattle is unquestionably safe from a public health standpoint.

Beef promotion/advertising more important than ever: Nationally, internationally, as well as within Pennsylvania—there's more effort being exerted to increase meat demand and consumption. The Pennsylvania Beef Council has initiated several programs which should stimulate beef purchases.

The Beef Industry Council and Cattle-Fax reported that advertising of beef by retailers has increased about eight percent compared to 1993. This increased advertising was encouraged by the national beef organizations. Beef promotion programs can't solve all the market problems. We need to remember that we don't know where beef prices would be without these programs.

Good news—steak and hamburger: Steak is still the highest-ranked food according to recent surveys. More than 80 percent of American families own barbecues, and meat is the major item used in barbecuing. Recent Beef Industry Council surveys show that 70 percent of Americans eat at fast-food restaurants—and hamburger is by far the leading food served at these restaurants.

Legislative items watched closely: Both on the national and state levels, there are many legislative issues and initiatives that need to be addressed. There's so many that they cannot all be listed, but regardless of the segment of the beef industry in which you are involved—the National and Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Associations are monitoring and attempting to gain legislation (or interpretations of existing legislation) which will benefit every segment of the cattle industry—from conception through the consumer.

It's been a busy summer: There's been a lot of activity—the Field Days and Ag Progress Days—and we want to express thanks to all the volunteers who played a big role this summer in making these activities successful. Planning continues for next year.

Entries Due For Beef Project

WEST SALEM, Ohio — Cattle producers who want to experience retained ownership and collect carcass data are invited to enter the 1995 Certified Angus Beef (CAB) Program Value Discovery Project. Entry forms are available from Terra Thorpe, the Project's coordinator, at (303) 980-6393. Entries are due November 1.

Each entry must consist of five or six steers, which were worn between December 1, 1993, and April 30, 1994. Steers weighing between 550 and 850 pounds must arrive at Decatur County Feed Yard, Oberlin, Kan., December 5-7. All steers must be sired by registered Angus bulls and be predominantly black (at least 51 percent of the hair coat is black.)

The CAB Program, in cooperation with the American Angus Association, will also sponsor a Junior Division of the Project. As cattle producers of the future, junior members can get a head start on preparing for value-based marketing by participating in the Value Discovery Project and learning more about their cattle.

Only members of the National Junior Angus Association, whose birthdates are from January 1. 1973, through December 31, 1984, may enter the junior competition. A junior may enter as many individual lots of three or four steers as desired, and a state may enter as many state group lots of six to eight steers as desired. State entries must contain entries of three to eight junior.

More than $15,000 in prize money and premiums will be awarded in the categories of feedlot performance, retail yield, carcass value, and acceptance into the CAB Program.

The CAB Program was established in 1978 by the American Angus Association to provide consumers with a consistent, high quality beef product excelling in tenderness, juiciness, and flavor.

During fiscal '93 more than 125 million pounds of Certified Angus Beef™ product were sold to consumers in restaurant and retail outlets worldwide. This amount is expected to reach 165 million pounds during fiscal 1994, a 31.5 percent increase and program record.

Christmas Tree Pest Course Set

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — A Christmas Tree Pest Control Short Course will be held at the Days Inn Penn State in State College on March 13 and 14.

The course will be given by personnel from the departments of entomology, horticulture, and plant pathology of the College of Agricultural Sciences, The Pennsylvania State University, Ohio State University, and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Instructors will include the following: Dr. Paul Heller, professor of entomology, Penn State; Dr. James Hilton, associate professor of agriculture engineering, Penn State; Kerry Hoffman, pesticide education coordinator, Penn State; Dr. Larry Kuhns, professor of ornamental horticulture, Penn State; Rayanne Lehman, entomologist, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture; Dr. Craig Weidensaul, professor of forest pathology, Ohio State University; and Nancy Wenner, senior research assistant, plant pathology, Penn State.

The course will consist of lectures, discussion sessions, and hands-on laboratory work, and will emphasize the diagnosis and control of the common weed, insect, and disease problems affecting Christmas tree production in the Northeast.

Course enrollment will be limited to the first 100 who register. For additional information and a registration form, write to: Christmas Tree Short Course, Penn State, 306 Agricultural Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802-2601, (814) 865-8301.

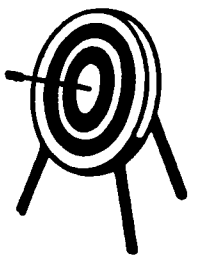
YOUR PROFITABILITY IS THE MARK



SCHNUPP'S GRAIN ROASTING IS RIGHT ON TARGET!

More than 20 years of experience research and development in our manufacturing plant, and at farming operations around the world.

- The latest technology for safe, clean and easy roasting
- Uniform treatment of your grain.
- Convenient steeping process
- Accurate, consistent bypass levels

THE BEST NEVER RESTS!

Research and development is still the best way to know the truth about grain roasting.

That's why we base our facts on experiences with real animals who proved to be more profitable when they were fed roasted grain.

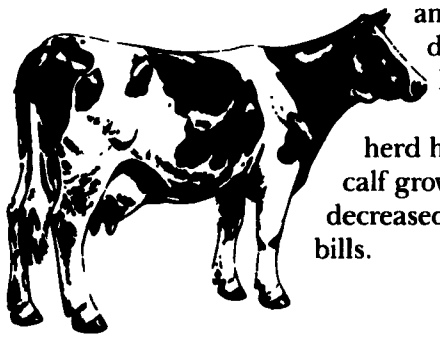
So let's keep going with the best - the facts.

FACT

When your soybeans, corn or other grains pass through the open flame in our roaster, they are given a flavor that even the most discriminating animals will enjoy.

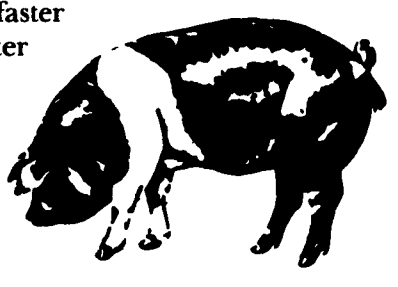
FACT

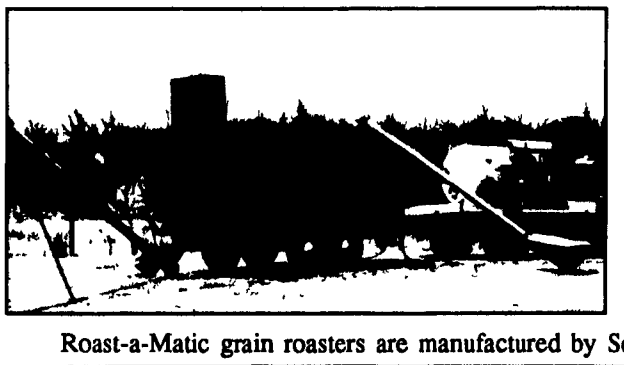
Dairy farmers are reporting increased butterfat and milk production with less feed; improved herd health; faster calf growth; and decreased veterinary bills.



FACT

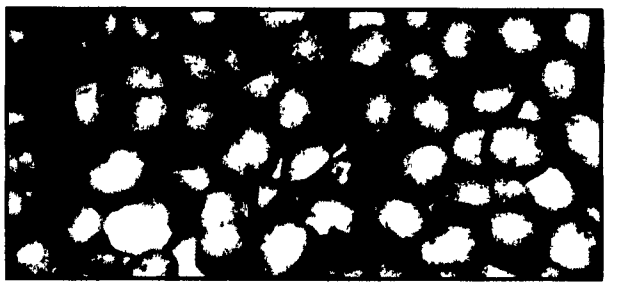
Hog farmers are reporting more healthier piglets per sow; faster weight gain; better yield and grade; and a reduction of health problems and feed refusal.





FACT

The oil and lecithin of your whole beans are retained to give you more total digestible nutrients than soybean meal.



FACT

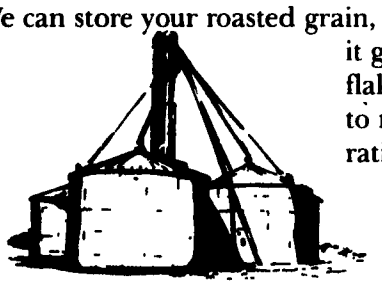
Toxic enzymes are removed; molds are destroyed; T.D.N. is increased; and starches are turned into sugar for energy.

FACT

When we roast your grain on your farm, you control the shrinkage. We give back to you what you want – all of it.

FACT

We can store your roasted grain, and then have it ground, rolled, flaked or crimped to meet your feed ration needs.



When you want the facts about grain roasting, call . . .

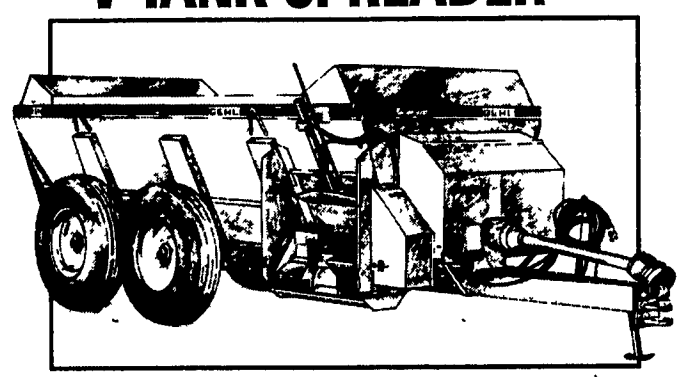
GEHL

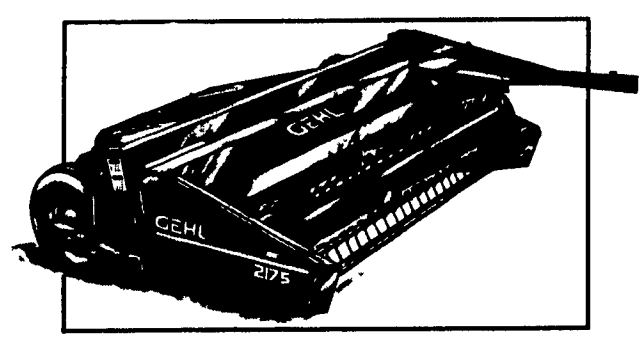
NORTH AMERICA'S #1
V-TANK SPREADER



The Gehl Scavenger® II is the "original" V-Tank spreader and still the best. It delivers outstanding performance in all types of manure, from liquid to semi-solid to pen-packed or even frozen manure.

- Patented square-tube auger – Hydraulically powers up and down to break up solid material.
- Variflo discharge – Spreads smoothly and evenly for complete application control.
- Five models – From 192 to 596 bushel heaped capacities to match your operation.
- 10-Year warranty – Against rust-through on the tank for peace of mind.
- Options include – Truck-mounted units and hydraulic lids.

COMMON SENSE
MOWER CONDITIONERS



Gehl mower conditioners are "common sense" machines because they're packed with sensible features.

- Full-width intermeshing conditioning rolls with intermittent ribs deliver thorough, uniform conditioning.
- Simple sickle drive with pivot-arm design provides more cutting force.
- Fewer moving parts than competitive models for worry-free performance.
- Three-point flotation support protects the cutterbar from rocks and uneven terrain.
- 9'2" cutting width.

DAYCO SUPER II V-BELTS

Now there's a belt that beats the toughest drive problems.

Many heavy-duty industrial machines demand more than conventional wrapped v-belts can stand. Their punishing drives make ordinary belts crack under pressure. The result: unnecessary and expensive downtime.

Now there's a solution to the consistent costly problem of replacing or retensioning belts. It's the revolutionary new Super II™ v-belt from Dayco. The Super II belt was designed specifically for the most brutal applications. And its performance blows the cover off conventional wrapped belts.

In heavy torque, high horsepower and extreme shock load comparisons, it's not even a contest. The Super II v-belt is stronger, more flexible, and lasts far longer.

Innovative design & construction provide extra strength and stamina

The secret to the Super II v-belt's durability is its unique construction. The central position of the polyester cords in the neoprene rubber core provides greater strength, balance and longer life. Multiple fabric plies, top and bottom, enhance flexibility. And Dayco's unique raw-edged construction gives it a better grip for controlled slippage.

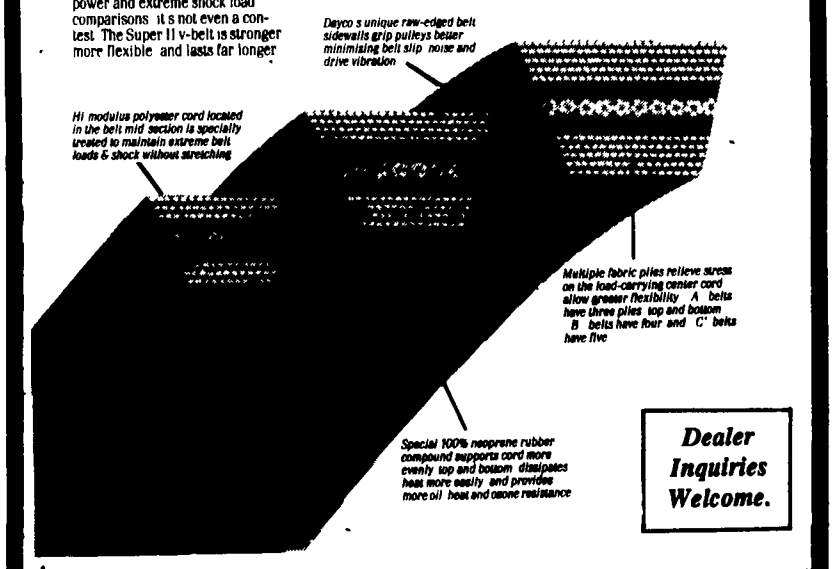
Test the Super II v-belt on your toughest drive

The Super II v-belt was field tested for two years on the most severe applications: rock quarry shaker screens, lumber mill tree debarkers and pipe descalers. In every case, it outperformed conventional wrapped belts by a wide margin. But the only test that really counts is the one you do on your own equipment.

Try the Super II belt on your toughest drive problem. You'll be so amazed by its incredible endurance that you'll want to put it on all your drives. In fact, we're so sure you'll be pleased with the performance of the Super II v-belt that in the unlikely event you're not satisfied, we'll refund the original purchase price, or replace it with a conventional wrapped v-belt.

The Super II v-belt from Dayco. The super problem solver.



Dayco's unique raw-edged belt sidewalls grip pulleys better, minimizing belt slip, noise and drive vibration
Hi modulus polyester cord located in the belt mid section is specially treated to maintain extreme belt loads & shock without stretching Multiple fabric plies relieve stress on the load-carrying center cord allow greater flexibility. A belts have three plies, top and bottom. B belts have four and C belts have five
Special 100% neoprene rubber compound supports cord more evenly top and bottom, dissipates heat more easily and provides more oil, heat and ozone resistance

CARL ERWAY'S COMPLETE MILKING HERD AND CLOSE HEIFER AUCTION
* DUE TO LOSS OF BARN BY FIRE ****

WED., OCT. 26, 11:00 A.M.
ULYSSES (POTTER CO.) PENNA

Sale to be held for convenience at Jerry Pirrung's Barn on the Loucks Mill Road just off Main Street out of Ulysses. Use Rte. 49 from Lawrenceville or Coudersport; or U.S. Rte. 6 from Wellsboro to West Pike, (5 miles west of Galeton) then follow Ulysses-Loucks Mills sign to farm.

101 Interstate Tested Holsteins 101

This is a parlor trained herd that is used to freestall or tiestall barns and can adapt to any barn setup! The herd has been under a closely managed herd health program and feet are trimmed three times a year The cattle have excellent udders, feet and legs! This is a year around herd with many just fresh or due shortly! These are big cows that love to milk and sell only because of the tragic barn loss Come here for cows that wouldn't be for sale under any other circumstances! This has been a very profitable herd for the Erway Family! Catalogs at ringside

ALSO SELLING For the Joe Sykora Estate, Germania, PA 12 Open Holstein Heifers, 8 head 4 to 8 months vaccinated calves and 4 yearlings

PURINA SALUTES TOM and TOMMY STROUSE

The Strouses herd consists of 70 holsteins located in Northumberland county. The feeding program includes a small amount of hay, haylage, and grain; which is delivered by a computer track feeder. The major ingredients in the grain mix are shelled corn, roasted soybeans, and PURINA HI-E 31% UIP concentrate. The Strouses first fed Purina in July, 1988. Since then, the results are as follows:

DATE	# COWS	LBS. MILK	RHA	%BF	LBS. FAT	DIM
7/88	61	60.2	19890	3.9	768	193
8/89	61	66.6	21718	3.8	828	188
8/90	62	67.5	23097	3.7	855	181
8/92	62	73.1	23233	3.7	867	180
8/94	68	75.5	23879	3.8	918	172

TOM'S COMMENTS:

"BEFORE WE STARTED WITH PURINA, WE WERE AT A STAND STILL."

PURINA MILLS would like to thank the Strouses for sharing their records, and wishes them continued success.
